Residents honor town's veterans

Veterans of foreign wars, color guards, marching bands, local officials, and civic organizations paraded through the center of town to mark Memorial Day, in remembrance of those who died for our country.

Hundreds of residents gathered at the Honor Roll in the center of town as the parade stopped and many spoke of the Winchester residents whose names are etched on the monument in front of Town Hall. At the May 31 ceremony, the speakers stressed the need for the country to never forget the honored dead who made the ultimate sacrifice so that others could live in freedom.

"I think the essence of today is captured on the monument behind us: 'Dedicated to those men and women who served their town and country during its greatest hours of peril,'" said Town Moderator John Sullivan.

Sullivan said one important fact that is often forgotten is that 80 percent of the people whose names are on the Honor Roll were between the ages of 18-25 when they fought for their country. Sullivan said America has shown its "ability and courage to defend freedom", but he said it should never forget

Town Meeting passes school budget easily

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

Town Meeting passed the school budget with some debate but with recommendations for approval from both the Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee.

The school budget was the source of much discussion over the past few months as the School Committee struggled to winnow it to come in line with the town manager's proposed budget. Selectmen Chairman Peter VanAken voiced strong support for the compromise budget, ironed out by the selectmen, town manager, superintendent and School Committee. Selectmen voted 5-0 in favor, and Matthew Stone, chairman of the Finance Committee, reported his board's vote 5-4 in favor.

The budget, as amended, passed funding of $13,885,000 for schools for Fiscal 1994 adding $344,000 to the Finance Committee's recommended budget of $13,540,819. The additional resources would provide for level services and would allow the School Department $12,085,555 for personal services, $1,735,925 for other expenses and $63,526 for equipment.

"On Monday I asked for a postponement, and the reason was because I expected to have more information about state aid for education and I did," said School Committee Chairman Jerilyn Heinold. She said the version of the education bill recently out of a conference committee leaves questions over how much per pupil will be allocated to the cities and towns. Heinold said the bill projected out at $199 a student while Sen. Charles Shannon said it would probably come in around $50. She added that other sources are suggesting it could come in as low as $25 per pupil.

"So in 24 hours we went from $430,000 in aid to $150,000 in aid to $75,000 in aid. I stopped listening at that point," said Heinold.

Therefore, Heinold said cuts would have to be made if aid comes in under last year's formula at $100 per student or $289,000. She said the budget was prepared with $0 penciled in for state aid because it was an unknown and the School Committee budget would not provide for level service if state aid came in at $50 per student.

Any monies over and above $289,000 would be used to fund capital projects at the school and a depleted textbook budget.

Finance Committee member Robert Beattie disagreed with this assessment of the financial picture and read excerpts from the congressional bill which he said translated into Winchester receiving an equal amount of aid this year as it received last year. Beattie asked Town Meeting to support the Finance Committee's recommended budget and said he opposed any additional funding for the schools.

School Committee Chairman Jerilyn Heinold detailed the reasons needed to amend the budget and bringing down class sizes at the elementary schools topped the list. Heinold said the addition of 3.7 teachers would eliminate the need for split classes and bring class sizes to a system-wide average of 20.0.

In addition, the position of Asst. Superintendent Curriculum & Instruction would be funded in the FY'94 and some money would be added for the purchase of textbooks.

"The main reason we need more teachers is the population is increasing, therefore to maintain level service we have to add teachers," said Heinold. She said support for one person to direct the curriculum was system-wide. Heinold said that two of the elementary schools went through an accreditation process and concern was expressed that there was no 'system-wide curriculum development' by the Star files complaint alleging violation of Open Meeting Law

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

The Winchester Star filed a complaint on May 27 with the District Attorney's Open Meeting Law Team asking for an investigation into the process that was followed by the Board of Assessors' in its appointment of Mark A. Lombardi.

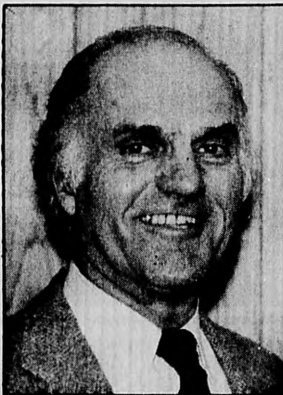

The complaint alleges that the Open Meeting Law was violated when conversations took place outside the posted meetings on the appointment of Lombardi. The complaint will be investigated by Assistant District Attorney Catherine Sullivan.

In response to the debate over the hiring, a motion was made by a Town Meeting member to reconsider the assessor's budget. That motion will be the first order of business on June 3, when Town Meeting reconvenes.

On May 25, the Board of Assessors voted to appoint Lombardi on a consultant basis for a period of three months. Assessor Susan Lippman challenged the appointment, saying it was bad policy to hire someone that the town had voted out of office. At a prior meeting on May 18, a motion to hire Lombardi as assistant assessor was defeated when Chairman Eric Josephson refused to second it, saying the position

A former member of the Board of Selectmen has been appointed by Gov. William Weld to serve a five-year term on the Winchester Housing Authority.

Governor makes housing authority appointment

Francis Sopper, who lost an election bid in 1992 to become a Housing Authority member, has been appointed by the governor to fill the position previously held by Chairman John Suhrbier.

The Housing Authority, a municipal-state authority, has four of its board members elected by local voters and one appointed by the governor, through the Executive Office of Communities and Development.

Suhrbier, who received the gubernatorial appointment from Michael Dukakis, told the Star he wrote Weld that he was not seeking another five-year term when his expired on May 18.

Suhrbier said it is customary for the governor to confer with a town's legislative delegation and local authorities before filling the housing spot.

Some local authorities, however, were surprised they were not consulted on the selection or even made aware that it had taken place. Suhrbier told the Star that he thought it would "take some time" before the governor made his pick and conducted a background check. "As far as I know, the ap-

Thieves steal rugs, hold owner captive

By Stephen Olmieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Police are searching for home intruders who held an elderly woman captive in her residence as they stole 24 of her Oriental rugs.

According to police reports, around 2 a.m. on May 29 at least two intruders entered a West Side residence to steal the rugs. One intruder kept the elderly woman in a first-floor room, where she had been watching television, while a person or persons went upstairs and took the rugs. Police said there appears to be nothing else missing from the residence.

The 24 rugs taken were of various sizes and types, according to reports. Police said they have not yet determined the monetary value of the rugs.

The suspects did not restrain, harm, or use a weapon to keep the woman captive in the room, according to police.

The woman told police she never saw the person or persons who removed the rugs; she described the man who kept her in her room as a white male with short dark curly hair, between 5'8" - 5'10" in height, approximately 20-30 years old and wearing a blue denim jacket. The woman told police the man was wearing a scarf to cover the lower portion of his face.

Detective Lt. James Pierce said police have no leads in the case. Police are not releasing the method of break-in or address, except to say it occurred on the West side.

A rash of Oriental rug thefts have swept through suburban Boston over the last three years. An Oriental Rug Task Force, consisting of police from 13 suburban forces, was formed in January to share information and crime patterns between departments in an attempt to combat rug theft. For years, the thieves have bypassed computers, televisions, and stereo equipment as they move furniture aside, roll up the Oriental rugs, and walk away with them. The rugs are valued because they are difficult to identify, expensive, and easily dumped on an international black market.

Town Meeting says yes to beginning study of library overhaul

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

The Library Trustees will begin to study what it will take to upgrade its facilities following the approval by Town Meeting of $77,000 for engineering and architectural services.

Passage of the article went swiftly and without prolonged debate following a favorable recommendation from the Board of Selectmen on the funding for a major study of the library plans. Selectmen Chairman Peter VanAken said Town Meeting might have been debating the entire $3.2 million renovation of the library if the town didn't have to consider funding the construction of a filtration plant estimated to come in at $6 million.

Chairman of the Library Trustees Deborah Pavelle said the funding allows the library to continue to move forward and will not delay the renovation that has been in the planning stages for two years.

"We expect to be standing with you in November with firm numbers," she said. Pavelle said the money would help the library, "firm up the design."

"We are a town that uses its library," said Pavelle pointing to over 200,000 visits last year.

In addition, the article allows the town to pursue alternative means of financing for the comprehensive project, "The Board of Selectmen will be working with the state Legislature to seek a home rule petition..." said Pavelle. VanAken explained the proposed funding mechanism to be explored as one much like a home mortgage with depreciating interest. VanAken said the town would also begin to check out other means of bankrolling the project such as the sale of the property known as the Woburn Loop.

Library Director Lynda Wills said the amended article would allow study of the best way to accomplish its goal of bringing the town into compliance with the American with Disabilities Act. The act requires that buildings be made accessible by January, 1995. In addition, Wills said the study would address other ongoing problems at the library.

Other issues Wills noted included: safety issues, upgrading the physical plant, with particular attention to the electrical, mechanical and plumbing systems, all with an eye toward maximizing the use of space. Wills detailed problems with access due to heavy library doors and poor lighting in the stacks area and stairways. "We will capture wasted space with a new heating and electrical system," added Wills.

A VIEW FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE'S WHITE MOUNTAINS

Blue waters, great fun

By Dick Hamilton

Think summer and you'll think water: lakes and streams where you can boat, fish and swim...and if you have kids, waterparks with water slides and wavepools.

If you're thinking of boating, why not think of cruising the biggest lake in New Hampshire, Lake Winnepesaukee, on the biggest ship, the 230 foot m/s Mount Washington. Built in 1888 and originally used as a cruise ship on Lake Champlain, the "Mount" was launched on Lake Winnepesaukee in 1942, replacing an earlier sidewheel steamship. In 1982-83 the ship was lengthened by 24 feet, refurbished and rechristened the m/s Mount Washington.

It's really a pleasure to relax and enjoy the first class comfort, service and wonderful views of the lake and mountains during the 50 mile cruise. Since dining is a part of any cruise, a breakfast and luncheon buffet is offered daily, and a Champagne Brunch on Sunday.

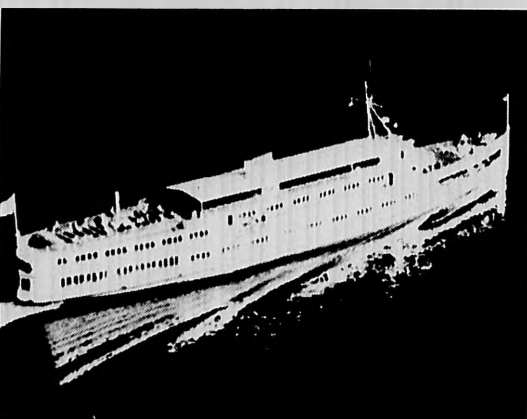

For a very special evening, there are also moonlight dinner/

The best deal at Attitash Alpine Slide & Waterslides in Bartlett must be the all-day special which gives you unlimited rides on the alpine slide and two half-hours of sliding on the waterslides...a great combinadance cruises in July and August, and special theme cruises on selected dates throughout the season.

For those who prefer to take a more active approach to the water, there are hundreds of rivers, lakes and streams, great swimming holes and terrific fishing spots throughout the White Mountains...as well as a number of waterslides, too.

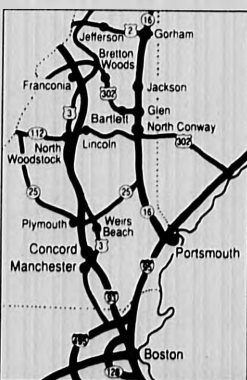

Whale's Tale Waterpark in Lincoln is a favorite with my test group (younger relatives and their friends, age 4 to 15). There are ocean type breakers in the Wave Pool, fast paced excitement on the Blue Lightning Speed Slides and the Serpentine Flume Slides, and tion according to the test group.

Another great combination is at Six Gun City in Jefferson. It's like a day in the Old West, complete with cowboys and Indians—but don't forget to bring your swim suit. The 250 foot Tomahawk Run Waterslide has been designated "awesome" by the test group. High praise, indeed.

WINCHESTER NEWS

Class size is focus

Some Winchester school parents are voicing concerns over large class sizes at their children's elementary schools.

The subject of class size was brought up at the School Committee's May 25 meeting by several parents, who asked the committee to address the issue. Although the average class size in Winchester of 20.6 is below the statewide average, many parents say that number is misleading.

While some classes have student numbers as low as 14, other classes are well above the average, as high as 31 students. Parent Jenna Leight told the School Committee the School Department should discuss pupil-teacher in terms of range of class sizes instead of the less accurate average.

The class that has received the most complaints from parents at School Committee meetings has been the kindergarten and first grade classes at Vinson-Owen School, which have 31 and 28 students, respectively.

Robert McWade, a parent of a kindergarten student at Vinson-Owen, said that the first grade class pupil-teacher ratio next year is projected out to be as high as 34:1. "That's a difficult ratio to accept," McWade told the School Committee.

Some parents told the committee that with an increase in mainstreaming, the placing of special education students in regular education classes, some students need special attention, which further stresses teachers with large class sizes.

Some parents said the problem will only be increasing in the next few years with a trend toward a larger school population.

The School Committee members are hoping that some of the larger class sizes will be lowered by the open enrollment policy and the 3.72 teachers that will be hired in the next fiscal year.

Open enrollment, which allows a parent to enroll his child in an elementary school in another district at the School Department's discretion, can be used by the administration as a tool to even out class sizes.

The committee approved open enrollment at its May 11 meeting, although some members claimed it was bad policy to use it for the purpose of leveling class sizes.

School Committee Chairman Jerilyn Heinold said that the Fiscal Year 1994 school budget approved by Town Meeting will allow the School Department to lower the maximum pupil-teacher ratios at each school. Heinold said the decision on where to place the new teachers is "still up the air", but she said the kindergarten class with 31 students would probably be split into two first grade classes. Heinold also said that one scenario would lower the maximum class sizes of 28 students at Ambrose, Lynch, and Muraco.

Some of the frustration from parents over inequitable class sizes stems from a major redistricting plan undertaken last year that was supposed to evenly distribute the school population. Lynch parents in particular were promised lower class sizes since they have a larger special needs population, yet the maximum class size is 28.

Suffering from sleep apnea

Jennifer B. White is the Public Relations Specialist for Winchester Hospital.

Snoring. Now that may sound like a malady as dangerous as, oh say, a hang nail. But don't be so quick to laugh, or nudge, or snore. According to Shelly Ayers, sleep technologist at Winchester Hospital, snoring may be a symptom of a more serious problem.

About 3 out of 10 people who snore have some degree of a sleep disorder known as obstructive sleep apnea. "Sleep apnea is distinguished by recurrent episodes in which a person frequently stops breathing while sleeping," says Ayers. "It's caused by an obstruction in the upper airway passage which blocks the flow of air." The blockage can be caused by any number of complications including enlarged tonsils or weak throat muscles.

The problem, notes Ayers, is that snoring is usually interrupted by periods of silence lasting 10 to 90 seconds when the person is not breathing. The cessation of breathing disrupts the snorer's normal sleep pattern, forcing the snorer to wake and breathe again.

Is this serious? "If left untreated, it can be," says Ayers. Most often, sleep apnea causes excessive daytime sleepiness, lack of concentration and memory loss during the day. But it can also pose other serious threats to good health.

According to a recent article published in the New England Journal of Medicine, several reports indicate that snoring and obstructive sleep apnea increase the risk of stroke, angina and myocardial infarction. The reason for this is because the heart must work harder to pump oxygen to vital organs.

How do you know when snoring is a symptom of sleep apnea? There are key symptoms one can look for if there is a suspicion of sleep apnea: loud, heavy snoring with periods of silence when the snorer does not breathe followed by gasping, falling asleep during the day, restlessness during sleep, chronic fatigue during the day, irritability, mood swings and morning headaches.

According to Ayers, if sleep apnea is suspected, it's a good idea to be checked by a physician — the physician may suggest a sleep study. A sleep study enables a patient to be observed as he or she sleeps and is conducted at a sleep laboratory. Winchester Hospital's sleep laboratory, where Ayers works as a sleep technologist, specializes in diagnosing and treating not only sleep apnea, but other neurological and pulmonary related sleep disorders as well, including sleep terrors and narcolepsy.

"Through video cameras, we monitor and record patients throughout the night, documenting noises, breathing patterns, movement and awakening and arousal periods," she adds. "Very often it's a family member of the snorer, or the snorer's partner who encourage the snorer to seek help."

Once a diagnosis of sleep apnea is made, treatments can be explored. The most widespread treatment for obstructive sleep is the application of Continuous Positive Airway Pressure (CPAP). Through a mask which is worn over the nose, CPAP delivers a small amount of air pressure to the throat. The air pressure prevents structures in the throat from blocking air movement in and out of the lungs while sleeping.

"Sleep apnea is a very correctable sleep disorder," says Ayers. "With proper treatment, sleep apnea sufferers can breathe easier while sleep and finally get a good night's rest."

Children's room notes

Green means go, and "Go For Books" will be the theme this summer in the Winchester Public Library's Children's Room. Watch for traffic lights, rain forests, green creatures, flying frogs, a swampy bog, and more, as "Green" goes full speed ahead. A sneak preview of the summer program is scheduled for ages 5 to 8 on Thursday, June 17, at 3:30 p.m. Sign up in person or over the telephone as soon as possible.

The talking traffic light will visit school library classes during the first week of June, and flyers listing all the summer events will be available at the library in early June. Registration will open on Monday, June 21 for ages 3 and up.

The story line is now featuring the Nigerian folktale, "Why The Sky Is Far Away." The story line can be reached at 721-7140 whenever the Children's Room is closed. Stories change every 2 or 3 weeks.

Information on living trusts available at library

An increasingly popular alternative to a will for people who are planning their estate is the "Living Trust." A living trust is a legal document that allows a person to transfer ownership of his or her property to a trust. This enables the beneficiaries of an estate to avoid probate. You can learn more about living trust by reading "Understanding Living Trusts," by Vickie Schumacher and Jim Schumacher. The new, expanded edition of this book is now in the circulating collection of the Winchester Public Library. Ask about it at the Reference Desk.

chester elementary schools to the programs site at McCall Middle School is provided by the program.

The After-School programs' activities are funded entirely from tuition fees paid by the families of children enrolled. A scholarship fund has recently been developed to assist limited-income families, including single parents, with partial payments for their children's attendance in the program. his financial aid is awarded on the basis of need only, and has been made possible by the generous donations of local businesses and organizations.

Application forms to request financial aid for tuition to the After-School Program may be obtained from the program director, Betty Wolsky, at the McCall Middle School program site, or by writing to the scholarship committee, in care of Emily Bushnell, 65 Brookside Ave., Winchester, MA 01890. Applications must be submitted by May 30. Decisions regarding applications for funds will be made in early June. All applications and deliberations will be treated in strict confidence.

Officer Austin represents town at conference

Winchester schools will be represented as hundreds of D.A.R.E. students and officers from across Massachusetts gather at the State House in Boston on June 2.

Niru Sahaderian, accompanied by Officer C. Paul Austin, will participate in the Second Annual Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) Ceremonial Graduation.

Governor William F. Weld will deliver the keynote address at the ceremony, which begins at 11:30 a.m.

Students attending the event represent thousands of young people in Massachusetts who have received drug abuse resistance training by police officers in more than 250 communities. The 17-week program, supported by the Massachusetts Governor's Alliance Against Drugs, is a nationally recognized curriculum that addresses critical issues affecting youth. D.A.R.E. teaches violence prevention; values and decision-making; alcohol, tobacco and other drug prevention skills; as well as refusal and resistance techniques.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

SELLING AT A LOSS

QUESTION: It looks like I'm the exception to the rule. I put a lot of money into renovating an overpriced home and now I'll have to sell at a loss. Any suggestions?

ANSWER: You might consider renting the house out for at least a year or so before selling. In that way, the house will be considered a business investment and you can deduct the loss as a business expense.

While you're renting it out, you can also benefit from other tax benefits such as depreciation and maintenance expense deductions. If you sell a house which is your primary residence and take a loss, this loss is not tax deductible. This is a tricky area, so check with your accountant.

THERE ARE WAYS to soften the blow if you sell your home at a loss.

Post office restructures delivery operations

The Winchester post office has restructured its delivery operations as of May 24. As a result Winchester letter carriers are faced with learning new delivery schemes and delivering in unfamiliar territories. Ultimately what this all means to the Winchester postal customer is that over the next several weeks daily delivery may be received later than usual. The post office staff regrets this inconvenience and is doing everything in its power to engender a quick, and smooth transition.

Numerous changes have been made in recent years and these disruptions are very frustrating. The decision to take this current action was based on the feedback the new postmaster has received from customers since being appointed in January. The changes that occurred approximately two years ago were to prepare for automated equipment that was not deployed as quickly as anticipated. The new route structure will be very similar to the old system and many residents will see their old carrier back.

The post office staff is dedicated to providing quality customer service. I truly believe these adjustments will enhance delivery operations. Please feel free to share comments with Kathleen Goodson, Postmaster.

Should anyone have questions about delivery of their mail they can reach the Winchester Delivery Center at 935-6749 Monday through Saturday between the hours of 2 and 4:30 p.m.

Study skills are the great equalizer. They provide the missing link for bright capable learners whose potential is not reflected in school grades. Furthermore, study skills demystify the learning process thereby offering all students the means to become organized and confident learners.

Students learn how to manage time they spend studying to gain maximum understanding in and out of class. Efficient techniques lead to improved grades and enjoyment in academics. This is the road to increased motivation and academic success.

The instructor, Roberta Wolman, is a full time Reading and Learning Disabilities Specialist at Minuteman and a registered educational tutor with the Learning Disabilities Network in Hingham. She has been a successful instructor of study skills since 1972. In addition, Wolman is an expert in SAT preparation. She has served as a consultant and author in the field of education.

En Ka Society announces sale before summer closing

The Volunteer Women of the Winchester En Ka Society announce plans for closing the popular consignment clothing shop, the En Ka Exchange for the summer months. Final sale days are Tuesday through Friday June 1-4. The shop will be open regular hours except Thursday evening. Call 729-6146 for more information. Everything must go so most prices will be under $5.

This event concludes the first year of sales for the Exchange at 1037 Main Street, the new and permanent home for the Society's shop in continuous operation since the 1940's. For the past two years members, Patti Mac Hewitt, Judy Manzo, Dee Pedulla, and Terri Stevens along with treasurer, Jane Armstrong managed the successful transition, design, and operation of the new shop. This move symbolizes a renewed and major commitment to the Winchester community by En Ka Society women for the 90's and beyond.

Continental Cablevision helps Stone Zoo celebrate first anniversary of reopening Continental Cablevision, a driving force in the campaign to save the Stone Zoo, is helping the Commonwealth Zoological Corporation celebrate the first anniversary of the zoo's re-opening with a day of family entertainment and the opening of a new exhibit called "South American Grasslands" on Sunday, June 6.

The new exhibit — the second made possible by Continental's ongoing donations and fundraising — will officially open with a ribbon-cutting and dedication.

Like the Stone Zoo Aviary that preceded it, the South American exhibit will bear a plaque dedicating it to the cable television viewers of Stoneham, Billerica, Burlington, Reading, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn. Their contributions helped Continental and The Discovery Channel raise more than $25,000 to help create the aviary and the new South American exhibit.

The June 6, dedication will also feature South American music, games, animal demonstrations and award presentations to winners of Continental's Kids for Conservation public service announcement competition, and a premier of the announcements they designed.

The Stone Zoo re-opening anniversary celebration will begin at noon and end at 3 p.m.

From noon to 1 p.m., the Bolivian Andes band Sumaj Chasquis will perform. The grasslands exhibit ribbon cutting will be at 1 p.m. Continental's Kids for Conservation awards will be presented at 1:30 p.m. From 2 to 3 p.m., the Latin American/Spanish band Alamo '93 will perform.

Continental Cablevision wins top national honor

Continental Cablevision has been awarded cable television's most prestigious national honor, the Cable ACE Distinguished Achievement Award from the National Academy of Cable Programming, for its successful and ongoing effort to save the Stone Zoo.

The Distinguished Achievement Award recognizes a cable system, project, company or individual that has made a significant contribution to the community through its local programming efforts. Only one such award is given each year in the United States.

"Our work on behalf of the Stone Zoo and wildlife preservation is a perfect example of how cable television's video and grass roots community resources can produce something of real benefit and value to the people and towns we serve," said Mike Leone, Continental's local government and public affairs manager. "We are absolutely thrilled that our project has been singled out for this most prestigious of national awards."

NEMH treasures Winchester volunteers

New England Memorial Hospital recently paid tribute to its volunteers during National Volunteer Week in April at a special luncheon and ceremony. This year's theme was Volunteers: Treasures for All Seasons. The hospital is fortunate to have a large dedicated corps of men and women donating their time and talents to the hospital in a wide variety of areas.

Volunteers were recognized at the special luncheon for their hours of work and years of commitment. Among them were Winchester residents:

Linda McGarvey and Joan Mahoney.

Anyone interested in helping New England Memorial Hospital as a volunteer should call Karen Derro, director of volunteers at 979-7016.

Fourth Annual All-Night Graduation celebration

Plans for the Fourth Annual All-Night Graduation Celebration are well underway. This event provides the 1993 graduates of Winchester High School with a safe and enjoyable last night together.

This event will be held on graduation night, Sunday, June 6, from 9:30 p.m. to 5 a.m., in the McCall Middle School gym and recreation areas. Some guidelines will be in place to ensure an enjoyable time for all. No alcohol will be allowed. Entrance time will be between 9:30 and 11 p.m. No one will be admitted after this time unless special permission has been arranged in advance. Any graduate who leaves the party will not be allowed to return and their parents will be notified before they are dismissed, regardless of the hour.

The All-Night Graduation Celebration Committee, under the direction of chairwomen Donna Desmond and Cathy Gallo, is hard at work planning for this multifaceted event. The night's activities will include non-stop food and dancing, live entertainment, games, contests, raffles, palm readers, tattoo artists, caricaturists, videos, and movies. All of these activities are available to the seniors for the $15 cost of admission.

The Winchester community has been a ready supporter of this event in the past years. The committee hopes to count on their continued support in providing safe alcohol-free events for Winchester's youth.

WINCHESTER KERNELS

Colonel William P. Winchester

Negative and positive

By Dan Chane
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

We seem conditioned these days to note the negative element in society at the expense of the overwhelming majority of the positive.

On Mount Vernon Street this week a young black woman pushing a carriage stepped into the cross walk outside of Nelson's and moved to cross.

It was difficult to ignore the crass rudeness of the woman in the approaching car who saw her — and made an intentional maneuver to cut off this woman attempting to push her twins through the cross walk.

The young mother — a perfect lady — laughed gently to her friend and said, "Maybe she didn't like my character!"

That ignorant act did not phase this remarkable lady in the least, and her reaction was a credit to her.

The following Sunday, the streets of Winchester were filled with those who care deeply about others.

The "Big Steps for Little People Walk-A-Thon" was an excellent example of what this town is all about.

Winchester Rotary Club and the Ninety-Nine Restaurants were large committed sponsors of the event — and Winchester Cooperative Bank made a generous donation to the cause as did the Winchester Savings Bank.

The boundless energy of co-chair-women Marsha Lamson and Judie Muggia never flagged over the many, many months it took to organize and plan the event. Their hard work resulted in a massive turnout of many hundreds of people to support the work of Winchester Hospital.

Winchester Healthcare Management president Gene Loubier was seen "toughing it out" along Main Street with a beaming Sumner Andrews of the Winchester Hospital Board of Directors.

Town Moderator Johnny Sullivan, a veteran walker, sailed through the more than six-mile walk with the ease of an accomplished pro — but Allan Eyden of the Chamber of Commerce was not to be outdone as he cut a particularly dapper figure crossing the Woburn line into Winchester.

Coming out of the Cooperative Bank the next day, Andrews was ebullient over the fantastic success of the Walk-A-Thon.

As he alluded to the endless stories of violence and corruption in his morning paper he mused, "It's too bad that all the good things the young people do aren't given more prominent press coverage — but then that doesn't sell papers!"

On that beautiful Sunday, Winchester wore her heart on her sleeve and it is hoped that the young black mother attempting to cross Mount Vernon Street that same week will someday experience the true essence of our town.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Volume 20-Report No. 18
Massachusetts House and Senate
May 24-28, 1993

THE HOUSE AND SENATE "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on 10 roll calls from the week of May 24-28. All House roll calls are on proposed amendments to the House Ways and Means Committee version of a $15.4 billion budget. There were no roll calls in the Senate last week.

APPROVE BUDGET (H 5200) — At 4:23 a.m. on Saturday, the House 127-25, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a $15.5 billion fiscal 1994 state budget. During debate, the House considered more than 600 amendments and added about $41 million.

The package includes a section allowing local voters to raise their property taxes by the level of inflation up to five percent a year, instead of the current 2.5 percent.

The House rejected an attempt giving voters the power to lower the levy. Other provisions include giving Governor Weld control over the MWRA and its water and sewer rates; requiring some welfare recipients to work in community service 20 hours per week or have benefits cut; and allowing voters to lower or raise the current $25 per $1,000 of valuation auto excise tax to anywhere from zero to $66 per $1,000.

The budget does not include the $175 million necessary to fund major education changes included in a bill still pending before the legislature.

Supporters said the budget is a fiscally responsible and reasonable one which funds necessary programs and gives local voters the power to raise taxes.

Some opponents said the budget raises taxes, is loaded with waste and patronage and could be as much as $300 million out of balance. Others took issue with various provisions including the lack of education funding and the failure to give revenues from the voter-approved cigarette tax hike to anti-smoking programs as promised. A Yes vote is for the budget. A No vote is against it.

Casey voted yes.

RENTAL DEDUCTION (H 5200) — House 156-0, Approved an amendment restoring the income tax deduction for Massachusetts renters.

The Ways and Means budget had called for an end to the 1980 law allowing renters to deduct up to $2,500 paid in rent from their taxable income. Amendment supporters said wiping out the deduction was unfair and would amount to a major tax hike for all tenants.

A Yes vote is for the rental deduction.

Rep. Paul Casey voted yes.

BAR LICENSING FEE (H 5200) — House 115-36, rejected an amendment eliminating a proposed new annual $100 relicensing fee for bars, restaurants and clubs.

Amendment supporters said this $100 fee is another backdoor tax hike on hundreds of struggling businesses. Amendment opponents said the state is entitled to a modest fee for this annual licensing procedure.

A Yes vote is against the $100 fee. A No vote is for the $100 fee.

Casey voted no.

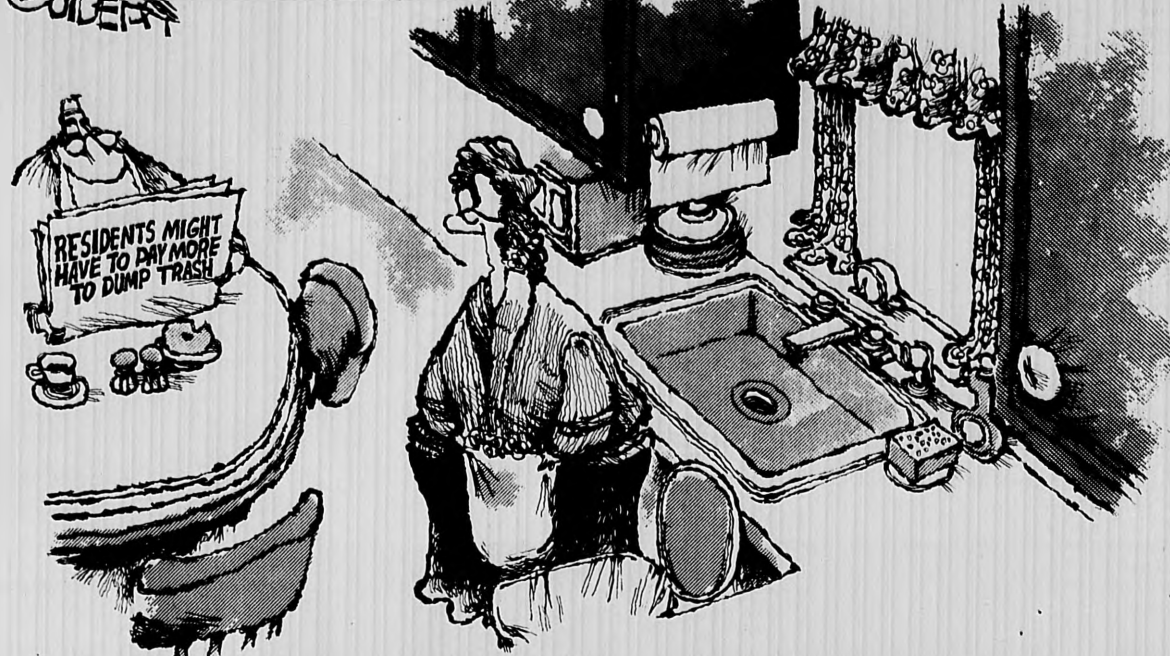

HOMEOWNER LIABILITY (H 5200) — House 87-60, approved an amendment repealing a December 1992 law making homeowners who obtain a building permit for home improvements liable for any injuries suffered by the hired workers.

Amendment supporters said the law will result in hundreds of unfair lawsuits against homeowners or force them to pay the added expenses of hiring.

Homeless for a night

TERRY MAROTTA

COLUMNIST

What you want in a youth minister is someone who thinks nothing of organizing a whole gang of teenagers to sleep outside in appliance boxes as a lesson in homelessness, then hold a town-wide Dog Wash in the morning to raise funds.

This is what one church found in Ginger Brasher-Cunningham, who, besides leading kids in religious, social and recreational activities, routinely takes them into the dirty heart of the big city. When the hungry and homeless there ask them for money, she teaches them not to keep walking, but to stop, and talk and offer them food.

Accompanying the kids on this Night of Homelessness were five adults: Ginger, her husband Milton, a Registered Nurse named Patty and two plain old lay people.

At first we hung out in the church hall, sucking up cookies and soft drinks and singing to a borrowed karaoke machine. Then we said goodbye to food and warmth and light and went outside, while Ginger locked the door behind us.

The night was clear and cool. From the stone patio where we would lie, we could look up at the craggy facade of this old church. Its steeple seemed to sail like a ship's mast against a sky of moist close stars. Some dogwood in bloom made petalled stars nearby, and two giant maples framed our view of town.

We set up our boxes, and Ginger sat us down to give us some information sent by the Coalition for the Homeless. Did we know, for example, that 75 percent of the homeless in our state were families? That the typical homeless family consists of a single parent with two children? No, we didn't.

What were the things we couldn't do now that we were outside? Wash, we said. Go to the bathroom. Protect ourselves, either from rain or the chance passing stranger. How was it different for us, though, than for the truly homeless? "They have to smell all the time the way we'll smell in the morning," one teen said. "We're here just one night, and by choice; it's not that way for them."

One of our number has been homeless three times in her young life, and has lived in shelters. What was it like? "There's no privacy," she said. "You can't have anyone over after school. They lock you in at 9 o'clock."

A silence followed as we digested this.

Then we climbed into our boxes, most of us placing them on their sides and wiggling in. Some kids pulled theirs together to make a condominium. Others stood them upright, then fell in from above, like rag dolls.

Two dogs, Poppy and Bogart, spent the night with us too. They sneezed the pollen put of their noses, licked everyone's face and lay down on their elbows the way dogs do. By then it was midnight.

Going to sleep was high on the grownups' agenda. It didn't even appear on the kids'. They watched the trains pass every 30 or 40 minutes; the traffic lights go from red to green to yellow; the policemen glide by in their cars.

Three young men appeared on bikes. We knew them, and so it was OK. They gave everyone a second wind. "Let's CLIMB these big trees!" someone said. "No! Next you'll be climbing the steeple to the clock and hanging off its hands. Yeah, LETS!" But nobody did. They were obedient remaining earthbound and on the patio.

Then this happened: A man passed close, just off the last train from Boston. Drawn by the sight of us, he approached. He was from Guatemala, he said. He carried a case of beer under one arm and more inside him. Could he join us? he wondered. We didn't think so, we told him. "Nobody wants me," he said, sadly retreating. "No one loves me."

"God loves you!" one of us answered weakly, but he heard it slightly wrong. "God love you, too," he called back, raising one arm.

That blessing extended, we grew drowsy. The bike visitors left. The stars dimmed, and we slept.

In the morning, some grownups went to bring back doughnuts. Pretty soon after, Bogart was volunteered to kick off the Dog Wash.

Which, at the end of three hours of cold work with a hose, netted about $70 for the next time Ginger takes us into the city to give food to those whose plight we'd all prefer ignoring.

Only now that will be harder.

ON THE RECORD

The School Department has finally implemented the integrated learning system that was slated to come in April. Ten computers have been installed at Lynch and Vinson-Owen in a pilot program. The administration is counting on parents and town officials stopping by and using the system while it is here in the next few months. "Hopefully, as we run the program we can have a lot of people come in and take a look at it," Guido Sabelli, principal of the Vinson-Owen School, told the School Committee. The School Committee is hoping there will be enough interest in the system to support an expansion of the project next year. A proposal to form a committee to study the implementation of an integrated learning system is being considered by Town Meeting.

School Committee member Constance Makhoul commended a recent decision by the Board of Education to no longer allow schools to appeal to the state Legislature for a waiver to the 180-day school year. Makhoul said the board is recommending schools use days during April and February vacations to reach the 180 days. "It tells me we're moving in the right direction," said Makhoul, who has suggested at past meetings that the School Committee consider eliminating one of the week-long vacations.

Samaritans praised for aid to young in distress

To the editor:

The Samaritans of Fall River are a devoted and concerned group of volunteers who have worked diligently to befriend the lonely and suicidal. Their 24-hour hotline has reached out to thousands of people all over the state who may be feeling desperate.

Recently a family from the Winchester area had expressed great appreciation for this group of Samaritans because in their time of crisis the Samaritans had been extremely helpful in aiding their son.

When other organizations had turned him away and refused to assist him, the Fall River Samaritans were there to provide understanding, compassion and aid.

Resident blasts officials for water rates

To the editor:

This is an open letter to Representative Casey and Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer.

First let's address the M.W.R.A. problem. Casey's reply that Winchester residents are slow to boil is one of the most absurd statements I've ever heard. See how slow they are to boil whenever they are asked to override 2 1/2. It doesn't matter if the override is for schools, libraries or to save a teaching position. Forget it!

Now let's look at Maurer's insightful comment "there doesn't seem to be a problem with people not paying their water bills." I won't have a problem because I'll present my bill Maurer and our dynamic Board of Selectmen. I submit that the "slow to boil" is a total lack of leadership from our moribund leaders. At this point let's dismiss "slow boil" Casey and take a serious look at Maurer and his record as our fearless town manager.

We know his head in the sand solution for the M.W.R.A. Let's examine his "transfer station" proposal. Of course it's let's raise the rate 50 percent.

I have been a resident of this town for approximately three years. Before that I lived in Wellesley. I mention this for several reasons. I lived there approximately 20 years, so I know the town and its politics. It is approximately the same size as Winchester, and is governed by a Board of Selectmen.

In Wellesley we also have a "transfer station." However, we have no charge for taking our trash to the "transfer station." (By the way, most people in Wellesley refer to it as the dump).

I suggest that Maurer climb down from his throne, take himself to Wellesley and find out how they are able to maintain such an outstanding reputation, while at the same time:

1. Have a lower tax rate than Winchester (Wellesley's tax rate is $11.35/$1,000 vs. $13.86/$1,000 for Winchester).
2. Run the town without an exalted position such as "Town Manager." (Selectmen run the town through a town meeting and run it much more efficiently).

I suggest the people of Winchester wake up and get some efficient leaders.

A very good start would be to send Maurer packing and at least we could save that amount of largess in the town budget, his salary.

As for M.W.R.A. charges, Wellesley pays a very small amount. They are connected to the sewer system but their water system is town water. Therefore, no outrageous water bills from M.W.R.A.

This also generates a question which I never seem to be able to get answered. Why do we pay for M.W.R.A. water when we have a town reservoir large enough to float the Q.E. II?

I cannot complete this treatise on lack of leadership without including the following sad development. Last July the cable company increased rates over 10 percent and all without a whimper out of our leaders — Casey —

Maurer — or any of our august body of Selectmen. (This is in spite of the fact that Winchester has the most antiquated system cable has to offer. Woburn has the latest state of the art cable system for less money than our pre-dinosaur system).

In closing let me say maybe the entire Winchester leadership should take a trip to Wellesley and maybe they will get a rude awakening. And while they are over there they probably should compare the school systems. That would really blow their minds.

And Winchester residents remember...$11.45/$1,000 vs. $13.86/$1,000.

Mahoney and family is thanked for contributions, support for EnKa Society

To the editor:

The happiest letter one can write is one of thanks to all who helped to make a project successful. That day happened on May 18, when the Mahoney family graciously gave a share of the day's profits from their sales at the Mahoney Garden Center in Winchester to the EnKa Society.

It is with the greatest of pleasure that the EnKa Society thanks Paul and his family for their support of the Society. The Mahoney Garden Center employees were most gracious with their help, and we also want to give a special thanks to all the EnKa Society members and friends who made a point to support the day with their purchases.

The Mahoneys' generous check will enable the EnKa Society to enrich the lives of many in the community of Winchester.

En Ka thanks parade participants

To the editor:

The day couldn't have been more perfect for our "Field of Dreams" parade through Winchester Center. It was wonderful to see so many smiling faces as the parade moved along Skillings Road and Main Street to our wonderful fairgrounds. The En Ka Fair Parade Committee would like to enthusiastically thank all of the participants in this year's parade.

Thank you to our loyal participants who came through again this year — The Winchester Police Department cruiser and Honor Guard, the Winchester High School marching band and cheerleaders, the Girl Scout Color Guard and troops, the Winchester Chamber of Commerce and Citizen of the Year, Austin Broadhurst, Winchester Hospital and its Friends, Winchester Public Library and its Friends, the Winchester Fire Department, the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, Mahoney's Garden Center, Winchester Boy and Cub Scouts and four antique cardrivers.

Thanks, too, to the Winchester High School All-Night Graduation Celebration Committee, the McCall Middle School Band, Students Against Drunk Driving, Winchester School Committee, Winchester Community Music Association, Winchester Recreation Department, Winchester Council on Aging, Winchester ABC House, Waste Study Committee, Winton Club, Parent to Parent, Church Women United, the Wesley Tenants' Association and the Winchester Unitarian Players.

Two "new" entries to the parade this year were Kidstock Youth Theater and the Multicultural Network, and they were awarded our two first prizes. Brian Milauskas' Kidstock was awarded a $50 first prize prize for the entry most in keeping with the theme of the fair. Sandy Thompson and the Multicultural Network were awarded a $50 first prize for the entry best exemplifying the organization it represents. We are delighted to honor these two outstanding organizations whose efforts in town are so valued. The African Resource Institute was awarded an honorable mention. Thank you to our enthusiastic judges — Selectman Carol Mullin, Linda Vacovec, who represented the arts community, and Helen Babcock, representing the business community, who took time from their busy schedules to bestow these honors.

Thank you to the persons who loaned cars and chauffeured our honoraries and our wonderful En Ka quilt. We are also indebted to the Winchester Police Department who provided traffic control during the parade, as well as to Tony DeTeso, the Girl Scouts, Priscilla Miller and the High School Band for assisting in the flag raising ceremonies. Our volunteer parade coordinators, Bill Caci, Wally Gagel, Gail Peretti and Joan Theuer provided invaluable assistance in getting us all lined up. Many, many thanks to all.

Play teaches lessons on humanity

To the editor:

On Monday evening, May 17, Winchester High School hosted an American premiere performance of the internationally acclaimed play, "Thirty Years of Bananas" by author, actor, composer, director, Alex Mukulu and his theatrical troupe from Uganda, East Africa, Impact International. Warm thanks and deep appreciation to Winchester resident, Agnes Lugira of Africa Resource Institute for her active role in bringing this vibrant performance to our home town. "Bananas," a multi-lingual play, dramatizes in music, spoken word, and dance the 30-year struggle of the Ugandan people to break free from the legacy of colonialism since independence in 1962. The following are some of my impressions and reactions on watching the play.

In turn thought-provoking, sardonic, heart-breaking, humorous, and hopeful, "Bananas" is a fast-paced, content-laden production. "It is the responsibility of the artist to bring hope to the world," says Mukulu. From Kampala to Nairobi to New Delhi to Winchester and beyond, Impact International, in their "harmony to humanity" drums, dances, and sings its message of hope. A message I would summarize as follows.

1) That we are all players on the same team, and that differences, whether of appearance, language, culture, religion, nationality, or whatever, are meant to enrich and empower our lives as are the differing talents of the various team members. This is true locally and globally.

2) That the human spirit, no matter how many times crushed cannot be conquered, and will perpetually create new hope out of the ashes of dashed dreams.

3) That Africa, a continent of many peoples, cultures, languages, and countries will have a vital role to play in the future of life on this planet.

Many thanks to Alex Mukulu and Impact International, to Agnes K. Lugira, M. Ed. and Africa Resource Institute, to Dr. John M. Ritchie of Winchester High School, and all who helped make the May 17, production of "Thirty Years of Bananas" possible. Hooray! Thanks!

CSA thanks parent associations for help

To the editor:

The Community School Association would like to extend thanks to those parents who have worked so hard at fundraising for the various parent associations and for volunteering their time to help in the schools. In the face of significant cuts in the school budgets of recent years, parent associations have stepped into the breach to provide some of the supplies, equipment, and professional development expenses which had previously been included in the school budget. While this has arisen from teacher requests and a parent's natural desire that their own child not be deprived of the benefits of these items, debate surrounding such funding has frequently been lengthy.

The principal problem from a system-wide perspective to this increasing privatization of school funding is the inequities which may result from the wide variance in the size of parent association budgets (up to 400%) and the types of items agreed to by various boards.

The summary below is for the school year 1991-92. This summary does not include all budget items from the various organizations but is provided to give a flavor of some of the major funding provided by parent groups. The enrichment budgets here do not reflect field trips which are provided entirely by parent funds with a per child stipend from the various parent groups.

Enrichment — $18,200. Programs and kits brought in at teacher request to supplement the curriculum. Such spending includes fees for performers and speakers and curriculum kits from the Museum of Science, Children's Museum and kits developed by teachers and parents working together. Enrichment funds from all schools are pooled to provide CSA enrichment, including Colonial Day.

Library — $9,600. Funds for the purchase of library books.

Teacher Mini-grants — $18,000. Funds for items such as: curriculum supplies (science labs at the elementary level, videotapes, slides), reprints, atlases and maps, teacher guides, Super Slates, calculators, grants to clubs and student organizations, fees for teachers conferences, classroom books, metric tape measures, math manipulatives and Junior Great Book programs.

Capital Equipment — $5,300. Funds for laminating machine and supplies, auditorium curtains, landscaping, playground equipment, library shelving, tape recorders, art drying rack.

Total — $49,100.

Parents are glad to be able to support their children's schools. We feel that a close relationship between school and parents enhances education. The real concern is that an increasing push of basic education expenses to parent organizations will result in real inequities between schools given the wide variance of budgets and types of items funded by various groups.

Friends of Rec. explains role in community for local youth

To the editor:

We, the Friends of Winchester Recreation and Community Education, (FWR) would like to introduce ourselves to you. The Friends is a nonprofit organization that complements town-wide events and services that the Winchester Recreation Department provides through their formal seasonal programs. This year we are funding a Mill Pond concert on August 4, providing scholarships for Winchester children attending recreation department summer camps, and sponsoring fundraising events for the Winchester Youth Center.

Most of our efforts this past year have been targeted to raise funds in support of the Youth Center. The Youth Center is housed at McCall Middle School and is supervised by an experienced youth coordinator. The center serves over 150 youths four afternoons a week during the school year. Its flexible structure offers a safe place for friends to talk, to play games, to do homework, and to respond to teen concerns. Each year a group of high school teens participates in leadership training so they can work with peer groups. There are also nine adult volunteers actively involved in youth activities.

The Youth Center is currently financed through seed monies and contributions from townwide organizations as well as donations from families individuals. In order to maintain the positive momentum of the Youth Center, it needs additional funding to continue its energetic programs. It is anticipating a shortfall of $20,000 in the coming 93-94 academic year.

The Friends invite you to participate in our efforts to retain the Youth Center by visiting our special Town Day tables and events on June 5. Look for the Friends of Winchester Recreation banner. Come and buy a Winchester mug, T-shirt or tote. Take a membership form and become a "Friend" on Town Day. Bid high at the Celebrity Auction that will be held at the grape arbor in early evening. Ask for applications to the "Best Rotten Sneaker" and the "Coolest Concert Shirt" contests that will be conducted at the Duck Pond in the afternoon.

All these events are examples of community caring and sharing to support the young people of our town. It is our firm belief that support for our young people of today can make a difference in the young adult of tomorrow. Won't you join us in our efforts?

Resident charges Lynch School neighbors are not being fair

To the editor:

During the past months a war of words has been waged through letters to the editor concerning the proposal submitted by the Winchester Fields Study Committee (WFSC) for the Lynch Playfield expansion. Charges on both sides have escalated to near the boiling point.

Soon the matter will come to a vote at Town Meeting. Now it is time for all of us to be fair and look at the true facts. The town clearly needs this field put to better use. It is a valuable asset that is being wasted.

No matter what the WFSC says or does, or what facts it provides, some of the neighbors in the Lynch School area will never be placated. These people don't want to hear about the obvious benefits a better field will bring to the Lynch School, the Recreation Department, and the town's youth sports programs. They refuse to be objective and open minded.

They are blind to the fact that the school and a playfield will always be there. In most cases the facility was there before they were. They did not move in and suddenly discover a school and field across the street. Any-one moving into the area since 1960 had ample opportunity to consider the viability of locating next to a school and adjoining field.

I would ask these neighbors (known in the popular jargon of the day as NIMBY's — not-in-my-back-yard) to back off. Their predecessors who similarly fought the school construction in 1960 did, and as a result we have a fine school of which the town can be proud. The Lynch School did not ruin the neighborhood, and one additional playfield in 1993 will not ruin it either.

Town Meeting Member
Precinct 6

Field work is badly needed, says one resident

To the editor:

Most of my life I have been fortunate enough to participate in sports here in Winchester. Being able to play softball, soccer and basketball and now coaching in the youth programs has been a wonderful experience. However, as I watch the children play on the fields in softball, baseball, lacrosse and soccer, I cannot help but get nervous. I have yet to see a ball role on the grounds of any Winchester field and not jump up and come very close to injuring a youth.

Children are constantly hurting themselves and their safety is threatened each time they play on these fields. From permanent knee injuries, ankle injuries, being hit with baseballs and softballs in the head to having a lacrosse stick sever a major organ, we should be very thankful no legal action has been taken.

From my understanding the upgrade of the Manchester Field has been denied due to one reason or another and apparently the Lynch Elementary School is now being pursued for upgrading.

From personal experience of playing on these fields myself and from what I see today, the fields have become worse. Opposing high schools refuse to play Winchester on these fields, other schools have no choice because of league obligations yet they are not satisfied, and constantly look to protest games due to facilities that are not maintained. As a town we need to make a change and the only way to do this is to educate the people who are opposed to these changes.

If the field study committee is not being clear on its proposal we need to work together on this, not make false accusations and exaggerated claims.

The upgrade of all our fields is a necessity. We all need to believe that the children of Winchester are important and their safety is imperative.

I feel we are moving in the right direction when we finally admit our fields are an asset to our community. I am highly encouraged to see the turnout at open meetings with people who are in favor of upgrading the fields and those who have legitimate concerns, i.e., traffic issues for the Lynch parking lot.

I feel very strongly about our desire to create better facilities. I applaud the field study committee for their research even though I know others deem this group as a soccer club in disguise.

This is not a one sport issue. The work that needs to be done at Lynch is endorsed by the principal and the physical education teacher.

We need to face the facts, our fields are a pure disgrace. We have metal fixtures, glass, ditches and other dangerous paraphernalia that should not be on a field. Before we have a serious life threatening injury we need to take action...NOW!

Those who are opposed please reconsider this issue. Creating better facilities in Winchester is a priority. I think we need to work together on these issues and not make unnecessary accusations. Your favorable action on this issue would be greatly appreciated; vote in favor of Article 13.

One resident calls attention to Ginn Field basketball court condition

to the editor:

The intention of this letter is to bring attention to the deteriorating conditions of the basketball court at Ginn Field. I will be a junior at Villanova University this fall and have been a resident of Winchester for two years. My first summer up here I spent a lot of time at this court and at night there were always 10 to 15 guys running pick-up games. Over the last two years things have changed. At the present time the court is in terrible condition and nobody shows up to play. People no longer come, not because there is no interest (in the winter they fill up the gym at the high school when they have open courts), but because the court is in such poor shape.

First of all, the lights do not work or are not turned on. I find it odd that lights were put up, probably at considerable expense, yet are never used. I believe if you set up a timing system in which the lights went on at around 7 p.m. every night there would be a lot of people playing.

A second problem with the court is the fact that there is no fence separating the court from the body of water that surrounds it. People must continually chase their ball in order to save it from being lost in the water. A simple chain fence would solve this problem.

Yet another problem is that the court is so dirty that it is very slippery and dangerous to play on. One cause of this is the fact that there is nothing to protect the court from the dirt parking lot that sits along side of it. The other major reason is that over the winter all of the dirty snow was piled on the court. This has not only made the court slippery but has also ruined the surface it.

self. You can fix this "dirt-problem" easily by putting a canvas over the fence that separates the parking lot from the court and by not dumping the snow on the court in the winter.

The final problem with the court is that one of the backboards has been damaged to a point that you cannot run full court games. If this backboard is replaced the other one is in good enough condition so that full court games could resume.

During the winter there are many people who show up for open gyms at Winchester High School to play basketball. Where do all of these people go in the summer? They go to Woburn, Burlington, and Lexington because there is no decent outdoor court in Winchester. I feel that if we made the minor repairs to the court at Ginn Field that I suggested (including turning on the lights) the court would be packed every night and you would not have people flocking to other towns to play basketball.

Class of 93 says thanks for help

To the editor:

I am writing on behalf of the four class officers of the Class of 1993. We wanted to thank some people for allowing the prom and many graduation events to take place. Thanks to Mahoney's for being generous while we decorated the tent. Many of the beautiful plants and flowers were donated instead of being bought. They helped us design a creative, beautiful prom beneath the tent. We would also like to thank all of the senior's parents who helped out with the prom, whether it was in decorating or guarding the tent. We would like to also say thank you to Domino's Pizza. We would like to especially thank our class advisors, Mrs. Schlorff and Mrs. Frost. They have helped us tremendously throughout the year and been keys to our prom success. Lastly, we would like to acknowledge our class advisors, Mrs. Borsari and Mrs. Innes. They have been loyal and are always ready to organize anything that we need. They are the essential elements to getting the tent up and decorated. We have a great prom thanks to all of these people.

ing a contractor to take out the permit and do the work.

Amendment opponents said the law creates a safe workplace and noted the homeowner can avoid liability by hiring a contractor.

A Yes vote is against making the homeowner liable. A No vote is for making the homeowner liable.

Casey voted yes.

FRESH START (H 6200) — House 84-67, approved an amendment requiring some able-bodied welfare recipients who have been collecting for more than two years to perform community service 20 hours per week.

Recipients would be exempt if they have pre-school children or are ill. Recipients who work 20 hours per month or are enrolled in an education or training program would also be exempt.

Amendment supporters said this Fresh Start program offers greater respect and dignity to recipients and insures that they give something back to the community.

Amendment opponents said the amendment is an ill-conceived quick fix program which does nothing to truly reform the welfare system.

A Yes vote is for requiring community service. A No vote is against requiring it.

Casey voted yes.

HOW LANDSCAPING CAN INCREASE YOUR HOME VALUE BY 15%

There is simply no better way to increase the value of your home!

Why? With most renovations you spend more than you can ever recoup when it is time to sell. Not with landscaping! MONEY magazine estimates that you can expect to recover 100%-200% of your landscaping cost when you sell. Adding an indoor room is often a losing proposition—you may get only 75% of your cost back when you sell. That's why many home owners add outdoor rooms, "instead!" Ask Mac's to show you ideas for outdoor living areas that work with your lifestyle.

Sports Foundation to host Cow Chip Roulette

The Winchester Sports Foundation was founded in the fall of 1989 to provide support for the athletic programs at Winchester High School. With the continuing budget problems, this support is even more important now.

A major spring fundraiser for the Winchester Sports Foundation is planned for Saturday, June 5, in conjunction with the Annual Town Day festivities.

The event, known as the "Cow Chip Roulette" will be Winchester's raffle where a cow chooses the winner!

Scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. at Manchester Field, the Cow Chip Roulette consists of the purchase of a deed for a square yard of Winchester pasturelands (Manchester Field) for $10. Three cows will be turned out on the field, which will be marked off in square yard plots, and the plot on which the first "cow chip" is dropped will win the first prize of $1,000. A second "chip" will yield a second prize of $1,000 for the deed holder, and a third "chip" will yield a third prize of $1,000 for the deed holder. All three prizes will be drawn in case of "cowstipation!"

The deeds for the Cow Chip Roulette are now being sold. There is a limited number of deeds available, so be sure to buy yours soon. Deeds will be on sale at various retail shops in downtown Winchester, or call David Pywell, co-chairman of the event at 729-3433, Ric Bush, president of the Sports Foundation at 729-7489, Linda Sullivan, vice-president, at 729-3129, or Marty Fuller, clerk, at 729-9036, to purchase your deed. Deeds will also be sold at the Friday night block party before Town Day, and the morning of Town Day in Winchester center and at the pancake breakfast. Don't lose out on your chance to be a part of an important and hilarious fund raiser!

Bike, trike and buggy

Flyers with entry blanks have been distributed to nursery and elementary schools for the traditional parade and contest. Chairmen of the event, Chris and Tim Kelley announce that participants will assemble on the common at 10:30 and set off at 11 a.m. The theme for this year's event, which is sponsored by the Elks Club, will be Winchester in the Year 2093. The possibilities for interpreting this futuristic theme are limitless. Our children probably can project ideas for costumes and lifestyles that adults cannot possibly envision. The judges for the competition will be Superintendent of Schools Robert Fitzgerald, Safety Officer Kevin Mawn, and Principal of Vinson-Owen School Guido Sabelli. The prizes will be of space-age interest. The contest is open to all children from nursery school age through 5th grade. Additional entry forms may be picked up at Henderson Stationers.

Spelling bee

Public and private school students in grades 4, 5, and 6 are invited to enter the contest sponsored by the Winchester Senior Association. The event will start at 9:30 a.m. in the Jenks Room at the Center. First and second prizes will be awarded to winners from each of the three grades by Mrs. Pauline McGuigan and Dr. Lenor Rich.

TOWN DAY 1993

Town Day opens early

Spend a day (or night) with a celebrity!

Have you dreamt of skybox tickets to a Bruins game and dinner with Cam Neely? Or a power breakfast with Ron Skates, president of Data General? Or how about a game with Harry Sinden, president of the Boston Bruins — with a 75th Anniversary shirt (value of $1,000) thrown in?

Your dream could become reality when you attend the first annual Winchester Celebrity Auction on Town Day, June 5 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at the duck pond beside Town Hall. Town moderator John Sullivan will be the auctioneer and Ida Boodakian of Koko Boodakian Rugs will serve as our own Vanna White!

All celebrities participating in the auction are Winchester residents. Some additional samples of celebrity items being auctioned off are a day of boating in Maine with Charles and Virginia Westgate (builders of the Arthur Griffin Museum); an art lesson with well-known Winchester artist Carolyn Latanision; and Chad Maurer, the town manager, who will dress up and entertain your party. Thirty celebrity items will be auctioned. In addition, the highest bidders are invited to an exclusive private party following the auction attended by many of the celebrities.

All proceeds will benefit the Winchester Youth Center and the auction is being sponsored by the Friends of Winchester Recreation. Silent Auction bids will be taken via the Winchester Recreation Department. For more details call 721-7125.

Town Day Road Race, time to collect sponsors

It's time to dust off the running sneakers for those road racing enthusiasts and get ready for the Town Day D.A.R.E. Road race. Registration time for the D.A.R.E. Road Race will be from 7 — 8:30 a.m. at the McCall Middle School Gymnasium on June 5.

The race starts at 9 a.m. The Long Course is two laps long, or approximately 8K and awards are presented to overall 1st and 2nd place finishers. Some runners may prefer to join in on a Fun Run which is approximately 4K in distance. Cups, water and oranges will be provided to racers, donated by Purity.

Multicultural Network table at Town Day

Members of the Multicultural Network invite Town Day participants to visit the Network's table at Town Day. The table will be easily identified by the world map and passersby will be encouraged to "make their mark on the map," indicating where they or their ancestors came from.

In addition to the map, an assortment of multicultural books, mainly geared to children, will be for sale, along with T-shirts designed by the Multicultural Issues Group at the high school. Information on the Network will also be available.

D.A.R.E.

Supporters of this program which is so valuable to our youth drug education program have added another fund raising project to be held on Town Day. Hunneman & Company Real Estate Agency will be holding a drawing for a $3,000 cash prize. A limited number of tickets will be sold. For information, please call 729-7290. The D.A.R.E. Road Race and The Jail and Bail are all held for the benefit of the Program.

Rubber Ducky, you're the one

At 1 p.m. on June 5, hundreds of spectators are expected to line the banks of the Duck Pond behind the library to witness a colorful Kodak moment in the annals of water sports. At the sound of an air horn, the waters will be filled with rubber dummies competing for the three top prizes: two American Airline tickets sponsored by the U.S. Travel World; a $1,000 cash prize; and a $500 cash prize.

Participants in the race donate $5 to adopt a duck, which has a number printed on its bottom. The proceeds will benefit the Winchester Youth Baseball and Softball Association. Call Lanie Higgins at 729-7157 for your duck.

Volunteers needed to build giant outdoor chess set

The Winchester Chess Club is sponsoring a local effort to build a giant outdoor chess set that will belong to the town and will be available for use by schools, the Recreation Department and local organizations.

The giant chess set was designed by Jude LeBlanc, assistant professor of architecture at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design. LeBlanc won first place in a recent national giant chess set competition with pieces that double as children's furniture and toys. LeBlanc, who designs furniture as well as buildings, wanted the pieces to have a number of uses, so he designed the king, queen, and bishop to serve as chairs. The pieces are also toys, with knights serving as rocking horses, the castles as toy fortresses, the king and queen as thrones and the pawns as footstools on which are painted regular size chessboards. Dr. Michael Charney, a Boston psychiatrist who is an avid chess buff, spearheaded the competition aimed at designing a giant chess set as an educational tool. The Boston Society of Architects and a group called Games Project/Chess Makes Kids Smart co-sponsored the competition.

Many groups in Winchester are interested in supporting the effort to build this very special giant chess set for the town. If you are interested in getting involved, come to the Winchester Chess Club table on the Common on Saturday, June 5, at Town Day and sign up. People with woodworking tools and skills are needed as volunteers to prepare the pieces that have been designed by Professor LeBlanc. When the pieces have been cut out and placed into kits, they will be assembled and painted by other volunteers.

Chess is an exciting intergenerational activity that has the potential to be expanded by use of the new giant outdoor set at Town Day, at the EnKa Fair, at school fairs, at fundraisers and at other town events. The Winchester Chess Club attracts players from age 5 to 90 who meet at the Winchester Room of the Town Hall every Friday night from 7 to 10 p.m. to play chess. For more information contact Connie Stelow, 729-1016.

The Coffee Connection Inc. Brews up 14th Java joint in Winchester

The Coffee Connection Inc., the area's premiere specialty coffee institution, is brewing up a new addition to its family of retail stores with its 14th location at 542 Main St. in Winchester. As demand for quality coffee sweeps New England and the country, The Coffee Connection Inc., officially opens its new location on Monday, June 14. GOVERNOR, from page 1A pointment has not yet been made," said Suhrbier.

However, on May 28, Sopper took the oath of office. Suhrbier had said the administration "normally asks the Housing Authority for names or suggestions", but he said nothing was mentioned at a Housing Authority meeting of an imminent appointment the night before Sopper was sworn in. Suhrbier did say he had been asked as the outgoing appointee if he had any suggestions for the position, but he told the administration he felt it was not his place to "endorse or not endorse a candidate."

Suhrbier said it would be "extraordinary" if the chairman of the Board of Selectmen was not involved in the process. But Chairman Peter VanAken told the Star on May 31 that he was not aware of the appointment. "I was surprised that the Board of Selectmen were not approached," said VanAken.

Sen. Charles Shannon (R-Winchester) said he was asked about Sopper by the administration and told them he felt Sopper was qualified to hold the position. Shannon said he did not think anyone else applied for the position.

As a member of the Housing Authority, Sopper said he wanted to focus on the Winchester Affordable Housing Fund, which he started when he served a term as a selectman. The fund, which contains approximately $700,000, is an affordable housing fund, which was built using linkage fees and donations.

Sopper said town housing authorities need to more aggressively pursue linkage funds. Sopper said he could envision the fund reaching $2 million.

"There's more out there if somebody goes after it," said Sopper.

Sopper said he agrees with much of the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS), a 55-page study on increasing affordable housing, approved by the Board of Selectmen last November. Although Sopper was vocal at hearings at which the CHAS was being presented, he said he concurs with much of the report and the overall goal of providing affordable housing.

Sopper did say the housing trust fund would be better used to directly assist with affordable housing, and he felt the town's housing strategy contained too much bureaucracy.

Sopper lost a bid to gain a seat to Archie MacIntyre in 1992. He served on the Board of Selectmen from 1988-89.

that "when we decide to fight, we are risking the youth of this country."

Sen. Charles Shannon (R-Winchester) told those gathered that pending anti-veteran legislation before the state Legislature demonstrates that some people do not appreciate the role war veterans have played in this country. Shannon referred to bills on Beacon Hill that would open stores on Memorial Day and stop cities and towns from putting flags on gravesites. Shannon said special attention should be given to the MIA and POW issues. "Hopefully, we can resolve that to our satisfaction," said Shannon.

Michael Saraco, marshal of the parade and commander of VFW Post 3719, said evidence of disrespect can be seen in businesses that use Memorial Day as an advertising tool. "I think it's wrong to use a solemn occasion for financial gain," said Saraco.

The parade began at the high school and traveled down Main Street to Church Street to Waterfield Road to the war memorial at the intersection of Mystic Valley Parkway and Main Street. After the laying of a wreath, the parade continued down Main and up Mt. Vernon to the Honor Roll, where the speeches were made; participating bands played taps, "America", and "Star-Spangled Banner"; and the Winchester Police Color Guard fired a three-round volley.

accrediting board. Finance Committee member Helen Philliou disagreed with the assumptions of the School Committee's overall budget and gave a detailed presentation of the ways in which schools eat up town money; ways she says that are not apparent to people outside of the system. Philliou said expenditures on school-related issues total $18 million and not $13,884,969 when state aid and grants are factored in.

Town Meeting member Anthony Conte questioned why class sizes in the 25 or even 30s range were not acceptable, and noted that they were the norm when he attended school. When questioning the addition of the Assistant Director of Curriculum Conte added, "I would ask you to defeat this amendment. In the last 30-35 years we've seen an enormous increase in school administrators. I'm tired of hearing this," said Conte.

Town Meeting member Denise Medaligia said class sizes were important to the education received at the elementary level. "I'm very disheartened by some of the comments I Medaligia.

Town Manager W. Chadw addressed where the money come from to fund the amendment. Maurer said money come up from accounts such as $1 a proposed adjustment to station fees. He also noted had been reductions in budget line items, most notably energy account and the capital "When all is said and don balance out," said Maurer.

The Winchester High lacrosse team challenged the cream of the crop in Massachusetts game after game. Tony Mirabella carried the ball briefly against powerful Newton North on May 26, but the Tigers carried the play, beating Winchester 19-3.

Cleaning out the spring sports closet

Winchester High teams prove win-loss records can often be deceiving

Another high school sports season has come and gone, and it's time to clean out the sports closet once again.

JIM MCKENZIE

Although the boys tennis team was Winchester's only league champion, several squads had successful seasons. The girls tennis team finished in second place with an 11-2 mark, and had moved into the second round of the MIAA state tournament as of Wednesday. The boys track team went 7-2 in a highly competitive league, dropping close meets to Reading and Melrose. A young girls track team finished in the middle of the pack.

But of all the Sachem squads, the lacrosse, softball and baseball teams may have had the most interesting season.

In a preseason interview, lacrosse coach John Pirani said that while the Sachems' goal was to finish first or second in the North Division and qualify for the tournament, the season would by no means be a failure if the team didn't qualify. Pirani is well-respected for annual-ty putting together one of the toughest schedules in the state.

As it happened, Winchester finished the season at 8-8, but right up until the final regular-season game, the coaches poll had the Sachems ranked in the top 10, a sign that Pirani's coaching brethren acknowledged his killer schedule.

Pirani said all along that the regular season was the team's tourney. He claimed that he'd rather miss the tournament due to high-level competition than play a patsy-filled slate and get crushed in the first round of the playoffs. ...

Just exactly what happened down at Ginn Field the last two weeks of the Middlesex League regular season? How does one explain the late-season success of the WHS softball team, which posted come-from-be-several upperclassmen contributed mightily to the turnaround. The seniors, led by Jenn Russo, Andrea DeStefano and Dianne Aufero, exploded offensively during the surge and opposing pitchers had a terrible time deciding who to pitch around.

Sophomores Julie Russo and Mary Keefe are future stars. Both played like league all-stars at times, particularly in the latter stages of the season. In her last four games, last season's 16-4 Middlesex League champions, but had lost six starters, including four all-stars. In the end, the team simply didn't hit in clutch situations. There were some big wins, but equally crucial losses. The pitching was at times spectacular, and at other times questionable.

Scott Imperatore and Josh Carroll repeated their all-star seasons, with Imperatore coming on after a slow start to bat a team-leading .388 and Carroll getting a lot of frustration out of his system with a prodigious home run in Winchester's late-season 11-1 wipeout of Woburn. While he failed to repeat as an all-star, Russo did everything coach Bill Chase could ask, pitching with an elbow that was never at full strength after a 1992 injury, and switching from second base to shortstop to fill a big hole midway through the season.

On paper, the Sachems appeared to be a .500 team, and in the end, their 10-10 mark seems appropriate. But it was by no means a bad season, as only a pair of one-run losses in the final week kept Winchester out of the tourney. ...

Unfortunately, the season had a sad twist to it, as the WHS community was rocked by the deaths of family members of several athletes. Condolences to the families of Sachem athletes Iman Oakley, Paul and Meredith McGowan and Catherine and Emily Doherty. Oakley lost his brother, while the McGowans and Dohertys each lost their fathers.

The coaches poll had the Sachems ranked in the top 10, a sign that Pirani's coaching brethren acknowledged his killer schedule.

hind wins in its last three games? How did this team, which won just 1 of 18 games a year ago, end the season at 7-11, the best in coach Linda Silvestri's six years? The answers are really quite simple.

First of all, Silvestri had better players this season. A lot of the credit has to go to the Winchester Youth Baseball/Softball program, which fielded its first summer softball team in 1989. Seven players from that first junior division team were varsity members this season. Two years ago, the program started a senior division team. The increased playing time throughout the last four summers has paid obvious dividends.

Although the team was young,

Keefe had 13 hits, while Russo, the prototypical No. 2 hitter, led the team in runs scored while playing a sensational shortstop.

But pitching, of course, makes the difference in softball. When senior Rose McCaul was lost for the season with a thumb injury after the fourth game, the prospects looked bleak. But in a trial-by-fire, sophomore Jannine Allen and freshmen Kristen McKinley and Bonnie Benson were forced to jump into the varsity pitching rotation. Each had a win in the season-ending streak.

The future of this squad continues to get brighter. ...

Girls lacrosse wraps up second season as club team; hopes for varsity status

By Jacqueline Carr
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

Winchester lacrosse has come a long way since the sport was introduced to Winchester in 1964 as a club under guidance of coach Gene Bouley.

Winchester High was the first public school to add a varsity lacrosse team to its athletic program. With such a rich tradition of lacrosse excellence, Winchester held its first-ever alumni lacrosse game on May 22 at Manchester Field. The oldest players attending graduated from WHS in 1967, while the youngest graduated a year ago. All told, nearly 50 former players showed up for the game.

The Black Team, coached by current Sachem coach John Pirani, a WHS graduate, was made up of players like '91 grad Steve Mueller and '69 grad Joe Bonasara. The Red Team, coached by original lacrosse coach and current varsity soccer coach Gene Bouley, welcomed '67 grad Dan McGee and '92 grad Jay Lombard.

"There were guys playing who graduated before I was born," said Lombard.

Two other recognizable players on the Red Team were junior varsity lacrosse coach and WHS grad George Nowell and assistant varsity coach Rob Quine. After four quarters and a lot of laughs, the Red Team came out ahead of the Black Team 8-5.

For Pirani, the attendance at the game speaks volumes about the state of Winchester lacrosse.

"If you think about it, there are over 140 kids out of about 800 at the high school playing lacrosse," said Pirani. "You can put those numbers up against any sport at the school. Ninety-two kids came out for boys lacrosse, and over 50 participated in girls lacrosse. That's really a high number."

In 1964 and 1965, lacrosse was an organized club at WHS and in 1966 the first boys lacrosse team, under coach Bouley, took the field. Newton and Ipswich weren't far behind in starting varsity lacrosse squads.

In 1967 and 1968, two key players — Pirani and current Michigan State head coach Rich Kimball — were part of the WHS roster.

In 1971, the Sachems tasted victory at the state championship, beating Longmeadow 10-2 in the final. Pirani took over as head coach in 1977, and the Sachems returned to the state tournament the next three years.

Girls lacrosse

For several years, the girls at Winchester High School have tried to create their own lacrosse team. Past attempts to form a club team ended due to limited interest and/or lack of available opponents. Last year, however, the first successful club was formed, led by coaches Kim Donlon and Sharon Goodman-Tyrell, and captains Heidi Reinfeld and Alyssa Berman.

Reinfeld and Berman failed in an earlier attempt to begin a club, but last spring found success in a squad made up mainly of freshmen and sophomores. The girls finished with a 2-1 record, beating Beverly and Marblehead and losing to Walpole, another first-year club.

This year's club, which hoped to attain varsity status, had returning senior Heather Manahan and returning junior Cara Bonasara as co-captains, and Donlon and Goodman-Tyrell coming back to coach. The girls were told they'd have to prove their interest and remain a club for at least one more year.

The girls finished an informal season at 0-5-1, playing mostly more-experienced varsity clubs. On Tuesday, they lost 4-2 to Marblehead in the season finale.

Sachem tennis rolls in tourney

Winchester advances to semis

For the first time in three seasons, the Winchester High School boys tennis team has advanced past the first round of the Division 1 state tournament.

Girls win opener, page 2B

After receiving a bye in the preliminary round, Winchester swamped Reading 4-1 last Friday before whipping Chelmsford 5-0 on Tuesday at the Swim and Tennis Club. Winchester was scheduled to play the winner of the St. John's Prep/Lincoln-Sudbury match on Friday, weather permitting.

The past three years, coach Sean O'Loughlin's teams had raced through the Middlesex League with exceptional records, only to be upset in the team's first match. In 1991, the Sachems were 11-2 before losing a tough match to a powerful Brookline squad. The 1993 team, however, has the benefit of a painful 4-1 loss to Andover in last year's opening round as a reminder that despite their 13-0 regular-season record, they weren't invincible.

After Tuesday's whitewash of a strong Chelmsford team, O'Loughlin said he felt the team was playing its best tennis of the season.

"The kids were comfortably loose out there," said O'Loughlin. "Imagine going into Brookline or Andover like we did the last two years with a young team. We lost, but we gained valuable experience. The kids were confident, but not cocky."

Winchester actually finished off the match in just over one hour, as Matt Fuller whipped Eric Kaplan 6-2, 6-2, Dave Fiorentino got past Chris Zyllich 6-3, 6-2 and the second doubles team of Matt Storeygard and Tim Malcolm raced past Chelmsford's No. 2 duo 6-3, 6-1.

In Fuller's match, the defending State Champion had to deal with the hard-serving Kaplan and a strong wind. No problem. Fuller simply hit Kaplan with an equally strong serve in pulling away to the straight-set win.

Florentino trailed 3-2 in the first set, but ripped off four straight games to roll to a 6-3 win. He breezed through the second set, finishing moments after Fuller.

The second doubles team, which started about 20 minutes after the other four matches due to a wet court, needed just 45 minutes to earn the decisive third point.

"They simply played a terrific match," said O'Loughlin. "I couldn't believe how quickly they finished."

The other matches went three sets, with Pete French and Tony Cella surviving an upset bid to stay undefeated, winning 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, and Cliff Swap coming back after dropping the first set to win 2-6, 6-2, 7-6 (7-3).

"That was a real test for Cliff," said O'Loughlin. "He really came back strong."

The Sachems started the tourney against fellow Middlesex League entrant Reading, which had defeated Cambridge Ringe and Latin 5-0 in a preliminary round contest. Winchester defeated the Rockets for the third time in as many meetings this year, taking a 4-1 decision at Winchester.

Fuller once again led the rout, trouncing his opponent 6-0, 6-1. Fiorentino took a 6-3, 6-2 decision at No. 2, but at No. 3, Swap was forced to default in order to make it to the senior prom.

O'Loughlin decided to break up his top doubles combination of French and Cella, giving each senior a chance to play with an underclassman. Cella teamed with Storeygard to win 7-6, 6-1, while French and Malcolm romped, 6-2, 6-3.

"It was probably the best move I've made all year," said O'Loughlin. "Both groups split up, and when they came back together, they realized how much they each mean to each other."

Winchester was unsure whether it's quarter-final opponent would be St. John's Prep or Lincoln Sudbury, as the two teams had matches postponed due to rain. A matchup with the Prep would be held in Danvers while a Lincoln-Sudbury match would be held at the friendly confines of the Swim and Tennis Club. According to the Sachem coach, Winchester would welcome either opponent equally.

"I'm feeling very good about things right now," said O'Loughlin. "Everyone's playing well. We just need to get focused in on things, and I think we can beat either team. We'll be ready."

The Winchester Tennis Association held its annual Memorial Day Blind Draw Tennis Tournament at the Packer Courts over the weekend. Over 200 individuals signed up to play, and each was teamed with a partner through a blind draw. In the women's doubles division, the team of Paula Ferrone (above) and Petra Rydlova upset the second-seeded team of Carolyn Potter and Ellen Wilson in the final. The unseeded duo won 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

First Call Braves 3 Century 21 A's 2

Mark Sullivan's one-hit, nine-strike-out performance was overwhelming as the First Call Braves beat the Century 21 A's 3-2. The A's struck early when Jeff Davis singled, stole and scored on an error, and Chris DiSimone walked and scored on an error in the first inning. Those two unearned runs would prove to be the only glitch in an otherwise flawless performance by Sullivan, who brought his record to 4-0.

Sullivan and Matt Gallary both scored in the first on successive RBI by Tim Schindler and David Adams for the First Call Braves. The Braves rallied in the fifth inning to break a 2-2 tie. Richard Donahue walked and scored when Brian d'Entremont smashed a double into center field, giving the Braves the go-ahead run.

The A's Alex Scopion turned in an excellent catching performance, tagging out the Braves' Steve Deering, who had a run taken away when he failed to touch home plate. Pat Auferio, the A's starting pitcher gave up only four hits.

Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 6 Christopher Columbus Red Sox 5

Behind the gutsy five-hit pitching of Kevin Shanahan, the Parker-Lane-Winn Indians edged the Christopher Columbus Red Sox 6-5 at Manchester Field. Shanahan seemed safely on his way to a complete-game victory, but needed relief help from Matt Killion to preserve the win. Killion entered the game with two runs already in, one out, the tying run at third and the winning run at second. He earned the save when he struck out the next batter and had the final batter ground harmlessly to first base.

Mike Roscillo and Brad Murphy limited the Indians to a meager three hits and pitched well enough to win. The 1-2 punch of Mike Notaromoso and Kevin Shanahan accounted for all three Indian hits. Notaromoso drove in the tying run with a triple and eventually scored the winner.

The Red Sox actually doubled the Indians' output with 6 hits. Brendan Carroll collected two hits including a triple, while Shahan Stepanian proved worthy of his insertion as clean-up hitter by contributing two key hits of his own. Patrick Quigley and Jeff Granfield added singles for the Red Sox cause.

Fritz Von Mering continued his golden glove performance in centerfield for the Indians by pulling down several Red Sox extra-base attempts.

Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 15 Christopher Columbus Red Sox 5

The Parker-Lane-Winn Indians out-slugged the Christopher Columbus Club Red Sox 15-5 in a darkness-shortened game at McDonald Field. Four Indians, Kevin Shanahan, Matt Killion, Joe Lang and Fritz Von Mering, chipped in with two hits apiece in the 10-hit attack. Matt Dearman and Mike Notaromoso gathered the remaining Indians' hits.

Indians' starting pitcher Matt Killion gained an early 10-0 lead, however, the Red Sox, playing spirited baseball, chased Killion in the third with a four-run inning of their own. Relievers Mike Notaromoso and Kevin Shanahan combined to snuff out the Red Sox rally.

Brad Murphy went the route for the Red Sox while striking out seven. The Red Sox offense was led by Pat Quigley and Brad Murphy with two hits each, while Ryan Duffy and Brendan Carroll accounted for the balance of the Red Sox hits.

Century 21 A's 5 First Call Braves 2

The Century 21 A's defeated the First Call Braves behind the two-hit pitching of Jeff Davis. With the help of a strong defense, Davis held the Braves scoreless through six as he faced only two over the minimum number of batters.

The A's built an early lead by scoring two in the first and two more in the second. After that, Joey Lindmark came in to pitch the final four innings for the Braves and did a fine job by allowing only one more run to score. He helped his own cause by picking off two runners at second.

The Euclid Avenue connection was responsible for the Braves' two runs. In the top of the seventh Brian d'Entremont reached base on an error and promptly stole second. With one out Mark Sullivan drove him home with a single, advanced to second on an error, stole third, and scored on an infield out. Lindmark had the Braves first hit in the fourth.

The A's offense was led by Scott LaBlanc, who collected three hits, with other hits coming from the bats of Andy Mirabito, Justin Kingstad, Pat Auferio and Brian Purchia. The defense was bolstered by the fine infield play of Frank Batchelor, Chris DeSimone and Kingstad.

Dodgers grab 2 wins in Bambino play

Win. Cooperative Bank Dodgers 9 Blackham Realty White Sox 2

Despite the steady pitching performance of Chris French for the White Sox, the Dodgers defeated them in the Tuesday night game. Jay Higgins gave a very solid performance for the Dodgers and helped himself with a double in the third inning. Jonathan Corey's hard-hit ball to first really got things moving in this team effort for the Dodgers. Ryan Sutton's homer in the second helped solidify the win. Other Dodger hitting was done by Brian Curry (two nice slams and great defense at short-stop), Brian Shaughnessey and Eric Sutton. Gino Rotondi's excellent defensive work also helped. Bill Wolfe, Rico Cella and Joe Weeren put in a solid effort for the Sox.

The Winchester Elks Cubs on a passed ball. The Newpro Red Sox added another hit by rookie Brad Simas in the bottom of the fourth. The defense for the Newpro Red Sox was outstanding as Arria doubled off Nelson in the first. Other defensive plays were made by Ben Thomas, Ernie Guarino and Brad Simas in the outfield, and Capone, d'Entremont and Bandoian in the infield.

The Winchester Elks Cubs' Buchanan went the distance in a great effort. Hits were added by Nelson and Sullivan. The defense had no errors. The final score was in favor of the Newpro Red Sox, 2-1.

Win. Cooperative Bank Dodgers 5 Winchester Elks Cubs 0

The Dodgers saw another solid performance from Brian Curry, who pitched an almost perfect game against the Cubs on Thursday evening, striking out twelve and walking no one. Michael Byford played a great second base, making several plays requiring high jumps in the air and good defensive instincts. Brandon Fitzgerald in right field, Michael Maguire on third, Brian Shaughnessey on first and Jason Reece in center contributed to the Dodgers defensive effort. Ryan Sutton hit another home run and performed well behind the plate.

Michael Morris and Matt Porter did an admirable job on the mound for the Cubs and Wilson got the team's only hit.

Newpro Red Sox 2 Winchester Elks Cubs 1

The Newpro Red Sox and the Winchester Elks Cubs had a pitchers' duel Monday night with Danny Arria for the Newpro Red Sox and Ryan Buchanan for the Winchester Elks Cubs. The Newpro Red Sox scored in the bottom half of the first when Turner Kniffen hit a single, Danny Arria sacrificed him to second, Kniffen stole third and Jeff Capone singled home.

In the bottom of the third Brad Frost walked and Danny Arria hit a line-drive double in the gap to score him.

In the top of the fourth, Buchanan hit a double and later scored the only run for the Winchester Elks Cubs on a passed ball. The Newpro Red Sox added another hit by rookie Brad Simas in the bottom of the fourth. The defense for the Newpro Red Sox was outstanding as Arria doubled off Nelson in the first. Other defensive plays were made by Ben Thomas, Ernie Guarino and Brad Simas in the outfield, and Capone, d'Entremont and Bandoian in the infield.

The Winchester Elks Cubs' Buchanan went the distance in a great effort. Hits were added by Nelson and Sullivan. The defense had no errors. The final score was in favor of the Newpro Red Sox, 2-1.

Carlson Realty Athletics 12 Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 6

Jason Lanzillo and Jeremy Carroll paced a revitalized A's attack. Lanzillo had three hits and Carroll was 2 for 2. Colin Barden pitched five strong innings for the A's and added a hit. Dave Sullivan finished out the game for the A's. Tommy DiCarlo and Chris Tambone paced the Mets attack. Tambone had three hits and DiCarlo had two.

Carlson Realty Athletics 9 Winchester Star Cardinals 6

Peter Dupuis pitched a complete game victory for the A's. Dupuis allowed five singles and two Justin Barauskas home runs. Dupuis added two hits for the victors. The A's were paced by Jeremy Carroll. He had two home runs including a grand slam. Colin Barden had two hits for the A's as well. Adam Grassi, Brad Harvey and Joe Bussichella had hits for the Cards.

Win. Tennis Center Orioles 11 Winchester Star Cardinals 9

The Orioles held on to record their ninth consecutive victory as they defeated the Cardinals on May 25. The Orioles went ahead early as they scored two runs in the first on consecutive singles by Jonathon Nakamoto, J. A. Koslowski, Luke Killion and Paul Koslowski. The Cards rallied and took the lead with four runs in the second inning on hits by Rugo Santini, Guy Dancella, Justin Barauskus and Dale Halchak. The Orioles regained the lead for good as they batted around and scored five runs in the third on hits by Nakamoto, J.A. Koslowski and Tom Hayden.

J.A. Koslowski went the distance to record his third win of the season and constantly pitched out of trouble as the Cardinals stranded 12 baserunners.

Santini, Barauskas and Halchak all had multiple-hit games for the Cards while Nakamoto (4 hits) and J.A. Koslowski (3) led the O's.

Win. Tennis Center Orioles 11 Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 8

The Orioles rode the 12-strikeout, one-walk performance of pitcher Matt Malatesta in posting their 10th straight win on May 26.

As has been the case during most of the Orioles' victories, they scored early and often. This time the O's scored four in the bottom of the first after the Mets scored twice in the top of the inning. Mike Ciaurro singled and pitcher Tommy DiCarlo brought him around with a triple for the Mets, before Matt Hurley tripled and J.A. Koslowski and Jonathon Nakamoto doubled to jumpstart the O's.

The Mets regained the lead by scoring twice in the fourth, with Andrew Chin delivering the key hit. The Orioles responded with two runs in the bottom of the frame on a Malatesta single and a long double by catcher John Newhall.

The lead changed hands again in the fifth, but the Orioles hung on with Malatesta's strong pitching. DiCarlo went the distance for the Mets while David Rodriguez chipped in with a pair of hits.

Junior minors heats up

The eight-team Junior Minor Baseball League, comprised of over 100 9-year-old boys and girls, is now in full swing. With three weeks of games completed, there has been consistent standout play in both divisions. This is the first time that players have faced pitching by their peers and all have taken the challenge well.

The Federal Heating Division is shaping up into a very close race for this year's pennant. Right now, all the Federals have a chance at the top, with three teams tied at 5-6.

The Wilde Insurance Agency League has been more one-sided, however, with both the Cardinals (8-3) and Dodgers (8-3) dictating the pace.

McCall captures math league title

The McCall Middle School Math Team ended the 1992-93 competition in first place in the entire Intermediate Math League of Eastern Mass. Their final total of 936 points gave McCall an 8-point victory over perennial rival Diamond Middle School of Lexington. Several times in recent years McCall has captured its division title, but this is the first league championship.

Competitions are held monthly with neighboring towns and results are compared with schools with similar historical records that were grouped for award purposes. McCall's division, Pascal, includes Andover (West), Framingham (Walsh), Masconomet, Newton (Day), and Reading (Parker). McCall placed first at every meet this year and competing students were awarded blue ribbons.

All sixth, seventh and eighth graders at McCall are eligible and welcome to join the math team. Ten students compete each month as "regulars" and up to 10 students compete as "alternates." Final tabulations placed three McCall eighth graders among the nine students in the entire league with perfect scores for at least four meets. These students were: Liz Breuer, Adam Storeyard and Masahiro Ueno. Sam Richardson topped all other seventh graders with a perfect score and Eric Schrock was the highest scoring sixth grader in the league. Other students competing were: (grade 8) Frank Baldwin, Mark Campbell, Ryan Keenan, Aaron Quaday, Nicholas Stephanopoulos; (grade 7) Tom DaMassa, Richard Donohue, Eric Carthy-Pickles, Justin Godoy, David Myers, Richard Sullivan; (grade 6) Afshoon Afshar, Jared Ahern, Nick Beckman, David Lerman and Nate Lynch.

The team is coached by McCall math teachers Jane Sughrue and Jack Squeglia. Mrs. Sughrue explained the positive results as a consistent effort by a group of talented and dedicated students — a joy to work with. The end of the year activity will be a pizza party hosted by McCall's principal, Evander French. The school will receive two engraved plaques for its achievements, one for winning its division, and the other league championship plaque will be kept at McCall through next year's meets.

Muraco School students perform in play

The fourth, third, first and kindergarten classes at Muraco School performed an original play, "The Magic Schoolbus Gets Lost in the Rainforest." The play will be held in the Muraco cafeteria on Friday, May 28, at 10:15 a.m. Having this humorous and informative play shows students how important the Rainforest is. After a month of hard work they are now ready to perform. The fourth, third, first and kindergarten classes invites the public.

Grandpals program a big hit at Lynch

Lynch Elementary School fourth and fifth graders meet their grandpals and give them a tour of their school on May 14. The Grandpals Program, which gives young and old an opportunity to share their ideas and perspectives, culminates in a gathering at the Jenks Center on May 27.

The McCall Middle School Math Team.

Auto dealers pitch tent, and more

By Neal Weinberg

HARTE-HANKS BUSINESS EDITOR

MetroWest auto dealers will be setting up their tents and showing off their wheels June 4-7 at the Great Tent Event, a fun-filled way for shoppers to look for a new car or truck.

The tent sale was previously held at Shoppers' World but the dealers decided to each hoist a tent at their individual dealerships this time around.

Participating dealers are: Framingham Ford, Brigham-Gill Pontiac/Jeep/Eagle/Suzuki, Herb Connolly Buick/Acura, Long Pontiac/Cadillac/GMC Truck, Framingham Chrysler/Plymouth/MetroWest Oldsmobile, Bay State Lincoln/Mercury and Farrell Volvo.

In addition to more than 10,000 vehicles, there will be cookouts, entertainment and prizes, according to Jerry Chase Jr. of Framingham Ford.

He said the tent sale comes at an opportune time for local auto dealers, who are enjoying a rebound in sales.

"Business has been outstanding since February," Chase said, calling the recent surge in sales the best in five years.

Chase said sales have finally "busted out" because of pent-up demand. Even though consumer confidence isn't improving very much, people just plain have to get new cars after years of trying to hold onto their clunkers.

"People are buying out of need instead of desire," Chase said.

He said the tent event serves two purposes; offering shoppers a good time and giving them the information they need to make an informed choice.

"It's a great opportunity for our neighbors on the MetroWest area to save a lot of money," said Herb Connolly, who has operated his Buick dealership for the past 40 years.

Connolly said the event allows customers to see the dealers as a friendly group of people providing a service to the community. His Rte. 9 dealership will be offering refreshments, balloons, prizes and "real bargains" on Buicks and Acuras.

Buick Skylark

1993 model receives even more enhancements

Buick Skylark coupe and sedan models, totally and dramatically redesigned for 1992, return with new trim levels and more features and customer enhancements for 1993.

Perhaps no other Buick model currently offered has received more attention than Skylark. California artists have painted free expression renditions of the strikingly provocative Buick. For 1993, Skylark continues its boldly distinctive styling statement.

For 1993, Skylark is offered in new Custom and Limited trim levels in addition to Gran Sport. All three are available as coupe or sedan.

Custom models, representing the best value for price ratio within the Skylark lineup, are distinguished by specific content. Custom models are identified by side molding and an analog gauge cluster.

A new two-function battery "rundown" protection system is standard equipment

Buick Skylark

BUICK SKYLARK, From page 1 on Custom and Limited.

An inadvertent power control function automatically shuts off the power after 20 minutes if an interior lamp is left on with the ignition off. The power system is reactivated by any one of the following procedures; turning on the ignition, turning off the activated lamp, or opening a front door. A similar automatic shut off function occurs if any door is left open with the ignition turned off.

A control feature guards against battery drain over a longer period of time. If the car is left with the ignition off for more than 24 days the battery power to clock/radio and the remote lock control is automatically turned off. When the ignition is turned on, battery power is reactivated.

Other new standard equipment on Custom and limited models includes a 14-inch deluxe wheel cover, fixed rear seatbacks and 55/45 split bench front seats.

Limited models feature standard 55/45 split bench front seats with a storage armrest. Optional on Limited are split-folding rear seatbacks.

Gran Sport models have a standard Gran Touring suspension and optional adjustable ride control system for 1993. DynaRide suspension, designed specifically to enhance the traditional Buick ride without sacrificing handling, is standard on Custom and Limited.

The standard engine in Custom and Limited is the 2.3-liter Quad OHC. The four-cylinder engine features single overhead cam design and delivers 115 horsepower at 5200 rpm and 140 lb-ft of torque at 3200 rpm. New this year is a lower 2.53 final drive ratio for the automatic transmission mated to the Quad OHC. Estimated EPA fuel economy ratings are 23 miles per gallon city and 31 highway. An automatic transmission is standard on all Skylarks.

The powerful 3300 V-6 is optional on Custom and Limited and standard on Gran Sport. Delivering 160 horsepower at 5200 rpm and 185 lb-ft of torque at 2000 rpm, the 3300 V-6 is rated at 20 mpg city (a 1-mpg improvement) and 29 highway. The engine provides the basis for the Buick racing V-6 engine which attained the pole position for the Indianapolis 500 at a record average speed of 232.482 mph.

CAR OF THE WEEK

If the car is left with the ignition off for more than 24 days the battery power to clock/radio and the remote lock control is automatically turned off. When the ignition is turned on, battery power is reactivated.

1993 GMC Truck Sonoma

Pontiac, Mich. — Compact pickups have been around for years. Popular for their versatility and efficiency, these smaller trucks get the job done for thousands of buyers. Like the full-size GMC Truck Sierra, a Sonoma strength is depth of character. GMC Truck offers tremendous flexibility and choice. A high-performance towing machine can be equipped to trailer up to 6,000 pounds. Work trucks can be ordered to handle a 1,900-lb. payload. A tough and rugged 4x4 can be fully outfitted for the outback right from the factory.

Sonoma provides buyers with a choice of purposeful powertrain combinations. The compact pickup market includes several large segments, from basic transportation to work and recreational trucks. All require different powertrain characteristics and GMC Truck delivers with six purpose-driven choices.

Standard on all two-wheel-drive models, the 2.5-liter in-line four-cylinder is the Sonoma mileage champ. Teamed with the improved five-speed manual transmission, proposed 1993 EPA estimates show the combination achieving 23 mpg city/27 mpg highway. With 105 horsepower on tap, power was not sacrificed for fuel efficiency. The 2.5-liter can also be teamed with the optional, non-electronic 4L60 four-speed automatic transmission.

Standard on all four-wheel-drive models and available on two-wheel-drive vehicles, the 4.3-liter V6 (LB4) brings big displacement power to the Sonoma line. Matched to a New Venture Gear five-speed manual transmission, this engine produces five more horsepower and five more lb.-ft. of torque than it did in 1992, and is now rated at 165 horsepower at 4,000 rpm and 235 lb.-ft. torque at 2,800 rpm.

With the choice of six engine/transmission combinations,

Sonoma's strength in the compact pickup segment is its powertrain options. Buyers benefit by having the ability to choose the powertrain they need to get the job done.

To accommodate the front half shafts, four-wheel-drive models use computer-selected torsion bars up front. This design features less unsprung mass compared to competitive systems that use a solid front axle. Distinct Sonoma benefits include a smoother ride and reduced tire wear. Four-wheel-drive models utilize the same rear suspension as two-wheel-drive models.

In 1989, rear-wheel anti-lock brakes (RWAL) were made standard on every Sonoma. The system cured a common problem associated with unladen pickups — rear-wheel lockup — under hard, emergency-situation braking. The RWAL system prevents the rear tires from locking or skidding by modulating rear brake line pressure.

Sonoma's RWAL acts on power-assisted front disc and rear drum brakes. The anti-lock system functions in two-wheel drive, and the brakes act in a conventional manner in four-wheel drive.

Sonoma is available in two cab styles, the traditional Regular Cab and the roomier Club Coupe. Both cabs are available in standard SL trim, a sporty SLS outfit and top-of-the-line SLE formal wear. Box lengths of 6.1 and 7.4 ft. are available on Regular-Cab models. Of course, the Sonoma line would not be complete without the choice of two- or four-wheel drive.

Autoworld Dealer Profile

Framingham Chrysler Plymouth and Metrowest Oldsmobile

1119 Worcester Road, Framingham

Number of Employees: 35

History: Owner John Fashjian got his start in the automobile business in the early '70's as a Datsun salesperson in Worcester. Wanting to get out on his own, Fashjian soon opened his own used car business in Worcester, then, in 1978, purchased Framingham Chrysler Plymouth. In April of 1992, he expanded to pick up Oldsmobile products, and, to further improve, will open a new Chrysler Plymouth showroom this May.

Framingham Chrysler Plymouth has "adapted to the changes in the market" over the past 15 years, says General Manager Jim Horgas, citing "We're now very much concerned with treating the customer right." In alignment with this goal, this dealership works hard to change the public's perception of car dealerships, says Horgas. "We're very dedicated to raising the level of integrity in the automobile business."

Types of Cars Sold: Chrysler, Plymouth and Oldsmobile cars are sold, as well as, says Horgas, "a little bit of everything" in the way of used cars. This dealership also leases all makes and models of cars.

Hottest Sellers: Plymouth Voyager, Chrysler Concorde and Oldsmobile Special Edition Supreme and Ciera.

Best Deal on the Lot: The hot new Oldsmobile Achieva is available this week at a sale price of $100 over factory invoice for instock cars. The price can't be beat for a car with such a high level of standard features, including antilock brakes, power door locks, and such great details as rear-seat heating outlets.

Specialties: What sets this dealership apart from its competitors is, says Horgas, "that we have a management team here. These are professional people that love their job and are dedicated to raising the integrity of this business to a higher level."

In recent years, he explains, competition in this business has become much fiercer and car dealerships have to work much harder for every deal. Because of this, "We try to sell a customer value," says Horgas. "That's not just taking their money for a car. Anyone can sell a car. (Customers) are buying a dealership as much as a car, and a dealership is its people."

Service: The service department at Framingham Chrysler Plymouth and Metrowest Oldsmobile is staffed by factory certified technicians who are "all A-rated mechanics," notes General Manager Horgas. This department is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Incentives: Now being offered are one-priced Cutlass Supremes and Cieras and special rebates on Chrysler minivans. In addition, Oldsmobile Achievas and Chrysler Voyagers can be leased for $199 a month. Big package savings are available on the Sundance and others.

Philosophy: This dealership focuses on "automotive excellence in every sense," says Horgas. "We try to do everything the best we can - ...fix cars right the first time (and) treat customers the way they want to be treated. The automobile business is a service business. If you pay attention to the basics and watch the details, the business can't help but be good."

When other dealers were cutting back, Horgas adds, owner John Fashjian was investing in his. "He's committed to the neighborhood and the market. 'We're here to stay.'"

R.H. Long Motors

Route 135, Framingham

History: Richard Long, founder of R.H. Long Motors, was a former automobile manufacturer with Franklin, a car maker in the early portion of this century. In the 1920's, having opened the Bay State Auto Co., he began manufacturing and selling his own cars, called Baystates. In 1927, Long established R.H. Long Motors in an old shoe factory. He initially sold only Cadillacs, but later added both Pontiacs and GMC Trucks to the lot. R.H. Long Motors, now operated by Long's son, Charles F. Long, is now in its 66th year, and is the oldest Pontiac and Cadillac dealer in the United States.

Number of Employees: more than 75

Hottest Sellers: Pontiac Grand Am and Grand Prix; GMC Sonoma and Suburban; and the Cadillac Fleetwood and DeVille.

Specialties: "What sets us apart from the other dealers" is that R.H. Long Motors was founded and is run by the same family, says General Manager Julian Hargraves. According to Bill Leland, sales manager at Long Motors, this tradition has enabled the dealership to rely on repeat business and customer referrals for its continued growth.

With its more than six decades of experience and growth, Long Motors has more to offer, however, than the family touch. The dealership boasts a 44-stall service department which allows Department Manager Tim Hutter and his crew to help customers properly maintain their cars. This service continues to become increasingly helpful, notes Hargraves, as more people are keeping their cars longer and are maintaining them better. R.H. Long Motors is also the largest Pontiac dealer in the United States.

Philosophy at Long Motors: "The customer is first."

Jack Lane's Bay State Lincoln Mercury

571 Worcester Road, Framingham

History: Owner Jack Lane began his career in the automobile industry in 1958 as a salesperson at Coveney Ford, formerly of West Roxbury. Within two years Lane became a manager, spending most of his career there as a general sales manager. In 1965, Lane left Coveney Ford and, in 1968, opened his own business - Jack Lane Motor Sales - in Dedham Square. Thirteen years ago, Lane moved this dealership to a larger facility in Framingham, renaming it Bay State Lincoln Mercury.

Lane is assisted by his twin sons, John Lane Jr. and Robert Lane, and his daughter, Kathryn Lane.

Types of Cars Sold: New and used Lincoln Mercury models, and all makes and models of used cars.

Hottest Sellers: Mercury Villager, Mini Van, and Lincoln Mark VIII

Best Deal on the Lot: The all-new Villager is available at an affordable base price of $17,000.

Specialties: Says Jack Lane, his business is unique because of the experience of his employees. "Parts Manager George Tieri and Service Director Bill Urchuk have been involved with the dealership, satisfying customers, over the past 25 years," says Lane, noting that few service teams stay together so many years.

Service: The service department at Bay State Lincoln Mercury is open Monday through Friday - 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. - "making sure our customers are always right," says Lane. "We service all Ford products, (including) Ford light trucks and Lincoln/Mercury products, no matter where they bought the car."

Incentives: This dealership is now offering 5.9 percent financing on Tracer and Sable sedans and wagons, as well as Topaz sedans. In addition, the Mercury Grand Marquis is now available at 3.9 percent financing.

Philosophy: "Our professional sales group operates under the idea that we want no unhappy customers," says Lane.

Framingham Ford

Route 9 East, Framingham

History: Jerry Chase began his career in the auto industry working for the Ford Motor Company in Detroit, later returning to Massachusetts as regional field manager for Lincoln Mercury. In 1971, the opportunity to purchase Butler Ford was presented to him and he accepted. Owning a car dealership had been a dream of Chase's since high school.

Framingham Ford is a family business, run by owner Jerry Chase Sr., general manager Jerry Chase Jr., and fleet and rental manager Bill Chase, as well as a staff of highly qualified employees. As the proprietors of this family business, the Chases take personal pride and satisfaction in pleasing their customers.

Types of Cars Sold: Framingham Ford offers new and used cars and trucks of assorted makes and models, as well as a large leasing department.

Best Deal on the Lot: Ford Escort

Specialties: Boasting a large service department equipped with 21 bays, Framingham Ford continues to provide its customers quality maintenance and repairs. One of the many features this department offers is the Service Bay Diagnostic System, or SBDS. This system plugs into any Ford car or truck and electronically scans the brain of the car to accurately identify any problem spots. The SBDS computer also provides mechanics with service bulletins which give them a head start isolating problems quickly and correctly. Framingham Ford is one of the few dealerships nationwide that can offer this service to its customers.

Growth: Growth in the past few years has been in the way of utility vehicles such as the small pickup and the Ford Explorer. The amount of consumers leasing vehicles has also taken a rise in the past several years; up to 40% of cars are now leased rather than purchased.

Philosophy at Framingham Ford: "Don't buy a car buy a dealer. We at Framingham Ford expect to give customers a lifetime commitment," is the motto to which this dealership abides.

Herb Connolly Buick

500 Worcester Road, Framingham

Number of Employees: 42

History: In 1918, Herb Connolly established his automobile business as the first Chrysler dealer in Boston. He started a Buick franchise in 1936, and in 1950, the company purchased Boston Buick Dealer from Noyes Buick. Herb Connolly Jr. has been involved in the business for the past 52 years. Since moving the dealership in 1975 to 500 Worcester Road, Framingham, Connolly has focused on establishing one of the most outstanding General Motors Service and auto body paint and repair businesses in New England, and continues to be accessible to customers.

Types of Cars Sold: New and used Buicks, and a variety of other makes of used cars.

Hottest Sellers: "They've all been hot lately," says Business Manager Barry Glimcher. He describes models from "all the way across the board" as being popular, with the LeSabre, Regal and Park Avenue taking top honors.

Specialties: This dealership offers a full rental department, an 18-bay service center, the latest computerized equipment to service all General Motors cars, and 10 service technicians trained by GM. In addition, Connolly's offers transportation to and from work and serves a continental breakfast to customers - coffee, juice, donuts, and toast - while they wait.

Service: Herb Connolly Buick's sales and service departments' volume has grown in the past few years and, because this dealership's customer follow up system, repeat business is tremendous. Explained Connolly, "Herb Connolly Buick is working hard to earn your business, after the sale, customers are not left out in the cold."

Incentives: Customer rebates of up to $1500 are now available, as is financing as low as 5.9 percent.

Philosophy: "At Connolly, we continually contact our sales and service customers to ensure satisfaction. When you buy from Herb Connolly Buick you are not just buying a premium American automobile, you are buying a premium American automobile dealer as well," said Connolly.

Brigham Gill Pontiac Jeep Eagle Suzuki

Route 9, Natick

History: Joseph Gill and Art Brigham started their business in a small Wellesley building in 1966. As the business rapidly grew, they relocated in 1968 to their current store in Natick. The Jeep line-up was added in 1975 and Suzuki in 1991. Joseph Gill's son, Richard, who is vice president and general manager, now runs and operates the dealership with its 50 employees. Gill is also vice president of the MetroWest Auto Dealers Association which was formed this past summer to attract customers to the MetroWest area dealerships.

Types of Cars Sold: Pontiac, Jeep Eagle, Suzuki.

Best Deal On The Lot: Four-door Suzuki Sidekick.

Service: "We offer a service department and full body shop for any frame, body or painting needs you may have," explains Richard Gill.

Specialties: At Brigham Gill you can find a strong commitment to customer satisfaction, more than an average dealership, says Richard Gill. "We also offer a large selection of used cars," said Gill, referring to the large inventory of used Jeeps on the lot at all times.

Growth: "In the past several years, demand for sport utility type vehicles has skyrocketed. They have become the station wagon of the 90's," said Richard Gill.

Philosophy: Richard Gill and his staff are committed to total customer satisfaction because they believe it is the key to success in the 90's.

BCI urges drivers to recycle batteries

Based on cooler than normal summers around the country this year, many weather experts are predicting an early and cold winter. That means fall car care activities, like engine tuneups and checking the car battery, should begin soon.

If a car battery cannot be recharged or needs to be replaced for other reasons, or if there are old batteries in the garage or basement, now is a good time to recycle them.

Many states have passed legislation that mandates lead battery recycling and requires consumers to take their used batteries to local collection or recycling facilities or return them to retailers or wholesalers.

According to Battery Council International (BCI), more than 90 percent of old lead batteries - approximately 70 million - are being recycled each year, a rate higher than that of any domestic commodity, including plastic, paper, glass and aluminum. However, BCI estimates that there are still millions more batteries needlessly stored in or around homes and service stations that could be recycled.

BCI goes on to state that recycling any kind of lead battery, whether from a car, truck, motorcycle, boat or even lawn and garden equipment and wheelchairs, is easy to do and can really have a positive impact on the environment.

All the components of a lead battery, which include the plastic casing, sulfuric acid and the lead, can be separated, cleaned and reprocessed into new lead batteries and other products requiring the same materials. As a result, recycling also helps keep down the cost of new batteries, as well as other products using these materials. BCI is determined to further increase the recycling rate.

Lead battery recycling legislation may vary from state to state, so BCI advises people who want to recycle their old batteries to call local drop-off sites, retailers or wholesalers first to find out what take-back provisions they may impose, if any, and where used batteries can be returned.

Currently, 33 states have enacted some form of legislation based on a BCI model that encourages a greater lead battery recycling rate, while an additional five have banned the disposal of lead batteries in municipal solid waste streams. Still others are considering similar legislation.

To obtain an informational brochure, THE CONSUMER'S GUIDE TO LEAD BATTERY RECYCLING, or more information on this issue, call BCI's toll-free hotline: 800-658-1200. Or write: Battery Council International, 401 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60611-4267; FAX: 312-321-6869.

Newer cars lift decision-making burdens from drivers

Driving an automobile can be stressful. Wrong decisions may result in unnecessary wear on a car's driver and components - even cause accidents. Car makers are employing new technologies to lift these mental and physical burdens from drivers. These innovative engineering solutions either make decisions for the driver or substitute power systems for manual effort.

Many cars already contain diagnostic reminders that inform you when car doors aren't closed or seat belts aren't fastened. There are also warnings when brakes need to be checked or when an oil change is needed.

Other systems snug up seat belts when a crash occurs or turn off lights or other items that can run down a car's battery if left on after you shut off the ignition. There are also systems to deter you from starting a car in gear and prevent unintended acceleration, or from accidentally locking yourself out of your car.

Many cars come with anti-lock braking systems, which prevent skidding on slick surfaces by cycling brakes on and off. Thus, ABS, as such systems are called, allow you to "stand" on the brake.

There's no need for you to decide how to manually cycle the brakes on and off. The computer does it better than even the most expert drivers can.

Traction control uses the same type of brake cycling - and in some vehicles automatically controls engine speed - to keep cars from skidding when you accelerate.

Among the more innovative new features in cars are "fuzzy logic" automatic transmission shift controls found in the '93 Saturn and '94 Mitsubishi Galant. Though fuzzy logic would seem to be an oxymoron, it works extremely well in automatic transmissions to save constant braking when driving down hills. And it works just as well when climbing hills.

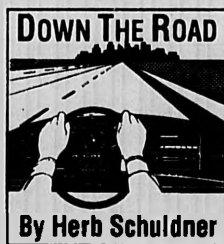

Many drivers of cars with automatic transmissions are not used to down-shifting - manually shifting the automatics into lower gears and using engine speed instead of braking to slow a car going downhill.

A fuzzy logic shift control does it for you. It uses "fuzzy logic" when your car is traveling downhill and automatically shifts into lower gear without the need for you to move the shift selector lever.

The result is a smooth and efficient use of the lower gears without the need for the driver to decide when to manually shift gears. This saves wear and tear on the brakes and automatic transmission. It's also one less decision for the driver to make.

Fuzzy logic shift controls also help to cut down on the "hunting" that automatic transmissions do when climbing hills. Mitsubishi's system uses the throttle opening and vehicle speed sensors, along with the brake switch to decide when to do the shifting.

The fuzzy logic computer determines if a car is driving uphill by processing the rate and amount of throttle opening. The computer then makes the correct down shifts to keep your car in the proper gear without hunting.

Getting in and out of a vehicle can be stressful if you forget to take your keys out of the ignition and lock the doors behind.

Fortunately, car makers have thought of ways to solve this problem. In Volvo's 850, for instance, you can only lock the driver's door when you're outside the vehicle.

How often have you tried to start a car and gotten only silence when you turn the key in the ignition switch. Dead batteries are frequently caused by leaving the lights on.

In the Volvo 850 and a growing list of other cars, you can't do that any more. The light switch in such cars is wired through the ignition. Turn off the ignition and you automatically turn off the lights.

Remote door lock controls have been around for a while. Press a little fob that usually holds your car keys and door locks pop open automatically. The same type of gadget often allows you to open trunks without a key.

Now General Motors is using the same technology to automatically slide side van doors open. GM's Inland Fisher Guide division uses the same keyless entry system to slide open the side doors of the APV mini-vans sold by Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Chevrolet. The $295 system becomes available in April.

Many drivers of cars with automatic transmissions are not used to down-shifting -- manually shifting the automatics into lower gears and using engine speed instead of braking to slow a car going downhill.

GM engineers have designed the system to automatically reverse the door's direction if a sensor detects any obstruction like a finger. What's more, the door always opens and closes at the same speed even if the vehicle is parked on a hill.

A day to remember, graduation

By NEIL ZOLOT
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Rain delayed the ceremony but didn't dampen the spirits of this year's crop of graduates from Winchester High.

In speeches Class President Jennifer Russo and Student Union Vice-President Emily D'entremont both expressed feelings of nostalgia and anticipation.

"We have come a long way together and now that we are graduating, one might think we must leave all that behind, but the lessons we gained here are strong enough to stand the test of time as well as any distance that may come between us," said Russo. "It is up to us from here to follow our own direction and create our own lives."

Said d'Entremont, "We've all waited anxiously for this day, the day that we would be finished with high school and ready to leave. We can question ourselves as to whether we are really ready or not, but I think each of us really is."

The Class of 1993 is the first that principal Dr. John Ritchie saw through from its freshman year. "Four years later I couldn't be more proud of you," he told the graduates. Ritchie also performed an a cappella song to the tune of the Kenny Rogers hit "The Gambler" that related the tough decision of moving the graduation indoors, which elicited thunderous applause from the graduates. Ritchie apologized if any dinner reservations were lost and joked that Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald was hosting a dinner for all the graduates and their families.

Ritchie recognized the achievements of Deborah Lerman and Nicholas Lippman as top ranked students. The class includes 61 National Honor society members.

At the outset of the ceremony Ritchie pointed out an American flag hanging in honor of the late John Doherty. The flag had been draped on his coffin in honor of his service with the Navy. His widow, Connie, asked that it be flown at the graduation of Katherine Doherty, who is the sixth member of the Doherty family to graduate from Winchester High. "For 25 straight years we've had children in the schools here," said Connie. "We wanted some way for Katherine's father to be with us at the ceremony." Katherine is headed to Brown University and is undecided on a career path.

Water plant passes muster at Spring TM

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Town Meeting has given its approval to a $6.44 million water treatment project, in particular a treatment plant to be built near the South Reservoir, in order to meet state and federal clean water regulations.

To fund the project, Town Meeting gave approval at its June 3 session for the Board of Selectmen to petition the state Legislature to borrow the money using 30-year bonds, instead of the usual 20 years. The payments for the project over the thirty years, including the interest, will cost Winchester taxpayers approximately $12.5 million.

The selectmen announced that they will seek funding for the water project with a debt exclusion override in the fall. It had previously been assumed that the treatment plant would be paid for using water and sewer fees; however, some officials and residents have reasoned that the plant should be paid for using property taxes, which are tax deductible, rather than water and sewer fees, which are not.

"Let's let the federal government share in what they think is a very important project," said Selectmen Chairman Peter VanAken.

The 2.0 million gallon a day water treatment plant is mandated under the federal Surface Water Treatment Rule, a regulation under the Safe Water Drinking Act. The plant, which will cost $4.3 million, will provide filtration, chlorination, fluoridation, and corrosion control.

The plant will treat all water from the North, Middle, and South Reservoirs, which service the East High and Middle Low areas of town. The West Side High uses Massachusetts Water Resource Authority water only.

The town's Water System Review Committee anticipated some difficulty in convincing Town Meeting members the plant was necessary, especially in light of news reports that the MWRA had acquired a waiver for their filtration plant at the Wachusett Reservoir, which indirectly supplies a portion of Winchester.

As part of a detailed presentation by the water committee, committee member Andrew Hogeland told Town Meeting, see page 15A

Lynch well field clears hurdle of TM

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The Winchester Fields Committee won its biggest victory in its comprehensive field plan with the appropriation of $26,000 by Town Meeting to expand Lynch Field into the former well field area.

The plan has faced vigorous opposition over the last several months from some neighbors of the Lynch School who do not want any field expansion into the well field area.

After a three-hour debate at the June 7 session of Town Meeting, which included comments from 27 different speakers, the money was appropriated by a 109-35 vote of Town Meeting.

The plan calls for the extension of the current 3.2-acre Lynch Field into the well field area, a 3.97 acre of land under the control of the Board of Selectmen. The new field will cover 1.4 acres, or 60,000 square feet, of the well field area.

Town Engineer Jake Ciarcia told Town Meeting that, with the assistance of Department of Public Works employees, the town will excavate existing materials, loam, grade, seed and fertilize, and remove a chain link fence and a stone wall in order to create a multi-purpose field at Lynch.

A series of neighbors spoke at Town Meeting asking the members to oppose the field expansion. The opponents cited possible damage to conservation land, the loss of the wells, traffic and parking problems, and noise pollution as the main reasons for their opposition.

The opponents presented a petition with 180 names on it protesting the expansion. Neighbor Guy Migliaccio told Town Meeting that 95 percent of the people contacted signed the petition and "therefore, there is essentially no support for the fields committee's proposal for field expansion at the Lynch School."

Town Meeting member and Lynch neighbor Stephen Rodriguez warned the town would be "saddled with years of future controversy, such as we've seen with the West Side Field" if the plans went ahead.

The opponents said safety was a major concern and questioned the committee's finding that the site can accommodate 140 parked cars. The opponents argued that many of the proposed spots are on the playground, which would keep children from playing street hockey or basketball.

The opponents said the town would regret its decision to destroy the wells if the field was built. Neighbor John Stumcke told Town Meeting the wells were still a potential source of water.

The proponents argued that the wells had been determined to have water quality defects when they were removed from service in 1957.

"There are no wells. They've been destroyed," said Town Meeting member Bill Ryerson. "Don't waste your time talking about the wells; they're all gone, they don't exist."

Budrewicz named assistant super

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The School Committee appointed Thomas Budrewicz to be the assistant superintendent for personnel and management in the Winchester School system.

By a 3-0 vote, the committee at its June 8 meeting appointed the current acting assistant superintendent, effective July 1. Budrewicz was given the interim position when Robert Fitzgerald was named the acting superintendent of schools.

Budrewicz, who had been with the Winchester school system since 1965, had previously been the assistant principal of the high school.

"I know his skills in negotiations and in labor relations are outstanding, and he spent a lot of years as an administrator at the high school doing an outstanding job," said School Committee member Constance Makhoul.

Fitzgerald told the School Committee 18 people had applied for the position, and five of them had been interviewed.

Makhoul made the motion to appoint Budrewicz, with members James Evans and Eli Bortman supporting it. Members Edward O'Connell and Jerilyn Heinold were not present at the meeting.

"I am satisfied, myself, that the vast majority of these (candidates) have qualifications that are inferior to Mr. Budrewicz's," said acting Chairman Evans.

Evans said selecting an assistant superintendent was made easier because the committee had a "superlative known option in front of you." "I support the general concept of hiring from within," added Evans.

The committee had originally decided to post the job only within the school system, but it changed its mind when some parents complained that the committee was violating equal opportunity laws by not advertising to a wider spectrum of people.

School Committee members have decided to hire two assistant superintendents for the upcoming school year. They are currently searching for an assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction.

Town Day fanfare fills downtown to brim

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

As the downtown air filled with balloons and the smell of popcorn, residents gathered on the streets and the mini "homecoming" day called Town Day took off.

This Town Day offered a little something for everyone, with a full range of activities for adults and children alike; including a backyard circus on the common, music on Mill Pond and virtually every field occupied with activities. For those with more unusual tastes, the Celebrity Auction filled the evening hours.

Town Day Committee Co-chairman Allan Eyden said the events were well attended despite the fact that the weather "could have been more cooperative." "We had a record crowd with a record number of events held," said Eyden. Town Day activities normally held outside were temporarily moved inside when rain began to fall late in the afternoon. The cookout was moved Inside the fire station and the Celebrity Auction was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

But as soon as the rain stopped, it was back outside. Unfortunately, the grand finale of Town Day, the fireworks, were shot off in a light drizzle.

Eyden attributed the day's success to the planning of new activities such as enlarging the Children's Fair. Although the fair has taken place for the last several years, Eyden said new components have added to its appeal and really made the added difference for the younger visitors to Town Day. "The backyard circus was a big hit," added Eyden.

Resident Linda Cassino added her own rave reviews for this year's Town Day. "I think they really did well this year in planning activities for the children. We spent one hour and a half on the common at the Children's Fair and my kids had a good time when they're normally bored," said Cassino.

She said other parents had echoed TOWN, see page 14A

Lombardi declines assessors' appointment

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Former assessor Mark A. Lombardi has informed the Board of Assessors that he will not accept its controversial offer to be a consultant for the board.

The appointment to the board was made by a 2-1 vote at the board's May 25 meeting. The decision to appoint Lombardi met with disapproval from Assessor Susan Lippman and some town officials who questioned the propriety of appointing a former member who had recently lost an election.

Board of Assessors Chairman Eric Josephson told Town Meeting on June 3 that Lombardi told the board that he was too busy with his work to accept the position. The board had appointed Lombardi, who was an assessor for four years and chairman of the board for three years, to assist the assessors with appellate tax board (ATB) cases.

Reached by the Star, Lombardi would not say why he did not accept the position. "You write what you want to write," said Lombardi. Lombardi said he was unfailingly portrayed by town officials and the press as partaking in something underhanded. "It just wasn't fair. I'm surprised at you guys," he said. Lombardi declined to comment further.

Josephson's revelation that Lombardi would not accept the position was made amid a motion by Town Meeting member Sally Kincaid to reconsider the Board of Assessors's budget, which had passed on May 24. Kincaid, who was the only member of the public to attend the meeting where Lombardi was appointed, told Town Meeting she wanted the chairman to explain the rationale behind his decision to appoint Lombardi.

We should "let the assessors know we do not approve of this appointment and the manner in which it was made," Kincaid told Town Meeting.

Speaking in favor of the motion to reconsider, Town Meeting member David Mortensen said the appointment sent the wrong impression to Winchester residents.

Mortensen said that while volunteerism is common in Winchester, the appointment crossed the line into public business. Mortensen said Lombardi would be given unprecedented input into policy decisions by working on cases and attending executive sessions.

Mortensen said the appointment seems to void the March 30 election and, therefore, the will of the people. Mortensen said the decision could offset the "perception that the system is fair...open...and subject to election by the voters."

After Josephson's statement that Lombardi would not accept the position, the motion to reconsider the $132,389 budget received 75 yes votes and 56 no votes, but it fell short of the 23 (88 votes) necessary to pass.

Josephson told Town Meeting that he voted to appoint Lombardi as a consultant to "utilize his experience" in ATB cases. Josephson said there was no secret agenda in appointing Lombardi, only that it was "in the best interest of the town."

Town Meeting member Peter Philiou said Lombardi's appointment was just a case of a man who wanted to help out the town. "Why are we making a big deal out of this?" said Philiou, who compared Lombardi's appointment shortly after losing an election to Richard Nixon's reentry into politics.

A complaint alleging that an Open Meeting Law violation occurred was filed by the Winchester Star on May 27 following the appointment, and is currently under investigation by the district attorney's office.

Canteen signs on dotted line

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The Winchester School Department is trying its hand at privatization, allowing a food service vendor to take control over the department's cafeteria workers.

Canteen Food Services told the School Committee that if it could control the wages and benefits of the workers, it could turn previous losses into a profit.

The School Committee agreed to renew the contract of Canteen Food Services for two years at its June 2 meeting, despite the fact that Canteen has run approximately $100,000 in the red over the last three years.

According to acting Assistant Superintendent Thomas Budrewicz, the company intends to turn over a profit by taking control of its workers and adding vending machines to the high school. There are currently 15 cafeteria workers in the school system.

"They will be operating the total program...Essentially the union will be no more," said Budrewicz. Budrewicz said it made no sense to contract out the management of the cafeteria but not let the management operate the work staff.

Budrewicz said the School Department will work with Canteen to find jobs for the displaced cafeteria workers. He said he expects no one will be without a job who wants one. But there will be wage and benefit changes, he said. "There will be changes, no doubt about it," said Budrewicz.

"I don't believe they're looking to get rid of anyone," said Budrewicz. Budrewicz said that Canteen had no problem with the quality of workers, some of whom have been there for more than 25 years.

The decision to hire Canteen to provide lunch for the town's seven schools is an abrupt change from the actions taken at a School Committee meeting last October, in which committee members blasted Canteen management for its poor performance.

"I'm completely discouraged with this," said Mark Lombardi, then chairman of the School Committee. "I don't see what we're getting for our money."

Committee members were upset at the large deficits being run up by Canteen. Canteen had told the School Committee it would break even the first year and make a profit the year after, instead it ran in the red year after year.

Committee members were particularly angered by $3,854 in late fees they said were being improperly charged to the School Department by Canteen.

Budrewicz said Canteen cannot be blamed for all the money problems. He said the School Department was supposed to provide food transportation and equipment when the contract was signed, but the tasks ended up being taken over by Canteen.

Canteen has estimated it will make $25,000 next year and has guaranteed it will make at least $20,000.

SENIOR NEWS

FROM THE JENKS CENTER

By Mary Kelly
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Housing seminar for seniors and their families

Brenda Pappas, COA housing counselor, has arranged for a housing seminar to be held in the Jenks Center Pond Room on Wednesday, June 16, at 1 p.m. This significant and timely seminar is aimed at seniors who are thinking about the future. Do you want to stay in the house where you are now? Do you want to explore different kinds of housing supports and resources available in town and in the area? If you would like answers to these and other questions, come to the housing seminar on June 16 and hear from professional representatives, as well as from senior residents, about factors to be considered when making changes.

Representatives from the following regional housing resources will be on hand to make presentations: Brookhaven at Lexington, Carlton Willard Village in Bedford, Country Club Heights Retirement Community in Woburn and New Horizons living program in Woburn. Winchester facilities will be represented by speakers from the Mt. Vernon House, the Winchester Housing Authority and "The Gables." An added attraction will be the presentations by residents of each community addressing the issues and factors that played a role in decision making in their own moves.

This seminar offers an excellent opportunity for Winchester elders and their families to gain an overview of the various housing options available for future planning. Concepts such as "assisted living," "life care community" and the range of services available in retirement housing will be explored.

There is no charge for attendance at this seminar and no prior sign up is necessary. Refreshments will be served. Not only are seniors welcome but family members and adult children of seniors are welcome to attend this information seminar.

Today is the day MBTA passes are distributed

On Thursday, June 10, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., an MBTA representative will visit the Jenks Senior Center to issue IDs for MBTA Senior Citizens' reduced fare passes. Seniors must submit proof of age 65 years or over. (Medicare or Blue Cross cards are not acceptable) There will be a 50 cent cash fee for each pass.

With a Senior ID card, passengers may ride T subways for 20 cents and local T buses for 15 cents. No advance sign up is necessary in order to take advantage of this card issuance.

Health insurance information

Once again, the Health Benefits Committee chaired by Helen Cotter will present Robert O'Byck, Blue Cross/Blue Shield representative, at 10 a.m. Monday, June 14, in the Craft Room, Jenks Center lower level. O'Byck is the Medicare Beneficiary Education Coordinator for BC/BS and has talked to Jenks Center audiences many times in the past. As in other years, he will update the seniors on recent changes, new developments and options in health insurance for the coming year.

No prior sign up is necessary.

Italian culture group to hold pot luck lunch

The Italian Culture Group will meet at 1 p.m., Monday, June 21, at the Jenks Center for a pot luck luncheon. This will mark the last meeting for the season. Reservations are required for attendance. These may be made with one of the following individuals: Victoria Capone (729-2079); Mary Falzano (729-6093); or Fran Covino (729-3606). Everyone is welcome but reservations are necessary.

Reserve now for Rockingham park trip

N.H., will be made on Thursday, June 24, for horse-racing enthusiasts. The bus leaves the Jenks Center at 10:30 a.m. The trip includes admission to the park, luncheon in the Clubhouse, a souvenir group photo, and, of course, the races, one of which will be dedicated to the Winchester Seniors Association. The return trip will reach the Jenks Center by approximately 6 p.m. The whole thing will cost $29 per person. Reservations and payments should be made immediately since this is always a very popular trip. Cassie Gountanis, 729-1749, and Viola Duros, 729-7396, are in charge of the arrangements.

Keep well clinic summer schedule

The WSA Keep Well Clinic will be held only once a month during the summer months of July and August. WHICH OPINION IS RIGHT?

QUESTION: I think my home is worth a certain amount. My neighbor says it should sell for more, but a prospect claims it's worth less. Whose opinion is correct?

THE VALUE of your home is determined by the local market.

ANSWER: The value of your home is not what YOU think it should be, or your neighbor or even a casual prospect. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood and the current market.

Nobody, but nobody, is more acutely aware of the current housing market than an experienced real estate firm like ours. Put your faith in our hands and we'll recommend the best possible selling price.

M.I.T. identifies Wedge Pond mutagen

By Stephen Oliveri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

A MIT environmental lab, which one year ago provided lab findings that postponed the opening of Wedge Pond Beach, now says it has identified the mutagenic material at Wedge Pond.

According to a May 25 report, the mutagen found in the sediment at Wedge Pond is benzo-a-pyrene. According to the report, there is 2.8 micrograms of benzo-a-pyrene, or B(a)P, per gram in dried sediment from the deepest parts of Wedge Pond.

To "put the risk presented by Wedge Pond sediment in a perspective relative to other sources" the report states that a serving of charcoal-broiled beef contains nearly 10 micrograms of B(a)P. Exposure at Wedge Pond beach "would be only a third of the increased exposure from eating a charcoal-broiled hamburger," the report says.

The mutagenic material is "not something new and exotic, but rather a chemical to which everyone is already exposed to some degree via air, water, and food. On the other hand, the fact that B(a)P occurs widely in the environment should not become a reason for complacency," the report states.

Winchester resident William Thilly, a toxicologist at MIT, did not want to offer an opinion on whether the beach should be opened or not. He said he simply wanted to provide the information for Town Meeting in their deliberations. "Given these values and knowledge of the actual mutagenic substance, one can now address the public decision as to whether or not the use of the Wedge Pond beach should be reconsidered," read the report.

Town Meeting has before it a warrant article which would appropriate funds to reopen Wedge Pond for swimming.

Last year, Spring Meeting appropriated $13,000 to the Committee to Reopen Wedge Pond. However, after the MIT test results were made public in the middle of Town Meeting, disappointed committee members decided to delay the opening for a year and return the money to the town.

LIBRARY
LINESCo-operative Bank to sponsor outreach programs
at Winchester library

The Winchester Co-operative Bank, in celebration of its 100 years of service to the community, has provided the Winchester Public Library with funding to provide a comprehensive library outreach program to the residents of Winchester. The bank was founded on November 13, 1893.

The program is an attempt to reach out to those of all ages who do not traditionally use the library. The goal is to encourage recreational reading, and the use of the library and its resources, by actively seeking potential readers and by appealing to their age-specific interests. Recreational reading is any reading that is not assigned, but chosen out of interest and for pleasure, including both fiction and non-fiction. Under the umbrella theme of R.O.A.R. (Reach Out And Read), the project will consist of the following programs: a summer reading outreach corps for elementary ages. Students ages 12 to 14 will be chosen from the community to reach out to those children who do not come into the library during the summer months. They will read aloud to them at the playgrounds, the swim clubs, ballet lessons, anywhere that they gather for other activities. The corps will be identified by T-shirts and book bags bearing the logo R.O.A.R. and a lion.

Book discussions and related activities for middle school and high school ages will be based on their interests in fantasy and horror fiction. Final parties and paperbacks will be given to participants. A Dungeons and Dragons tournament and classic horror films will provide the finales.

A tutoring program for reading disabled students, with a qualified remedial reading tutor, will be available for four hours each week during the summer. It will use a literature-based approach. These children can then participate in a modified fashion in the summer reading program.

A "Bingo for Books" summer reading program for senior citizens will reach out to senior citizens at home, at elder housing, wherever they gather. Seniors will read books in specific categories, with suggestions provided by printed book lists. Seniors who complete the program will be invited to an ice cream social with entertainment. Home-bound players will receive a floral bouquet.

The programs will be implemented during the summer of 1993. The library is grateful to the Winchester Co-operative Bank for its generosity in sponsoring this program.

'Help Wanted USA'
available at library

Are you looking for a new or better job? You can now read thousands of job opportunities from Sunday newspapers across the country by consulting Help Wanted USA. This service compiles "help wanted" ads from newspapers in 64 cities and publishes them on microfiche. The fiche is updated weekly. In a sample count, these newspapers advertised more than 1,000 total job opportunities. Ask for Help Wanted USA at the reference desk of the Winchester Public Library.

summer hours

The Trustees of the Winchester Public Library have announced the 1993 summer hours. The hours will be Monday and Tuesday, 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Wednesday, 1:30 to 9 p.m.; Thursday and Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; closed Saturday and Sunday. The Children's Room hours will be: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Wednesday, 1:30 to 8 p.m.; closed Saturday and Sunday. The last open Saturday will be June 19, and the summer hours will begin on June 21. These are the same as the winter hours except for Friday and Saturday.

Children's Room notes

What do pickles and Peter Pan, asparagus and alligators, or turtles and traffic lights have in common? If you haven't guessed, it's green. When the green light flashes, it's "Go For Books," the theme of this year's summer reading program at the Winchester Public Library. The Friends of the Winchester Public Library continue to support a summer long roster of activities and performances for children ages 3 and up. Program flyers will be available in the Children's Room soon, and there will be a sneak preview program on Thursday, June 17, at 3:30 p.m. for ages 5 to 8. Sign up for the sneak preview in person or over the telephone as soon as possible.

Sign-ups for the summer reading program will begin on Monday, June 21. Only those youngsters who register will be eligible for events which start officially on Monday, June 28, at 3:30 p.m. when Slim Goodbody's best friend will present "A Program for a Healthy Planet." Free tickets to the opening show, for ages 4 and up, can also be picked up from that time on.

Passes to Garden
available at the library

The Winchester Public Library now has passes to the Garden In The Woods in Framingham. This unique facility consists of 45 acres of woodland trails, displaying 1,500 varieties of plants including more than 200 rare and endangered species.

Patrons may borrow two passes admitting two persons each. The Garden In The Woods is open from April 15 to October 31 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday.

The Winchester Public Library museum passes are available to Winchester residents. The passes are loaned out for one day and must be returned that day in the cases provided. Patrons may reserve the passes by contacting the reference desk, either in person or over the phone.

Rep. Paul Casey gives several young students some pointers on their golf game at the Children's Fair in the town common on Town Day.

ABOUT TOWN

A walk for Armenia

A group of American-Armenians believe there has been a deafening silence in the media concerning the four-year blockade of Armenia and the continued bombardment of her borders and Nagorno Karabagh (Artsakh) by neighboring Azerbaijan. Americans for Armenia's Survival, a grass roots citizens group, was formed in February to help raise public awareness.

Jack Winn, Medford, is chair; Eva Medzorian, Winchester, co-chair; Jack Medzorian, treasurer; Rosemary Kachadorian, Watertown, secretary; Seeran Wisner, Watertown, public relations; Nancy Guzelian, Brookline, publicity; Seta Vacilescue, Belmont, visuals. Advisers are Armand Andreassian, Newton; Elvira and Laura Ouzounian, Robert Markarian, Kit Dryer, Cambridge; Avedis Boyamian; Betsy Bragg, Winchester.

A June 13 Walk for Armenia has been organized by this committee and co-sponsored by the Cambridge Yerevan Sister City Association. The walk participants are invited to start registering at 11 a.m. East Junior High School, Mt. Auburn Street, Watertown, or at 11 a.m. at the Tufts University football field, Medford. The walk commences at 11:30 a.m. and will finish at the Cambridge Common in Harvard Square with a 1:30 p.m. program and concert on the common for the public.

The pledges will provide direct help for a new tuberculosis hospital in Armenia. A tuberculosis epidemic is in progress as a result of malnutrition and the continued four-year Azeri blockade. There are many other diseases as well. Documentary video footage showing the desperate conditions in the TB hospital was recorded in April by Eva Medzorian. She will personally deliver any funds raised.

The walk to Cambridge Common from Watertown is about 3 miles and from Tufts University about 2½ miles. Spring water will be available at the common. Those who can't walk may choose to be sponsors or volunteers. Call Seeran, 923-9820, Eva, 729-6457, or Rosemary, 924-3374.

Tax deductible checks should be made payable to: CYSCA/TB Hosp., c/o CYSCA, Jack Medzorian, 8 Berkshire Dr., Winchester, MA 01890.

International Day at Bartlett School

The Bartlett School, 40 Samoset Road, Winchester, became a mini United Nations on May 28. Teachers and children chose a country to study and students prepared reports, dressed in native costumes, decorated rooms and parents participated by cooking foods of each country.

Grade one studied France, grade two Japan, grade three Italy, grade four Holland, grade five Egypt, grade six Switzerland, grade seven China and grade eight Australia. During the morning students visited each other's classrooms to learn about these countries and in the evening they did the presentations for their parents. This festival has become an annual event at Bartlett School.

WINCHESTER KERNELS

Colonel William P. Winchester

In Retrospect

By Dan Chane
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

1. Memorial Day weather couldn't have been more cooperative as the parade assembled at the high school, and old friends chatted in the balmy air.

2. Winchester Men's Lodge #1580 Order of Son's of Italy in America had a good strong turnout. Richie Riga - recently retired from our D.P.W. - looked in especially fine form.

3. Down front there was much cause for rejoicing in the ranks of the Police Honor Guard. Two days earlier, Officers Pete and Gabrielle Hersee became the doting parents of a baby boy and Officer Phil Coss had become a proud uncle the same day as his brother Tim (of the fire department) and sister-in-law Jean presented the family with Daniel Timothy.

4. Town Moderator John Sullivan - never one to miss a trick - flaunted his New England background as he scooped up a shiny penny off Main Street when the parade hit the intersection by Purity.

5. It was nice to see town institution Vin Carroll enjoying the parade from son Bob's automobile parked on Church Street.

6. Will Town Manager Chad Maurer ever be able to keep in step?

7. The crowd in The Square seemed larger and more enthusiastic than usual.

8. What would Memorial Day in Winchester be without the Boston Fire Department Band? Faithful for countless years they bring the sound of the old fashioned brass band back to Winchester streets each Memorial Day.

9. It was refreshing to see auxiliary police officer - and good friend - Al Venuti keeping order at the corner of Church Street and Waterfield Road.

10. As the procession assembled at the War Memorial the silence was electric - and at one point all one could hear from that sacred knoll was the water roaring down the stepped dam on Main Street.

11. Chairman Peter VanAken of the Board of Selectmen paused for the most pregnant silence of all. As he spoke of the emotions inherent in the dedication of Festus McDonough Square last spring, he stopped as the great bell in Town Hall tower stroked a 106 year old benediction over those present.

12. Turner Kniffen of McCall Middle School could have easily capped the ceremonies with his prize-winning essay on Memorial Day. The humble beauty of his words belied his short time on this earth.

13. Did you know that Connie Makhoul who represented the school committee in the procession was modestly celebrating her own birthday on May 31?

14. The V.F.W. extended its usual invitation for refreshment at the end of the ceremonies, and as usual the food was excellent and the company first rate.

15. Upstairs, Veteran Innocent Noel was helping the young people master the ancient player piano in the corner while others in the post served up innumerable hot dogs, cold cuts and drinks to refresh the marchers.

16. If the V.F.W. on River Street was Winchester this Memorial Day, Mike Saraco as he presided over the affair was its father!

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Volume 20-Report No. 19
Massachusetts House and Senate
May 31 to June 4, 1993

THE HOUSE AND SENATE "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on three roll calls and local representatives' votes on two roll calls from the week of May 31 to June 4. Also included are four additional roll calls from House debates on the fiscal 1994 state budget.

EDUCATION PACKAGE (H 1000) - House 108-46, Senate 31-8, accepted the House-Senate conference committee version of the bill overhauling the state's public education system. The measure is estimated to cost $175 million in new school aid for fiscal 1994 and some $1.3 billion by the seventh year. It requires most communities to spend more of their local revenues on schools. Other provisions include abolition of teacher tenure; performance-based testing for students; and a ban on smoking at all schools by students, teachers and staff. A school choice provision allows children to attend any school that has space available and is willing to participate in the program.

Supporters said the long-overdue bill will overhaul and improve the state's education system.

Opponents said the bill is too costly and noted no one knows how the additional money will be raised or what programs will be cut to fund the bill. Others took issue with various provisions.

A Yes vote is for the education package. A No vote is against it.

Rep. Paul Casey voted no.

POSTPONE ED BILL (H 1000) - House 104-50, rejected a motion to postpone consideration of the education bill until June 30. Postponement supporters said the delay will allow legislators to see if the final state budget includes money to fund the education changes. They noted that the House did not provide funding for the measure in the House version of the budget.

Postponement opponents said the delay will make it impossible to put the reforms into place.

A Yes vote is for the delay until June 30. A No vote is against the delay.

Casey voted yes.

SUNDAY LIQUOR (H 5200) - House 81-69, reconsidered earlier adoption of a budget amendment allowing communities to permit liquor package stores to open on Sundays and on Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day. Amendment supporters argued this local option will benefit businesses and consumers while generating more tax revenue.

Amendment opponents said the legislature should not encourage more drinking on Sundays and holidays. The House later defeated the amendment on a voice vote.

A Yes vote is for reconsidering approval of the openings. A No vote is for the openings.

Casey voted yes.

PROPERTY TAXES (H 5200) - House 91-63, struck the so-called "underride" budget section allowing three percent of the voters in a city or town to place a proposal on the local ballot asking voters to reduce property taxes. Underride supporters said if voters have the power to raise taxes they should also be allowed to lower them.

Underride opponents said tax reduction would cripple communities and create chaos by allowing revenues to be reduced after the local budget has passed.

News Item: TEN NEW COMPUTERS INSTALLED IN CLASSROOMS AT LYNCH AT VINSON-OWEN SCHOOLS

You never know what to expect

You never know what's going to happen when you visit the doctor's. I went to a dermatologist two weeks ago with a list of problems.

"I have this thing on my back," I said. "Hmmm," said the doc. "We can remove it. But it'll hurt, it'll take an hour, you'll have a scar afterward. AND, because of where it is, it won't close tight, so the scar will look like a little eye. Anything else?"

"Well, I have these red areas on my cheeks. People ask if I've been crying. They say that, or 'SOMEONE'S been out in the sun too long!'"

"Age," she broke in. "The skin thins, the blood vessels show through. No cure for that, unless you have these laser treatments that are still experimental. They can scar too. Anything else?"

"Uh, I have this little rough patch here by this ring."

"Contact dermatitis. Stop wearing the ring. Anything else?"

"I guess not," I said, sadly gazing over her head at all my imperfections in the examining room mirror.

"What about that adult acne? You want something for that? I have some sample creams..."

"I don't have acne," I said.

"This pimple by your nose here."

"Oh THAT pimple. I have that pimple. But I don't you know, HAVE pimples."

"OK," said the doc.

So home I went, having paid the equivalent of a fancy dinner-for-two NOT to be treated for the three things that brought me there, and having refused treatment for my one obvious affliction. Things never go at the doctor's the way you think they will.

TERRY MAROTTA
COLUMNIST

It's as true for animals as it is for people.

One day last week, I was inside and my cat was outside, pressing her little black tummy into the warm rug of pine needles under the shrubs. Suddenly an ungodly yowling began. I went out to find her 50 feet up in a tree, while the feline I took to be her assailant skulked around the side of the neighbor's house looking guilty and mean.

After 20 minutes of urging, I got my cat down to earth and into the house. Case closed, I thought.

I was wrong. A few days later, a little porthole the size of a 50-cent piece opened up in her side, inside which you could see the pink slab of living muscle. I called the vet.

Now most people who work at vets' offices believe in laughter, and these folks are no exception. Their place is papered with pet cartoons: (A fat cat holding an aerosol can. One human saying to another "I told you an unfixed male will spray." "THE DOG'S A JERK" scrawled in crooked writing on the wall.) The laughter is to counteract the dread you feel as you look at the lurid color posters of your pet's insides: its intestines, a tangle of telephone cord; its little heart, if you're negligent, crawling with heartworm.

The doc took one look at the porthole; said "Abscess"; grabbed some clippers; and shaved a little football field as seen from the Goodyear Blimp in her side.

I got light-headed. Began making stupid jokes: "Maybe it's a religious thing," I said, trying not to look "Like a stigmata." Saliva pooled in the back of my mouth.

The doc gave me a swift glance. "I'll just take her in the other room to clean out the junk," she said kindly.

But when they returned, it happened again. "Keep the wound OPEN for a few days," she advised, spreading it further, "and swab it like this." The room swam. "We'll just give her a shot now," she added, lifting the cat's skin six inches from her body to jab it. "Squirt this in her mouth twice a day," she finished, and home we drove in twin stunned silence.

I tried swabbing the hole a few hours later, but the body in its wisdom had closed it. I tried squirting the meds under the stalactites of the cat's little smile, getting it in one ear (hers), one eye (mine), and all over her snout. At this point we're basically using it as a kind of conditioner.

But you know, it seems to be having some effect on my skin problems. Maybe next time I'll skip the people doc and go right to the vet myself.

ON THE RECORD

Winchester High School will be losing assistant principal Susan Austin, who has received an offer to become principal in another system. The School Committee had begun advertising for a replacement for Austin.

The fight over the expansion of the Lynch Field was getting nastier as Town Meeting approached. The contentiousness may have reached its peak when Fields Committee Chairman Jay Boylan, who is also the president of the Soccer Club, turned in a state disclosure form to the town moderator. He did it to "dispel any appearance of a conflict of interest."

Even when the debate at Town Meeting gets heated, the members and town officials can be counted on to provide some light moments: Before Town Meeting began, Moderator John Sullivan was having trouble with his microphone. "Can anyone hear me?" Sullivan asked the Town Meeting members. "No? Good, then we'll roll right through this."

During the debate on the fields one resident was questioning statements made by another resident. Moderator Sullivan reminded the resident that he should stick to the issue and not discuss personalities. He said the speaker should refrain from using the other person's name. The speaker agreed and continued, "The other gentleman..."

The Winchester School Committee has made its athletic appointments for the 1993-94 school year. The committee has appointed William Colella as athletic director for another year. However, Colella will be retiring from his job as a social studies teacher at the high school. Fifty coaches selected by Colella have been also been approved by the School Committee for the upcoming year. The coaches have all been elected by the committee in previous years, except for new assistant football coach Jeffrey Russo, a 1991 Winchester High School graduate.

The Board of Selectmen is seeking three members to serve 3-year terms for the town's Cable Advisory Committee. The committee advises the selectmen regarding cable television services. Any interested resident can submit his qualifications to the board, with a daytime telephone number.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Town Day is huge success due to support says committee

To the editor:
Another successful Town Day is now a part of Winchester's history. We would like to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude to all the talented people who donated countless hours organizing and working on Town Day 1993.

It is a pleasure to be associated with such fine people.

This year several new people joined the Town Day Committee and contributed greatly towards our efforts to provide fun-filled activities. From early January through Town Day, the entire committee spent many hours working on this event. Without their cooperation and dedication, Town Day 1993 would not have been possible.

The committee is grateful for the assistance provided by the selectmen, town manager, D.P.W., Engineering, fire and police departments, Board of Health, Visiting Nurses Association, Winchester Hospital, Winchester Auxiliary Fire and Police, Jenks Senior Center, Winchester Elks, Knights of Columbus, Friends of Art, Chamber of Commerce, Muraco School Parent Association, Winchester High School Music Department, Continental Cablevision, Winchester Star, Woburn Times, Sen. Charles Shannon and Rep. Paul Casey. Town Day would not have been possible without the involvement of the preceding organization.

A special thanks to the individuals and businesses who made contributions which funded many of the events of the day.

Plans are now underway for Town Day 1994. We welcome anyone who would like to work on this committee. If you have any suggestions for next year, please write to: Winchester Town Day Committee, 6 Mt. Vernon Street, Suite 135.

Saraco thanks residents for large turnout, support

To the editor:
On behalf of the Memorial Day Committee, I would like to acknowledge with thanks, our appreciation to the many people that were present along the parade route and in front of the Town Hall Honor Roll during the Memorial Day Parade on Monday, May 31. It was gratifying to see such a large turnout to honor those who gave their lives for our country and to assure that they will not have died in vain.

I wish to thank the members of the Board of Selectmen: Peter VanAken, chairman, Carol Mullin, Bill O'Leary, Steve Powers and Gerard Polcari; Town Manager Chad Maurer; Senator

Charles Shannon; Town Moderator John Sullivan; School Committee members Connie Makhoul and Ed O'Connell; Planning Board members Donna Marie D'Agostino and Daniel T. Chane III; Reverend George Waterbury; Chief Perritano; the Police Color Guard and Firing Squad; members of the Fire Department; the Winchester High School Band; the Vietnam Veterans Color Guard; the Auxiliary Fire Department; the VFW auxiliary; the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts; Boston Firemen's Band; the Winchester Star and the Daily Times Chronicle.

I also want to thank and congratulate Turner Kniffen, a student at McCall Middle School, for his Memorial Day essay. A special thank you to the many townspeople that participated in the parade.

Walkathon organizers thank community for support

To the editor:

Last fall the first "little steps" were taken to organize the perfectly wonderful, fund-raising event for the newborn intensive care nursery at Winchester Hospital in which so many participated on Sunday, May 23.

The response to the idea, a first in Winchester, was nothing short of stupendous! Starting with the businessmen of Rotary Club of Winchester and the Doe family of "99" restaurants, the foundation was laid off for the delightful and successful "Big Steps for Little People."

To all of you who volunteered to work with us — coordinating the details, building teams, getting pledges, spreading the word, enlisting sponsors and being sponsors, our heart-felt thanks. Thanks to each and every one involved, our most vulnerable newborn "little people" from Winchester and surrounding towns will be assured of that special extra chance to enjoy a healthy life.

"Big Steps for Little People"

Josephson clarifies Lombardi appointment

To the editor:

I would like to clarify the appointment of Mark A. Lombardi as unpaid consultant to our board at our last meeting. Several weeks ago, George Andersen asked Mr. Lombardi if he would assist the board in defending the upcoming Appellate Tax Board cases. Upon speaking with Mr. Andersen, Mr. Lombardi agreed to help the board if asked to do so. At our next meeting, the topic of assistant assessor was on the agenda. At this meeting, the motion to appoint Mr. Lombardi as assistant assessor was made by Mr. Andersen. The motion was not seconded due to the requirement for posting and advertising the position for potential candidates.

Also at this meeting, I suggested the possibility of Mr. Lombardi being considered as an unpaid consultant. No motion on this matter was made. However, at our next meeting, Mr. Andersen presented to the board a written motion stating to appoint Mr. Lombardi as "Unpaid Consultant". Mr. Andersen stated he had talked to several people concerning the possibility of appointing Mr. Lombardi as unpaid consultant. Mr. Andersen stated attorneys from the Department of Revenue and Town Counsel Wade Welch concurred that the Board of Assessors had authority to appoint an unpaid consultant without the posting requirement. After considerable debate among all members of the board, a vote was taken to appoint Mr. Lombardi as an unpaid consultant. The vote was 2-1 with Susan Lippman voting in the negative.

It is important to point out that The Winchester Star was not in attendance at our May 25 meeting. Instead, the Winchester Star relied on third party sources in order to write its story concerning this appointment. I think this is poor journalism and a disservice to your readers.

I am extremely upset concerning the accusations made by The Winchester Star claiming that the Board of Assessors have violated "The Open Meeting Law". Mr. Andersen, Mrs. Lippman, nor myself have never spoken to one another outside of board meetings concerning issues, topics, or votes to be taken at future meetings of our board. My reputation has been damaged as a result of this story. I would expect a written apology from the Star.

It is important for your readers to understand that Mr. Lombardi in no way approached the board asking to be appointed as an assistant assessor or as a consultant. It is unfortunate that Mr. Lombardi is unable to assist us with pending litigation. Mr. Lombardi's vast experience and knowledge of real estate values would have been of great assistance to the board and to the Town of Winchester.

It is the board's duty to assess fairly and equitably. We have done that in the past and we will continue to do so in the future.

Eric Josephson
chairman, Board of Assessors

Editor's Note: For the record, the Star first learned of the appointment when it received a call from one person following the May 25 meeting. By the next morning the Star had spoken to every person who was in that room during the meeting, except Mr. Josephson, who could not be reached for comment until May 27.

A Yes vote is against allowing voters to reduce property taxes. A No vote is for allowing voters to reduce property taxes.

Casey voted yes.

Keno (H 5200) — House 104-52, rejected an amendment prohibiting bars and restaurants from installing Keno machines. The budget includes a section directing the Lottery Commission to implement Keno in the state.

Amendment supporters argued these machines will make bars and restaurants into mini casinos and encourage more gambling by those who can least afford it.

Amendment supporters said Keno has worked well in other states and will generate some $50 million annually in much needed tax revenue.

A Yes vote is against Keno in restaurants and bars. A No vote is for Keno in restaurants and bars.

Casey voted yes.

MBTA FARES (H 5200) — House

131-21, rejected an amendment raising MBTA fares to $1. Current fares are 85 cents for the subway and 60 cents for the bus. Amendment supporters said state funding of the T is excessive and argued those modest hikes will insure that riders, rather than all taxpayers, pay more.

Amendment opponents said a hike will hurt public transportation users and argued an increase not be imposed without a public hearing.

A Yes vote is for the hike. A No vote is against the hike.

Casey voted no.

PRIVATIZE (S 1642) — Senate 29-9, refused to table a new version of the bill restricting privatization of state services. The measure permits privatization only after the administration can prove that a private contractor will deliver equal services for less money. It also requires contractors to pay at least average private sector wages and allows the state auditor to reject private contracts if certain guidelines are not followed or if the privatization is not in the public interest. Bill supporters said the measure is a reasonable compromise which insures any privatization is fair and saves money.

Some bill opponents said the measure effectively kills any privatization. Others urged tabling to give senators time to read the new version.

A Yes vote is for tabling the bill. A No vote is against tabling the bill.

Shannon voted yes.

PRODUCT LIABILITY (S 713) — Senate 22-8, rejected a bill establishing a 10-year statute of limitations for bringing certain product liability suits. Under current law, some companies can be sued anytime up to three years following an injury. Supporters said it is unfair for companies to be sued 25 years later when their customers may have modified the original product and sold it used to someone else. Opponents said a task force in 1986 recommended against the 10-year limit and argued the current law is fair.

A Yes vote is for the 10-year limit. A No vote is against the 10-year limit.

FOOT NOTES

by Joseph B. Gimbel, D.P.M.

JUST DON'T CALL THEM 'ARCH SUPPORTS'

What did old Aunt Millie do about her aching feet? She probably headed to the five-and-dime for some arch supports. Did they stop her feet from hurting? Probably not. In some ways, times haven't changed. The type of mass-produced products Aunt Millie used are still no substitute for prescription orthotics placed inside shoes to relieve foot problems. Much more than arch supports, these custom-made devices are designed to fit each individual's foot and unique condition. Then misalignment of muscle and bone causes painful problems, orthotics can provide a constant, gentle redirection of the foot to its proper position, eliminating muscle strain, painful pressure points, and improper foot rotation.

Gradually orthotic devices will become more comfortable as the foot becomes conditioned to its new "proper" position. Custom orthotics, just like individualized foot care, are designed to meet the specific needs of each & every patient who comes to us. Tired of painful steps taking the smile out of your day? It's time, then, to call us for professional podiatric care. Our offices are conveniently located at 677 Massachusetts Ave., Arlington. PH: 641-0107. House call appointments available.

P.S. Prescription orthotics are usually constructed of plastic or super-strong woven fibers from a plaster cast of the foot.

Study skills course at Minuteman Tech

Registration is being accepted for Students: Making the Grade With Study Skills offered at Minuteman Tech Summer School. Two one-week sessions are available. Session I meets July 5 through 9, noon to 3 p.m., and Session II meets July 12 through 16, noon to 3 p.m.

This is an ideal course for students in grades seven through 12 who need to develop efficient, time saving, study techniques for mastering school subjects. Students learn strategies that improve listening, note taking, reading comprehension, memorizing, test taking and much more.

Study skills are the great equalizer. They provide the missing link for bright capable learners whose potential is not reflected in school grades. Furthermore, study skills demystify the learning process thereby offering all students the means to become organized and confident learners.

Students learn how to manage time they spend studying to gain maximum understanding in and out of class. Efficient techniques lead to improved grades and enjoyment in academics. This is the road to increased motivation and academic success.

The instructor, Roberta Wolman, is a full time Reading and Learning Disabilities Specialist at Minuteman and a registered educational tutor with the Learning Disabilities Network in Hingham. She has been a successful instructor of study skills since 1972. In addition, Wolman is an expert in SAT preparation. She has served as a consultant and author in the field of education.

For your convenience, you may register by calling Minuteman Tech Community Education at 861-7150, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Telephone registration is also accepted. To obtain specific course information contact the instructor in the evening at 721-1065. The course fee is $95 (materials $6).

W.H.S. class of '73 to hold reunion

They are still trying to locate one third of the class. Please help by sending any addresses to Pam Beck, 21 Gap Head Road, Rockport, MA 01966.

It's great to be a kid!

By Dick Hamilton

The best part of having kids may be the opportunity to re-experience those things which make childhood so special. Like Story Land, Santa's Village and Six Gun City...three family attractions in the White Mountains that are so much fun, with so much to see and do, that if you don't have kids, borrow some for the day. These attractions are really worth the trip.

Santa's Village and Six Gun City, both on Rt. 2 in Jefferson, are perennial favorites and, like Story Land, since children under four are admitted free with an adult, they're very affordable for families with young children. At all three attractions admission entitles you to unlimited rides and shows.

No matter what your age, Christmas always holds a special magic, and so does Santa's Village. Here you can meet Santa and his elves, talk to Rudolph and even feed real reindeer. The rides alone could keep you occupied for the whole day: splash down the Yule Log Flume; ride the roller-coaster, an old-fashioned car, SANTA'S VILLAGE, Rt. 2, Jefferson. $11; under 4 free. SIX GUN CITY, Rt. 2, Jefferson. $9.25; under 4 free. STORY LAND, Rt. 16, Glen. $14; under 4 free. At all three attractions, admission includes unlimited rides and shows.

the train that circles the Village, or the carousel. There are shows, too, including trained macaws, some of the cleverest birds you'll ever see.

Even kids from the East are fascinated by the Old West, so little wonder Six Gun City is so popular. There are cowboy skits where kids can get in the act and help the sheriff catch the outlaws. And if full size horses seem intimidating to your little ones (or to you), stop by the Miniature Ranch and see miniature horses, burros and goats. There are pony and burro rides, a log boat, and the Tomahawk Run Waterslide that has a hair-raising 360° turn. There's also an outstanding col-

new Bamboo Chutes, an oriental-themed water ride; Dr. Geyser's Remarkable Raft Ride to a Space Fantasy Ride, the Polar Coaster, and the Story Land Queen sailing ship. There are storybook characters to meet including Cinderella and Heidi's Grandfather, a host of activities, live animals and a Farm Follies Show that will get you humming along.

Town Day fills downtown

their approval of the Town Day Committee's inclusion of more hands-on activities for the children and noted especially the assistance of people manning the activities. Cassino, who has three children added, "We really enjoyed ourselves this year."

Another honorable mention in the events category was the Rubber Duckie race, for the benefit of Winchester Youth Baseball/Softball. A $5 donation entitled the spectators to watch their duck compete for three prizes as it battled with others to reach the waterfall. Race officials Fred DeSimone and Bob Nutile maneuvered in a row boat to set up the race. According to contest organizer Lanie Higgins, the Batchelor family won two tickets anywhere in the U.S.; Rachel Anglin, 5, won $1,000, while Geraldine Butz won the $500 prize.

Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Catherine Alexander said the committee will be meeting soon to discuss next year and how to expand a more "home-spun" focus. "We are going to try and look at how Town Day has evolved and key in on the activities rather than focusing simply on more booths," said Alexander.

The Celebrity Auction, auctioning off various town personalities, was an idea conceived by Celebrity Auction Committee member Freya Surabian and it was a resounding success. With the goal of raising funds to benefit the Youth Center, Committee member Dolly Volpe-O'Malley said everyone got excited about working for a good cause.

With approximately 500 people in attendance, "I think in a way, it was better that it was inside, people were crowded into one room and got caught up in auction fever," said Volpe-O'Malley in a telephone interview. "I have to add that while the entire committee worked hard, Freya Surabian put in a tremendous effort to make this event a success," said Volpe-O'Malley.

"It was a great community effort to reach the $10,000 goal," she said. Volpe-O'Malley said Michael Boodakian left the auction, went to his store and brought back some Oriental rugs which were auctioned off to bring the goal closer. And resident George Whitehead kicked in $400 to make up the balance, just to bring the group over the top.

Recreation Director Lee Evans said the money raised would support some of the operations of the youth center. "It was a wonderful event. It exceeded all of our expectations," said Evans. "We don't have town funding (for the Youth Center) for FY'94 so it's a tremendous help," she added.

plause from their classmates, but the loudest was for Jonathan Simeone, who has been blind since birth. As he received his diploma after being led to the podium by his twin brother Justin, the class cheered and gave him a standing ovation. Jonathan said he was surprised by the ovation as was his father Robert.

"It's quite an achievement," said Robert. "An important phase has been completed in his education. Jonathan is going to University of Massachusetts at Amherst where he'll major in sports management. Justin will be attending Norwich Academy in Vermont as a business major.

"I was proud when I heard the ovation," Justin said, "Jonathan deserves the credit."

Several of the graduates hugged Ritchie. He also received two apples, a grapefruit, an orange and a banana from various students. Henry Kayulu said the stunt was a gesture of thanks to Ritchie.

Kayulu is a native of Zaire who has lived here six years. He felt great relief after receiving his diploma, saying, "All the pressure is off." His foster mother Penny Sparrow called Kayulu's graduation an extraordinary achievement. "He missed a lot of school early in his life and has been learning in a foreign language," she said. Kayulu is planning a career in law enforcement.

There were other stunts. John Raueo did a cartwheel on his way to receive his diploma. Adam Wangerin played with a yoyo as he got his.

There were many hugs, tears and cheers as the ceremony ended. Basil Tsiaousopoulos called the graduation a sentimental occasion with great speeches, but Robert Cellerti may have best summed up the feelings of the day for students and parents when, looking tired but happy, he said, "Thank God it's over."

Lynch field clears hurdle

Lynch neighbor and Town Meeting member Robert Dewald said Town Meeting should not approve a plan that still has not been approved by the Conservation Commission. Dewald said the fields committee had failed to get an order of condition for construction within 100 feet of wetlands.

"Why hasn't a notice of intent been filed? Is there an attempt to cover up the wetlands issue by avoiding it until after Town Meeting votes?" said Dewald.

Ciarcia countered that a notice of intent could not be filed without the plan designs, which would only be done after Town Meeting approval. He noted that the recently approved $6.4 million water treatment plan will also have to be approved by the Conservation Commission.

Some neighbors and Town Meeting members said it was illogical for the town to build any new fields until it has a plan to take care of its existing fields.

"The field committee's report tells us that the town has not been successful in properly maintaining the existing fields that we have today, yet we're being asked to appropriate funds to build yet another field..." said Town Meeting member Anthony Conte.

The fields committee said the added green space will allow the town to rotate fields more frequently and rest the other fields in town, a major part of the committee's plans to improve the town's fields. The most contentious issue surrounding the expansion of the Lynch Field is a claim by its opponents that the field expansion is the first step in a long-range plan to build a soccer field complex at Lynch.

Some neighbors have charged the expansion is being done solely for the purpose of providing playing space for the private Winchester Soccer Club, of which Fields Committee Chairman Jay Boylan is the president.

"They talk about green space, but they really mean a soccer field...The proponents have a master plan...We believe they have an agenda to reach a megaplex," said Lynch neighbor Harry McCaul.

Fields committee member Peggy Schleicher said the field will be used for several different organizations, institutions, and residents, including the elementary children at Lynch. "We started with no preconceived ideas...or agendas," said Schleicher.

Some Town Meeting members said the Lynch Field neighbors were not receiving the same considerations Manchester Field neighbors received last year. At Spring 1992 Town Meeting, a plan for major renovations at Manchester Field was scuttled by neighbors of Manchester.

"If I were from precinct 8...I would wonder if precinct 8 count as much as certain other precincts," said Conte.

The present 5-member fields committee — Boylan, Schleicher, Christine McLaughlin, Jim Johnson, and Selectman Gerard Polcari — was formed after last year's field committee was effectively disbanded when its proposal to renovate Manchester was defeated.

The committee members argued against scuttling the Lynch Field expansion, saying the town has been unsuccessfully trying to improve the town's fields for 10 years. "We feel strongly that we cannot afford to do nothing," said Schleicher.

The committee had slated Lynch Field for expansion because of the availability of the Lynch well field and the lack of green space for the elementary students at the school.

The committee argued that the existing Lynch Field was too far away from the school for elementary students and was not handicapped accessible.

Ciarcia said the new Lynch Field would be one of the most isolated fields in town. Ciarcia said the field was 300 feet away from the nearest home on Horn Pond Brook Road and 180 feet away from the nearest house on Brantwood Road.

The vote to appropriate the $26,000 for field expansion took place after a motion to move the question was made by former Selectman Thomas Schmitt. The motion to move the question, which needed a 2/3 vote, passed 109 to 31.

Water plant passes

ing that seeking a waiver was not a logical step. Hogeland said the town could not adequately maintain and protect the watershed area, which is required in order to obtain a waiver. The water shed area is under the control of the Metropolitan District Commission and is primarily used for recreation.

Hogeland also said it was too late at this point to seek a waiver, with the construction of the plant mandated to begin in July.

According to Steve Poulos, chairman of the water committee, 34 towns are building a treatment plant, while 11 have gotten waivers.

"We have come to the conclusion that the waiver option is not tenable... Either we build a plant or we shut down the reservoirs," said Selectman VanAken.

VanAken said the town should do the inevitable task while interest rates and construction cost are low. "There's a good argument that we get out and do it while it's cheap," said VanAken.

Several committee members added that they believed the MWRA would eventually fail in its attempt to forego a water treatment plant at Wachusett.

Several members of the water committee said that despite the legal steps the town could possibly pursue to delay the plant building, for reasons of public health alone, the plant should be built.

Water committee member and Board of Health member Dr. Randall Swartz said the plant was necessary to decrease the possibility of waterborne diseases, which are 10 times more likely to occur without filtration. Swartz said Giardia, which causes 80 percent of waterborne disease outbreaks in the US, is a particular danger that had to be addressed.

The 10-member Water Study Committee was formed by Fall Town Meeting to present a report at Spring Town Meeting on the town's water system, in particular the treatment plant design. Their study presented at Town Meeting had the approval of the Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee.

Along with the construction of a treatment plant, the town will also be rerouting its reservoir water so that all the water will run through the plant at the South Reservoir. The water in the North Reservoir will be pumped into the Middle Reservoir, which flows by gravity to the South Reservoir. Water from Spot Pond, which supplements the reservoirs, is pumped into the Middle Reservoir.

The town will also build two lagoons adjacent to the South Reservoir which will contain the backwash residue. While one lagoon is being used, the residue in the other lagoon will dry and be shipped away.

Also a 16" water main will be built along Washington and Forest Streets to provide adequate water pressure and fire flow to the Middle Low system.

The plant faced minimal opposition from Town Meeting members. Town Meeting members questioned the committee on 30-year bonds vs. 20-year bonds, the waiver possibility, and the capacity size of the plant, but the final motion passed by a large margin.

The motion to appropriate the money through bonding passed Town Meeting 122 to 10. The motion to allow the selectmen to petition the Legislature for a 30-year plan passed 133 to 2. Both motions needed a 2/3 vote to pass.

State tennis title chase ends

The end of the Winchester High School boys tennis team's season unfolded in an agonizing half-hour span last Friday at St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers. Although the score reflected a 4-1 victory by the Eagles in the EMass Division 1 semifinal, the drama involved suggested a much closer battle.

WHS TENNIS

An hour after the beginning of the match, it appeared that St. John's was about to rout the undefeated Sachems, as the Eagles had comfortable leads in three of the five matches. But behind a wild rally from senior Tony Cella, who had a 15-minute streak where he looked capable of beating any tennis player in the state, the Winchester outlook swung a full 180 degrees.

"It was amazing," said Cella. "They heated up and we were getting killed, then a few minutes later it looked like it was all over and we were going to win. Then suddenly, it turned around again. It was unbelievable, but that's the way it goes."

In the end, the depth of the Catholic Conference champions was too much for the Sachems, who were unable to pick up wins at the crucial doubles matches. Winchester's first doubles team led 5-2 in the second set before St. John's rallied to win 7-5. Winchester's second doubles team won its first set, but lost a second-set tiebreaker before falling 6-4 in the third.

Winchester, the No. 3 seed in the North sectional, entered knowing it had the best singles player in the state in Matt Fuller. The Sachems knew they had a veteran team at first doubles which had lost just one match all season. They knew they had a second doubles team which had played its best match of the season in a quarterfinal win over Chelmsford.

St. John's, the No. 2 seed, went in knowing it had perhaps the best 1-2-3 combination of singles players in the state, as each had been ranked in the top seven at the North sectional individual tourney. Coach Mark Metropolis also knew he might have had the two best doubles teams in the North, as his second doubles duo had de-

Although the spring sports season didn't show a lot of success for the teams at Winchester High, several individuals were honored with selections to all-league teams. Winchester actually had two league MVPs as boys tennis ace Matt Fuller and girls track senior quad-captain Diana Grande were picked as the Middlesex League's best.

WHS ALL-STARS

Fuller, the defending state Division 1 singles champion, had a perfect 9-0 regular-season mark. He easily dispatched his opponents in Winchester's state tournament wins over Reading and Chelmsford and in its season-ending loss to St. John's Prep. Fuller will try to defend his title on Saturday at the Longwood Cricket Club in Brookline.

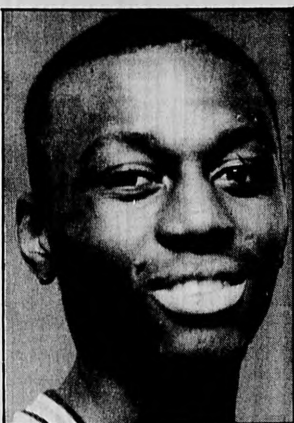

Winchester's first doubles team of Peter French and Tony Cella joined Fuller on the ML first team. Cella, who was selected the team MVP by coach Sean O'Loughlin, was 5-1 in singles play early in the season when No. 2 singles player Dave Fiorentino was sidelined with mononucleosis.

No. 3 singles player Cliff Swap, a senior, and the second doubles team of sophomore Matt Storeygard and junior Tim Malcolm were selected to the league's second team.

Grande's league MVP selection was a just reward for the four-year letter winner. The three-sport star, who also excels in soccer and indoor track, set the WHS triple jump record with a leap of 34 feet, 11½ inches in a meet against Melrose.

Grande's MVP selection (for the 110-meter hurdles and the triple jump) led the girls team, but coach Joe Cantillon saw three other Sachemettes make the squad. Sara Bonnell made it in the mile, Allyson Livada was the league's best in the 200 meters and Melissa Lindmark made it in the discus.

The boys track stars were led by senior captain Henry Kayulu, who made it in two events, the 300 hurdles and the triple jump. Jeff Tahnk was a first-team all-star in the javelin. Ben Simeone made it in the long jump, Jamari Johnson in the high jump, Ron Hall in the 100 and Brian Lindmark in the 400.

Among the other Sachem all-stars were baseball tri-captains Scott Imperatore and Josh Carroll, both of whom made return appearances to the squad. Imperatore led Winchester in hitting for the second straight year with a lofty .386 mark, while Carroll was second on the team, batting .364.

The girls tennis squad placed senior co-captain Catherine Doherty on the ML first team along with the first doubles duo of sophomore Natalie Ciulla and junior Kelly Smith.

The lacrosse team had six players selected to the North Division's first and second teams, while two other Sachems received honorable mention status.

Winchester's senior tri-captains, defender Paul Albani, midfielder Mike Szczepanski and attacker Brian Bernazzani, all made first team.

Albani was the Sachems' go-to guy when it came to clearing the ball. Szczepanski, who suffered a career-threatening knee injury in November and who was expected to see limited action this season, ended up with an impressive 18-goal, 10-assist total for the team. Bernazzani was the team's leading offensive threat throughout the season, recording 28 goals and 20 assists for 48 points.

Three juniors made the second team. Midfielders Phil Reuland (8-10-18) and Greg Carroll (8-8-16) will return to the team as two of the tri-captains next season. The third junior all-league performer was goalie Andrew Brown, who made the switch from attack to goal and responded with a tremendous season. Seniors Jon Arsenault and Mike Collins received honorable mention.

Sayre begins SCATE across country

Winchester resident to skate from Los Angeles to Boston for cancer research

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

The months of planning, organizing and tying up loose ends are done, and now it's time to SCATE.

Winchester's Michael Sayre and a group of friends from Middlebury College skated away from a waving crowd of over 1,000 cancer survivors, families and friends at the University of Southern California Saturday, on the first leg of their 3,300-mile in-line skate to raise money for cancer research.

The 63-day trip will take the team through 14 states. The entourage will wind through the country, making stops for major events in Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, New York and Hartford, with a final destination of Faneuil Hall in Boston.

SCATE — which stands for Stop Cancer Across The Earth — was organized

'We'd go past a hitchhiker and he'd ask "How far are you going?" and we'd say "Boston." We've been getting some great looks from people.'

MICHAEL SAYRE

in 1992 by founder Ted Leach, who wanted to do something meaningful after his grandmother died of cancer. He contacted the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and decided to undertake a massive effort. The team, which includes Leach, Sayre and Middlebury grads Courtney Mather and Hieu Nguyen, has set a fund-raising goal of $500,000.

The team faced an immediate challenge, having to make a 4,000-foot vertical climb over a 15-mile stretch on Day 1 of the trip. The ascent was so draining that the group fell short of their 70-mile first-day goal. However, the SCATE team made up the mileage on Sunday and Monday and was back on course.

According to Sayre, the most difficult thing about the trip thus far was finding roads suitable for in-line skating. While in the San Gabriel Mountains on Day 1, the team found a smooth road, but were shortly warned off it by a representative of the U.S. Forest Service. Luckily, a nearby search and rescue team suggested a safer alternate route.

On Sunday and Monday, the group had good skating weather and found a fair amount of acquaintances along the way.

"It's pretty funny," Sayre said in a telephone interview Monday. "We'd go past a hitchhiker and he'd ask 'How far are you going?' and we'd say 'Boston.' We've been getting some great looks from people."

Sunday afternoon, a local newspaper reporter pulled up alongside the group and conducted an on-the-move interview. He then arranged for the SCATE team to get on Monday's 6 p.m. newscast.

"So far, everything's going pretty well," said Sayre. "The roads are a little bit rough sometimes, but everyone is healthy and the people we're meeting are being very helpful."

Memorial Day tournament features upsets galore as lower seeds prevail over top teams

By Gordon Nicholson
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

Winchester Tennis Association's annual Memorial Day Weekend "Blind" Draw Tennis Tournament drew 214 entrants at the Packer Clay Courts. Many newcomers participated this year, indicative of the upswing in Winchester tennis. Four events were held: mixed, men's, ladies' and family doubles. In all but family doubles, the teams were selected through a blind draw, making for some interesting duos and all-round competitive play.

In family doubles, the second-seeded father-son team of Will and Michael Aldrich prevailed. In the semifinals, they took out another father-son team, Bob and Glenn Gallant, in three sets. They won the final 6-2, 6-2 over the husband-wife team of Andy Oxenhorn and Maryann vonFeldt, who turned in one of the tourney's big upsets when they defeated the husband-wife team of Abby and Joe Culhane. The word is out on Andy and Maryann for the August Husband and Wife Tourney.

In ladies' doubles, the second-seeded team of Ellen Wilson and Carolyn Potter cruised to the finals, where they were upended by the unseeded team of Petra Rydlova and Paula Ferrone 6-4, 1-6, 4-6. Rydlova and Perrone won a tough two-set semifinal match over Judy Harrington and Elaine Leibowitz 7-6 (11-9), 6-3.

In the men's doubles final, the eighth-seeded team of Nick Julian and Frank Muggia went up against the No. 3 seeds, Joe Culhane and Rob Glynn. In the semis, Culhane and Glynn took out John Ripley and John Cleary 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. It was the fourth three-set match for Ripley and Cleary, but luck was not on their side for this one. Julian and Muggia also had their share of three-setters en route to the final, with some tiebreakers thrown in. In the final, Julian and Muggia staved off repeated comeback attempts by Culhane and Glynn to win 7-5, 6-4.

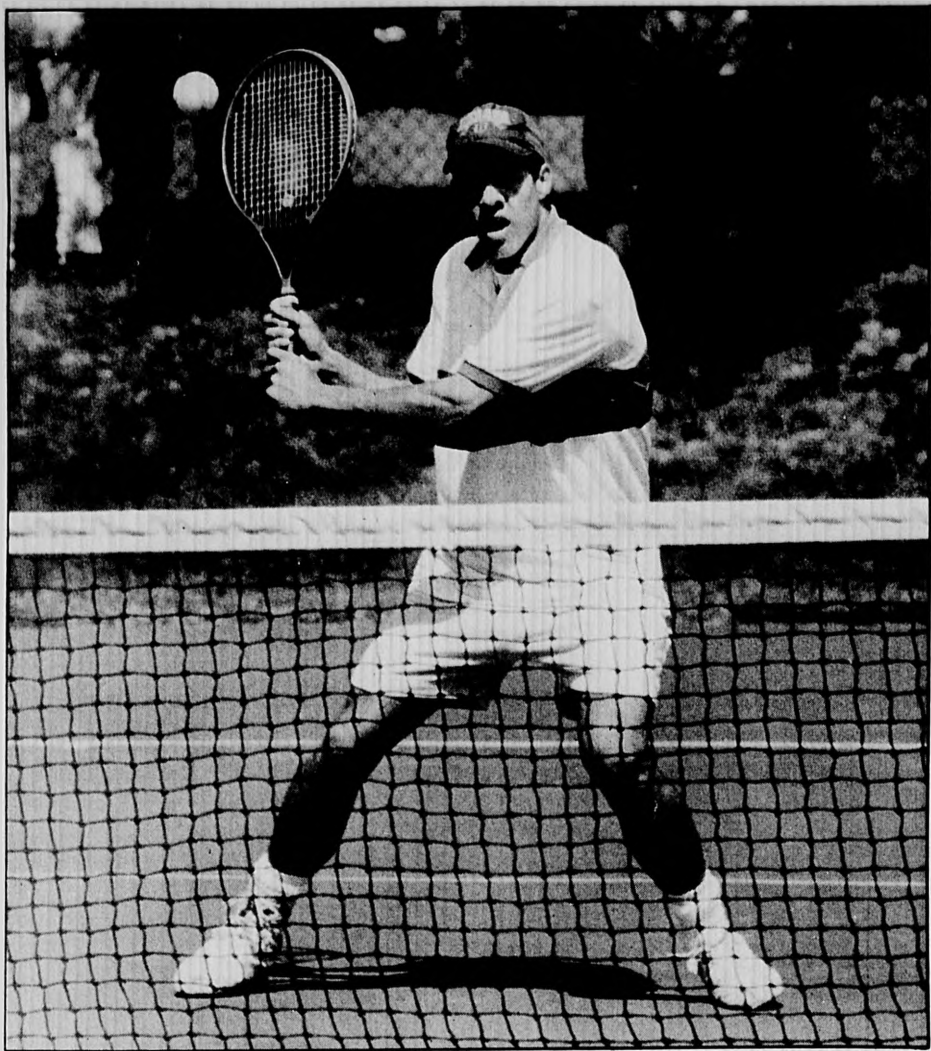

The mixed doubles drew the largest number of entrants, with 42 teams, but the final pitted the top two seeds — Elaine Leibowitz and Chris Aronson against Joanne Miller and Mike Cobb. After an easy first-round win, Aronson and Leibowitz saw nothing but three-setters. In the round of 16, they took out the team of G. Lewis and Glenn Gallant 5-7, 6-2, 7-5. In the quarters, they feated his top team in the finals of the individual tourney.

Winchester High's Peter French readies to return a ball at the net in Winchester's semifinal loss to St. John's Prep last Friday in Danvers. French and teammate Tony Cella dropped a tough 7-5, 7-5 match to the No. 1 doubles team from The Prep.

"I knew it was going to be a tough match because they had the No. 1 player in the state and Winchester is always producing good teams," said Metropolis. "And knowing that they went undefeated this year, we knew it would be very tough coming into it."

Something had to give, and predictably, the difference came in the doubles matches.

Winchester's No. 2 pairing of sophomore Matt Storeyard and junior Tim Malcolm had the task of trying to handle freshman Trevor Spracklin and sophomore Kit Gray, the North sectional champions. The Winchester tandem shocked the champions with a surprisingly easy 6-2 win in the first set. But rather than roll over, Spracklin and Gray seemed to raise their game another notch.

The second match went to a tie-breaker. Storeyard and Malcolm held a 2-0 lead, but were unable to finish off the relentless Spracklin and Gray, who rallied for a 7-4 tie-breaker win.

On the adjacent court, Winchester's top doubles team of Peter French and Cella dropped the first set 7-5, after St. John's Omar Saeed and Matt Teittinen broke French's serve at 5-5. As the singles matches concluded, Winchester trailed 2-1 and needed wins from both doubles teams to advance.

Winchester was tied 2-2 in the second set before Cella put on a clinic of doubles tennis, ripping winner after winner to help propel the duo to a 5-2 lead. Needing just one game to force a decisive third set, Cella and French were stunned by Saeed and Teittinen, who roared back to win five consecutive games in earning the straight-set win that clinched the St. John's victory.

With the contest officially decided, all eyes turned to the only remaining match, where the stars of future Sachem and Eagle teams were putting on a real show in a three-set marathon. Spracklin and Gray eventually outlasted Storeyard and Malcolm 2-6, 7-6 (7-4), 6-4.

"I thought we had a very good chance, and I think we proved that by the way we played," said Winchester coach Sean O'Loughlin. "Tony and Peter ran into a very, very good first doubles team. A couple of breaks here or there for first doubles and we'd be talking a big match at second doubles. Second doubles, I think the scores speak for themselves."

Two of the three singles matches ended quickly, as St. John's No. 2 player, Rob Newton, made quick work of Winchester's Dave Fiorentino (6-0, 6-2) while the Eagles' No. 3 player, Tony Russo, whipped Sachem Cliff Swap 6-1, 6-1.

At first singles, Fuller was in command throughout, although St. John's Steve Nasson hit with him on nearly every point. Fuller got Winchester's only point, 6-2, 6-3.

"You hope for your No. 1 to have a good match against Matt, but you think you're going to lose 1," said Metropolis. "But I hoped my other two singles could do the job. They've been tough for me all year."

Cella lamented not being able to put away Saeed and Teittinen.

"We started playing really well," said Cella. "We had it going in the middle, but we let it slip away. We had them in the first set, and that was really tough, because we should have finished them. In the second set, we had three chances to win the set, and we lost. We had them going, then we lost it."

While not thrilled with losing, O'Loughlin said the team had accomplished quite a bit this season.

"I thought we played them tough," said O'Loughlin. "I got 100 percent out of everyone. Nobody ever quit on us. And I'm kind of proud of myself too. We had a great season. We came in here, on their court, and played them tough. I think the scores reflect a tough match. I don't think by any means that they walked over us. I'll take a Middlesex League championship and a semifinalist in state Division 1 when you're one of the smallest schools in Division 1 any time."

Sachem Notebook: Fuller, Winchester's defending state champion singles player, will try to defend his title Saturday at the Longwood Cricket Club in Brookline. The Division 1 state semifinals are slated for 9 a.m. while the final will begin at 3 p.m. Fuller also will be featured on the WCVB-TV (Channel 5) "High Five" segment on Friday's 6 p.m. newscast.

Girls eliminated in second round

The Winchester High girls tennis team exited the Division 2 North sectional tournament with a 4-1 loss at Andover on Wednesday, June 2. The Schemettes finished the regular season in second place in the Middlesex League (11-2) and defeated Peabody 3-2 in the first round of the state tourney.

prevailed over Debbie Simpson and Dave Wilson 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, and in the semis, they topped No. 3 seeds Judy Harrington and Ed Leahy 7-6 (8-6), 3-6, 6-3.

Miller and Cobb, on the other hand, coasted to the semis where they met No. 4-seeded Brenda Rice and Craig Potter and came out on top, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 in an outstanding match.

The mixed doubles final was played under gray skies and a chilly wind, which was fine for the players but too cool for the large gallery. The heavy top spin game of Aronson and the smooth ground strokes of Cobb gave both ladies in the event plenty of high-caliber play. In the end, the steady play of Miller allowed Cobb to finish off points and they took the final 6-3, 6-3.

Behind the scenes, tournament co-directors Al and Pinky Samoiloff endured many hours under breezy and sometimes chilly conditions. President Bob Collins and WTA vice-president Jane O'Brien were instrumental in getting the season off to a terrific start.

DeSimone leads A's past Indians

Century 21 A's 9 Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 7

In last week's Babe Ruth Prep League action, the Century 21 A's defeated the first place Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 9-7 behind the complete-game pitching of Chris DeSimone. DeSimone allowed only two earned runs, and entering the last inning had held the Indians to one unearned run.

BABE RUTH PREP LEAGUE

The A's never trailed, scoring four runs in the first. Alex Scopton tripled home the first two runs. Two more came across on hits from Scott LaBlanc and Justin Kingstad. The A's added an unearned run in the third. They pushed one across in the fourth on singles by Brian Purchia and DeSimone. The A's scored three more in the fifth.

The Parker-Lane-Winn Indians added an unearned run in the fourth on Tim Nelson's single.

Trailing 9-1 in the last inning, the Indians were determined to make it a game and scored six runs on four hits before the rally ran dry. Joey Lang, Nelson, David Van Aiken and Matt Killion each had hits. Killion led the Indians with three hits. The Indians' Kevin Shanahan pitched four strong innings in relief.

DeSimone recorded six assists from the mound. Jeff Davis supplied three runs for the winners.

Century 21 A's 12 Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 7

The Century 21 A's needed their most productive output of the season to defeat the hard-hitting Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 12-7. The team tallied seven runs in the third and four more in the fourth to seal the victory.

The Indians scored a run in the second when Matt Killion tripled and John Fador doubled him home. They scored three more in the third, as Killion tripled again and Fritz VonMering contributed a big hit.

After two quiet innings and one unearned run, the A's bats came alive in the third. Alex Scopton blasted a bases-loaded triple, and Pat Auferio, Justin Kingstad and Frank Batchelor each had hits.

Trailing 8-4 entering the fourth, the Indians scored two more to cut it to 8-6, but the A's responded with four more runs. Scott LaBlanc had a clutch hit to spur the rally.

First Call Braves 11 Christopher Columbus Red Sox 6

Joe Lindmark gave up one hit in a strong pitching performance to give the First Call Braves an 11-6 win over the Christopher Columbus Club Red Sox. Lindmark also contributed on offense with two hits and two runs scored. David Adams also picked up two hits and Billy Fleming and Matt Gallery provided the Braves' other hits. Brian d'Entremont picked up an RBI on a sacrifice. Steve Deering, Brad Scott and Paul Swanson also scored for the Braves.

Except for a rocky third inning, Lindmark was steady. In the third, Pat Quigley reached on an error, Mike Roscillo had the Sox's only hit, and Lindmark gave up his only two walks. Shahan Stepanian and Brendan Carroll both ended up scoring in the frame. In the fifth, Mark Shannon scored and Carroll also crossed the plate. The win gave Lindmark a 2-1 record, while Shannon took the loss.

First Call Braves 13 Christopher Columbus Red Sox 4

The First Call Braves pulled back into first place with a lot of help from the other teams. For the Christopher Columbus Club Red Sox, it was one of those "is it over yet?" games. The Red Sox pitching only gave up three hits, but a combination of 10 errors, walks and passed balls gave the Braves 13 runs in two innings.

Mark Sullivan upped his record to 5-0 with the win. Brad Murphy pitched the final two innings for the Sox and held the Braves scoreless.

For the Braves, Brian d'Entremont, Dave Adams and Matt Gallery each picked up hits. Gallery smashed a triple to left field, but was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch it to a home run. Everybody scored for the Braves, including Paul Swanson, Richard Donahue, Steve Deering, Tim Schindler and Joe Lindmark.

The Red Sox offense came off the bats of Tim Phinney and Shahan Stepanian, each of whom had an RBI. Brendan Carroll recorded two hits and scored twice. Pat Quigley and Ryan Duffy also picked up hits.

Golf team ends dream season

It didn't end exactly like Winchester High golf coach Dave Miller had it scripted, but the Sachems' 10th place finish at the Massachusetts Division 2 State Golf Championships still made the golf mentor happy.

WHS GOLF

After winning the North sectional tournament by shooting a 329 at Putterham Meadows in October, the Sachems were only able to card a team score of 344 at Sterling Country Club in Sterling.

"The scores weren't really up to our potential," said Miller. "Tee to green, the kids did fine, but they seemed to have trouble with their short game."

Winchester was led by a pair of underclassmen. Junior Dave Fiorentino shot a team-low 83, while sophomore Jeff Lucero carded an 84. The other Winchester players included seniors Mike McGinty (87), Brian LaPointe (90), and Tony Bonfilio (93), and junior Sean Vernaglia (97).

"On a tough golf course, the kids did pretty well," said Miller. "No matter what, it was still the best season in Winchester High golf history."

O's solidify hold on 1st

The recent inclement weather upset the Senior Softball League's schedule, but when the girls did get into action there was no stopping the Orioles, who added to their league-leading 8-2 record with a pair of wins over the Eagles at Ginn Field last week.

SENIOR GIRLS SOFTBALL

On Tuesday, June 1, Meredith Hill and Michelle Russo matched up on the mound but it was the offense that dominated, with the O's coming out on top 20-5.

The O's held a 6-4 lead after the first inning on a grand slam by Brooke Estridge after key hits by Shannon Rowe and Erin Murray. Alyson Bergin and Corinne Alford paced the Eagles' hitters.

Tessa McInnis and Vanessa Traniello played well defensively for the victors. The Eagles' Russo made the defensive play of the game, knocking down Brooke Estridge's vicious line drive and recovering to throw out Estridge, who dived head first into first base.

On Thursday evening, while the Orioles were again besting the Eagles, the Bluejays and the Hawks were engaged in a see-saw battle on Ginn Field's main diamond, with the Bluejays prevailing 14-11.

Jays' pitcher Lindsay Santini got a huge lift from her sister Lesley, who belted an early home run to put their team ahead. The Hawks came right back as Sandra Kayulu smashed a long double to give the Hawks the lead in the third. Excellent defense by Bluejays Leah Callahan, Sara Freeman and Katie Barauskas offset the strong hitting of Hawks Jamie LeBlanc and Julie Rodriguez.

The Senior Softball League, sponsored by the Winchester Women's Club Juniors, plays through mid-June at Ginn Field.

Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 13 Win. Indoor Tennis Orioles 10

The Saltmarsh Insurance Mets stayed on top of their division with a 13-10 win over the Winchester Indoor Tennis Orioles. The Orioles took a 2-0 lead in the first on J.A. Koslowski's two-run homer. Orioles pitcher Matt Spang held the Mets scoreless for two innings. In the third, the Mets' Andrew Chin led off with a single and David Rodriguez walked before Tommy Dicarolo blasted a three-run homer to put Saltmarsh up 3-2.

BAMBINO BASEBALL

The Orioles took advantage of shaky Mets pitching and scored seven runs on just one hit — by Luke Killian — to go up 9-3. "Walks, errors, wild pitches and fastballs will kill you," said Mets manager George Parker.

On hits from Joshua Martin, Michael Tambone, Chin, Mike Ciaurro and Chris Tambone's two-run homer, the Mets rallied to tie it at 9-9. With excellent relief pitching from Andrew White and Dicarolo, and hits by Chris Tambone, Martin and Chin, the Mets scored four to take the 13-10 win.

Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 17 Winchester Star Cardinals 9

Tied at the top of the division going into the game, the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets avenged two earlier-season losses to the Cardinals with a 17-9 victory.

Mets pitcher Tommy Dicarolo sparked the Mets. Singles by Billy Baldwin, Michael Tambone, Eric Martino and Michael Ciaurro set the stage for Dicarolo's grand-slam blast over the center-field fence. The following inning, the Mets loaded the bases on walks and Dicarolo did it again, belting another slam to the identical spot in right-center.

The Cardinals battled back to score six runs in the fourth on doubles from Nagle and Santini. Relief pitcher

Ciaurro threw the last two innings, holding the Cards scoreless while the Mets scored on hits from Ciaurro, Chris Tambone, Joshua Martin and Eric Martino. "They really played with their heads in the game tonight," said coach Bill Ciaurro. "A truly great effort."

The Cardinals and A's locked horns in a classic pitchers' duel. The A's Jeremy Carroll and the Cards' Justin Barauskas provided the fans with some baseball excellence.

The last time these two teams met, the A's came out ahead, but this time, Barauskas was in control and helped lead the Cards to victory.

After Carroll scored the A's only run with a first-inning homer, Barauskas set down the side in order for the next three innings and faced just four batters in the fifth. The A's loaded the bases in the sixth, but Barauskas worked out of the jam.

Billy Sullivan had two hits for the A's, while Carroll recorded nine strikeouts. Guy Dinella got an RBI single, while Barauskas had two hits and 13 strikeouts for the Cards.

NewPro Red Sox 4 Blackham Realty White Sox 3

The NewPro Red Sox kept their five-game win streak alive with a 4-3 win. The NewPro Red Sox sent eight batters to the plate in the top of the first inning on five walks and scored two runs. In the bottom of the first, NewPro's Turner Kniffin went to work on the hill, allowing only Chris French to reach first on a bunt. In the second, Ben Thomas connected on a French fastball for a double, Kniffin singled, and Danny Arria singled them home to make it 4-0.

Kniffin had no trouble in the second, but in the third, White Sox Alex Walker singled to the gap in right, French singled and Matt McGowan roped a three-run homer to right to cut it to 4-3.

Great defense — by Brad Simas, Ben Thomas, Kniffin, Jeff Capone, Lizzie d'Entremont, Austin Gardner and Danny Arria — kept the NewPro Red Sox in the lead. The Blackham Realty White Sox's French calmed down after the second, striking out 11 batters in a great outing.

Win. Indoor Tennis Orioles 24 NewPro Red Sox 4

The Winchester Indoor Tennis Center Orioles erupted for 14 runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the NewPro Red Sox 24-4 on June 6.

The Orioles' attack was paced by Matt Malatesta and Paul Koslowski, who both contributed two extra-base hits and four RBI. Dan Schoenherr chipped in with a home run, a single and two RBI, and Jonathan Nakamoto, J.A. Koslowski and Luke Killian all had two RBI.

J.A. Koslowski picked up his fourth victory and Killian finished up by tossing two shutout innings. Randy Bandoian, Dan Arria and Turner Kniffin led the Red Sox offense while 10-year-old hurlers James Kearney and Andrew Arria threw well for the Sox.

It's not easy being a long term worker in a short term world.

However, the Foundation for Global Community (formerly Beyond War) continues to reach for great change from a myriad of individual contributions over time. History is filled with examples that show the potential of human beings to realize impossible visions.

Tony Lee, Trustee of the National Foundation, will lead a local meeting in this direction dealing with:

1. Looking a current reality: how violence permeates our society.
2. Looking to a vision: a cycle of non-violence;
3. Looking at the process of change.

The date is Thursday, June 17, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Paulett and Ganson Taggart, The Ledges, #65, 7 Wainwright Road, Winchester.

All are invited to respond by calling Doris and Stan Osgood, 729-0295 or Barbara Weedon, 729-0255.

Feigenbaum's drawing in National Magazine

The June 1993 issue of a national magazine with a circulation of nearly three million has published a drawing by Peter Feigenbaum of Winchester, a third-grade student at Ambrose School.

The magazine is "Highlights for Children," and was founded 47 years ago. Its readers are youngsters from age two to twelve all over the country and in many parts of the world.

Peter, the son of David Feigenbaum and Maureen Meister, is a Cub Scout and a member of the soccer and basketball teams. He enjoys bicycling and model railroading, and he says he wants to be a business owner when he grows up.

Nearly three million copies of "Highlights" go eleven times a year to children's homes, school libraries and professional offices.

Schleicher wins award in Cricket Magazine competition

Christopher Schleicher, 6, of Winchester, a student at Lynch Elementary School, received honorable mention in the March Cricket League international writing competition. For this contest, entrants were asked to write a poem that might be put to sea in a bottle. Schleicher's name appears in the June issue of the magazine.

Cricket, the Magazine for Children, has been called "The New Yorker of children's literature." It features short stories, poems and articles, as well as illustrations.

Each month the magazine sponsors a different writing and drawing competition for its readers, with 700 to 800 entries delivered. Some come from as far away as Africa and Australia. All stories, poems, and drawings are judged in two age brackets: ages 5 to 9, and 10 to 14. Winners receive prizes and recognition, and the best entries are published in the Cricket League pages of the magazine.

Students at Dana Hall in Wellesley and Belmont Hill School in Belmont presented "The Wiz" as their spring musical production recently. Here director Kevin C. Asako Burr taught second graders at Lincoln School a Japanese song; as they sang she accompanied them on the recorder. She showed them the visual beauty of the symbols of the alphabet by writing each of their names in Japanese and also read a folk tale to them in Japanese and English. A nice accent to their study of Japan, this special guest has given the children a deeper understanding and appreciation for the beauty of another culture.

Pictured is fourth grader Emily Cura who researched ventriloquism along with mentor Chad Maurer. The audience enjoyed the skit put together by mentor and student that provided entertainment for the evening. All the students did an outstanding job displaying their finished products.

Jim Carney's Automall

Location: 535-550 Union Ave., Framingham.

History: We changed our way of doing business. Our research showed us people did not like to negotiate on the price of a new vehicle, and the last five months have certainly proven that Our 'No Pressure Price' has eliminated all the game playing, mystery and hassle. And we think that's a great way of doing business for all of us.

Forget the agony of wheeling and dealing. We knew our customers were smart enough to know what they wanted. And to ask questions when they didn't. So the solution was obvious. We set the prices of every vehicle at the lowest possible discount. No negotiating necessary.

The right price, the only price, the 'No Pressure Price' is readily available. Unlike some dealers, who use the one price philosophy for their short-term sales programs, Automall's 'No Pressure Price' is a long-term commitment on our part to simplify the car-buying process. Now customers can buy with confidence. They can rest assured that the price they see is the same price they or anyone else would pay.

Types of cars sold: Toyota, Chevrolet, Geo, Hyundai, and used cars of all makes.

Hottest seller: 1993 Toyota Camry LE.

Service: We are making servicing vehicles as easy and efficient as possible. Our Quick Lube Service area provides fast, professional service to take care of all vital fluids. Our new exhaust center also sees to it that customers receive the most efficient, cost-effective service in the area.

We also offer service to all our customers on Tuesday nights, as well as a shuttle service that provides transportation as their vehicle is being worked on.

A 135-hp, 2.2-liter EFI four-cylinder engine powers the GT convertible.

Standard equipment includes 15-inch wheels, 205-55VR15 speed-rated tires, dual color-keyed power side mirrors, rear spoiler, power antenna, four-wheel disc brakes and tilt wheel. A fold-down 50/50 split rear seat with security locks is standard. The GT convertible offers a one-piece folding seat and power rear-quarter windows.

Also standard are a passenger-side vanity mirror and power radio antenna, and in the coupe and liftback, four-way adjustable sports seats with a cushion height adjustment.

Celica GT convertible has 14-inch wheels with 205/60R14 all-season, steel-belted tires. ABS is available on the convertible for 1993.

GT model options include air conditioning, power windows and door locks, cruise control, power sun roof and aluminum-alloy wheels.

Also available on the GT convertible is System 10, Celica's premium audio system, capable of duplicating "live" concert sound levels with excellent sound reproduction.

The system is integrated with Celica's interior to provide state-of-the-art audio quality. It consists of 10 speakers powered by a maximum of 220 watts from six separate high-output amplifiers. The unit features a Premium 3-in-1 ETR AM/FM stereo/auto reverse cassette/compact disc combination with Toyota's programmable equalizer.

The equalizer comes with five preset equalization curves that can be changed to the listener's preference. The system includes Dolby B and C noise reduction on Dolby B and C encoded cassettes.

Each door is mounted with an eight-inch woofer for deep bass with little distortion at high volumes. Each woofer is powered by a 50-watt amplifier for deep, tight bass.

High-frequency tweeters are mounted in the forward corners of the doors. They are placed as close as possible to ear level and angled toward the driver and passenger, rather than reflected off the windshield glass.

BRAKE FAILURE SYMPTOMS

NOISES: YOUR BRAKE SYSTEM MAY BE CRYING FOR HELP IF YOU'RE HEARING STRANGE NOISES WHEN YOU DEPRESS THE BRAKE. TWO OF THE MOST COMMON ARE SQUEAKS AND GRINDING.

LOW OR FADING BRAKE PEDAL: DO YOUR BRAKES REQUIRE PUMPING TO STOP THE CAR? DOES THE PEDAL SINK TO THE FLOOR BOARD WHEN YOU'RE STOPPED AT A LIGHT? THERE MAY BE A LEAK IN THE BRAKE SYSTEM, AIR IN THE BRAKE LINES, OR THE NEED FOR A BRAKE ADJUSTMENT.

SQUEAKS: FRICTION FROM THE BRAKE LINING CAUSES HEAT UNDER EXTREME CONDITIONS. THIS CAN DAMAGE THE PADS AND/OR LINING, BRAKE DRUMS AND ROTORS. GRINDING: A METALLIC GRINDING SOUND INDICATES YOUR BRAKE PADS ARE WORN THROUGH. METAL-TO-METAL CONTACT WILL DAMAGE DRUMS OR ROTORS.

PULLING TO ONE SIDE OR BRAKE DRAG: WORN OR UNEVEN BRAKE LININGS OR A DAMAGED BRAKE LINE CAN CAUSE YOUR VEHICLE TO PULL TO ONE SIDE. BRAKES THAT ARE OUT OF ADJUSTMENT OR HAVE CONTAMINATED FLUID CAN CAUSE BRAKES TO DRAG.

1993 Buick LeSabre

Best-seller sports redesigned features for new buyers

FLINT, Mich. — LeSabre, Buick's best-selling model that was completely redesigned in 1992, features an enhanced version of the highly regarded 3800 V-6 engine and other refinements for the 1993 model year.

The 3800 V-6 with tuned port injection has been redesigned for quieter, more responsive performance, while also meeting stricter emission standards in California. Torque is increased by five pound-foot to 225 at 3200 rpm while horsepower remains 170 at 4800 rpm.

LeSabre, offered in six-passenger Custom and Limited sedan models, again has an electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission with overdrive. Estimated fuel economy is improved by one mile per gallon in the city. The projected EPA figures are 19 miles per gallon in the city and 28 on the highway.

Anti-lock brakes (ABS) and a driver air bag are among a long list of safety and security features. ABS, which was standard on Limited in '92, is now standard on Custom as well.

Other new standard equipment includes power door locks on all models and variable-effort steering on Limited. Variable-effort steering is a system designed to make steering easier in parking and other low-speed maneuvers while providing more "road feel" at highway speeds.

The system reduces the flow rate from the power steering pump as the speed of the car increases. The reduction in flow rate to the steering gear produces a higher steering effort. This provides firmer on-center steering effort for improved road feel at highway speeds.

LeSabre retains the aerodynamic shape introduced in 1992 that was described by William L. Porter, chief of the Buick exterior design studio where the car was designed, as having "all of the fluid lines that exude the character of a full-size Buick — a character of muscular grace." LeSabre's drag coefficient is .32.

Traction control, again optional on Limited, is designed to enhance vehicle control during acceleration below 30 mph and is especially effective when poor road conditions — such as ice, snow, mud and gravel — are encountered. The system uses anti-lock brakes to control wheel slippage, and senses when the driving wheels are spinning faster than the non-driving wheels. When this condition is detected, the system applies the brakes the proper amount to control wheel spin.

Other continued features include a wrap-around instrument panel; optional dual climate controls — "ComfortTemp" — in Limited models; and flush-mounted glass to further reduce wind noise.

Besides ABS and driver air bag, standard safety and security features include rear door child security locks which may be engaged to prevent rear passengers from opening the doors; a power window lock-out which may be engaged to prevent passengers from operating the windows; and a personalized automotive security system which disables the engine starting and fuel systems if a non-matching ignition key is used.

1993 Buick LeSabre Limited

Doctor gets questions concerning storage, longevity

Auto Weekly features Ask the Auto Doctor, a question and answer column by car specialist Junior Damato. Damato's column will be featured twice a month.

Damato, an ASE Master Automotive Technician with 25 years experience, owns and operates a seven-bay garage in Boston. His talents are twofold: repairing cars and verbalizing problems. As a result, Damato has a nationally syndicated "Auto Talk" radio show broadcast six hours every week. Damato can be heard on WHDH in Boston Sundays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Dear Doctor: I own a 1989 Pontiac Grand Prix with less than 8,000 miles on it. I change the oil and filter once a year. I plan on keeping the car for a long time. With the low yearly mileage, what other service do you recommend? B.R.T.

Dear B.R.T.: You bring up a good point with your question. Even though you drive very low annual mileage, you must still follow some basic guide lines.

The oil and filter should be changed every three months, or 3,000 miles. The tires should be inflated to the maximum cold air pressure that is indicated on the side walls, because tires lose pressure over time.

During cold winter months, if you are not going to drive the car more frequently than once a week, a small battery charger would be a good investment. When the battery site is below freezing temperatures,

ASK THE AUTO DOCTOR

By Junior Damato

the battery becomes weakened and could freeze up.

Make sure the brake cables, door locks, weather stripping, hood release cable, and hinges are well lubricated. To prevent condensation in the fuel tank, keep it filled with gasoline. With good preventative maintenance, your car should be around for a long, long time.

Dear Doctor: I am an 80-year-old gal who just inherited a 1979 Olds Delta. The car is in pristine condition and has low mileage. My question is should I rustproof the car, or is it too old? Gertrude

Dear Gertrude: I suggest you get a couple opinions. Older cars did not have factory protection like the cars of today. If you car is rust free, I would say you'd slow down the rust process by using an undercoating to rust proof it.

Also, make sure that you have the car serviced for oil, oil filter, lubrication, and tell the service manager to make sure that all the cables, hinges and linkage are lubricated.

Dear Doctor: I am in the Air Force and I'm going to Germany for four or five years. My question is what to do with my 1985 Honda 650 cc Nighthawk that has 17,000 miles on it. How should I prepare it for the long storage and what should I do when I return to start riding it again? Pat I.

Dear Pat: Good luck in Germany. As for the long storage, there is a lot that needs to be done.

First, it may be in your best interest to sell the motorcycle before you leave. If you don't, here is what needs to be done — whether it be a bike, car or truck. Have a full service change of all the fluids and filters.

Clean and polish the exterior and interior. Use a spray protection on all tires and moldings. The gasoline should be treated with a fuel stabilizer, and in your case, because of the long length of time, a double dose of fuel stabilizer.

The engine should be fogged with a chemical spray. Pull each spark plug and spray Marvel Mystery oil into each cylinder. While the plugs are out, crank the engine a few times and put some a lubricant on the plug threads before screwing them back in.

If it is a car that you are storing, open the windows a crack to allow the interior to breath.

Remove the battery, (you might want to give it away.) Support the frame so that the wheels are off the ground, and the weight is off the springs and shocks.

If it is a car that you are storing, open the windows a crack to allow the interior to breath. As an owner of a large repair shop in the Boston area, we winterize boats, cars, lawn mowers, motor cycles, just about everything. With proper preparation, anything you store will be in the same condition when the storage period is over.

Dear Doctor: I own a 1984 Ford Bronco II with a 2.8-liter, V-6 engine. It sometimes has a hesitation from a dead stop, when braking, or coasting around a corner. It always acts up in the rain. I have had the carburetor rebuilt twice. Please, I need help. William N.

Dear William: From what you described, it sounds like a combination of fuel and ignition problems. The float level in the carburetor may not be set to the correct level.

The damp problem could be either a weak ignition coil output, or leaking ignition wires, or high resistance in the wires. Carburetor icing could also be a factor. I looked at our Mitchell On-Demand Computer System for Technical Service Bulletins, and sure enough, there are many.

Here are a few that relate to your problem. Carburetor Icing TSB No. 8-25-13, Ignition Coil No. 86-2-8, New Carburetor Float Level Setting No. 84-1-18. Find a shop that has a Mitchell On-Demand System for a complete printout that contains all the necessary information and procedures to make the necessary repairs.

Town Meeting wraps it up

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Town Meeting has dealt with the remaining unresolved aspects of the town's governance, as it wrapped up at its June 14 session.

Among the issues tackled at the last session of Town Meeting were:

■ The Recreation Department was given $13,000 by Town Meeting for personnel to open up Wedge Pond Beach. "We have 50 acres right in the center of town and we don't get a thing out of it," said The Committee to Reopen Wedge Pond Beach member Clarence Borggaard.

The Wedge Pond committee had also been given the same amount last Spring Town Meeting but returned it when tests showed there were mutagens in the water. Board of Health and Wedge Pond committee member Randall Swartz said the Board of Health had "no health concerns in the opening of this pond...It's in excellent condition."

■ The remainder of the Fields Committee capital recommendations were accepted. The project includes $10,500 for the replacement of backstops at three ball fields. Capital Planning Committee Chairman Curt Jones said that the old backstops have sharp edges, holes big enough to allow balls to go through, and are in danger of collapsing.

■ The Fields Committee and the Toxic Waste Study Committee were both dissolved. A new field committee was approved consisting of the Department of Public Works director, Recreation Department director, athletic director, town engineer, an appointee of the School Committee, and an appointee of the Board of Selectmen. The new committee would consider implementing the recommendations made by the dissolved Fields Committee.

The toxic waste study Committee filed its one-year report on the status of toxic sites in the town. The committee advised the Board of Health, Conservation Commission, and Board of Selectmen to "keep the heat on" state regulatory agencies and private companies who dump toxic materials.

■ A proposal to change the Zoning Board of Appeals from 3 members to 5 TOWN, see page 13A

Fire Department to purchase engine

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Town Meeting approved the borrowing of $175,000 to purchase a new fire truck but not before some members questioned whether the department was taking proper care of its existing vehicles.

The Fire Department will purchase a new 1,250 gallon per minute pumper, using five-year bonds. The new pumper will replace Engines 1 and 2, which are 1,000 gallon per minute pumps.

The new purchase was passed by Town Meeting members by a vote of 133 to 2. As a bonding issue, the purchase needed 2/3 support (90 votes) to pass.

Fire Chief Charles McNutt told Town Meeting members that while Engine 1's mechanical parts were in adequate shape, the steel body on the engine, which was purchased in 1980, had rotted. "It's totally deteriorated. The body is gone," said McNutt.

Engine 2 has numerous mechanical problems. It was purchased by the town over 30 years ago.

Some Town Meeting members said the department had not gotten enough use out of the engine, which is 13 years old, and they questioned the maintenance of the engines.

Winchester woman tees off as full member

By Jim McKenzie
Sports Writer

Being outnumbered by men has never been a problem for Winchester resident Dyan Leonard.

Whether in the pool as an eight-year-old or in the board room as an executive, Leonard has always felt at ease in male-dominated groups. But when the Quantum account executive became the first female full member with golf privileges at Winchester Country Club (WCC), she was breaking new ground.

Leonard, 35, is the first woman to take advantage of the club's new gender-neutral policy, through which the club has relaxed its stance toward women full golf memberships. Until last year, the only golf memberships available to women were associate or junior memberships.

Last spring, WCC members voted to change the club's bylaws shortly after a gender-neutral policy was proposed. According to a country club source, other news stories have implied that the gender-neutral policy was instituted only after an Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC) ruling that clubs could risk losing their liquor license if the club practiced gender discrimination.

In fact, said the source, Winchester was among the leaders in establishing a gender-neutral policy, changing the club bylaws well before the ABCC ruling went into effect.

Leonard, who played her first round of golf as a full member on Sunday, said the gender-neutral policy was better late than never. But she said she also felt that the club had a core group of members who were opposed to the policy.

Pappas provides counsel on housing for elderly

Brenda Pappas

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Brenda Pappas remembers a phone call she received from an elderly Winchester resident who said her bathroom light did not work. Pappas thought she was sending one of her volunteer handymen out to change a light bulb; instead, the handyman found frayed wiring in the light socket was the problem, a serious fire hazard.

That elderly woman is one of many who have called on Pappas, the town's new housing counselor, for some housing assistance. Pappas, an Arlington resident with a background as a case manager for elderly housing, has been hired as a part-time employee to assist Winchester's elderly with their housing options.

Pappas said her job is to help the elderly in two ways: in cases where living at home is no longer a practical option for the elderly person, she provides a referral service for elderly housing; for those who do not want to leave their homes, she administers an Age-in-Place program.

The main component of the Age-in-Place program is the Handyman Program. Pappas utilizes an eight-man committee that does volunteer repair work for elderly, such as the woman with the wiring problem, who are incapable of doing it themselves. The repairmen, all Winchester residents, help mostly with minor safety repairs.

The goal of the upkeep project is to provide the minor, but essential, maintenance assistance that allows an elderly person to age in place. "It's for people who have no plans for leaving, who want to stay in their homes," said Pappas.

Some of the common projects tackled by the handymen, Pappas said, include smoke alarms, grab bars in the shower, or railings.

"It's seniors helping seniors. We've had some really great success stories.

I'm keeping them busy," said Pappas.

Pappas said one member of the committee, a professional builder, has been invaluable to the program. Pappas jokes that handyman is not an accurate title for the semi-retired builder. "He's overqualified," she notes.

Pappas decides who receives the service based on the elder's condition, safety aspects, and size of the project. The elderly are asked only to pay for the material.

For larger repair projects, Pappas works as a referral to contact companies that will do the job at an affordable price. In these cases, the Council on Aging is sometimes able to offer financial assistance in hardship cases, through a private donation or public funding source.

Pappas cited one example of a woman whose bedroom window was rotted and close to falling out, a definite safety hazard. The job was too specialized

Safety tips

According to experts, residents should take these precautions to avoid rabies:

- Children should be told to stay away from wild animals and to tell parents to report any encounter. Children should also only touch their own pets.
- Vaccinate all dogs and cats.
- Do not feed pets outside or leave pet food outside.
- Keep the lids to all garbage cans securely fastened and put trash out on the morning it is collected.
- Do not leave windows or doors open and have chimneys capped to prevent animals from climbing in.
- Avoid all wild animals, including baby animals, even though they may seem harmless.

Threat of rabies looms large this summer for town

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

A girl delivering newspapers barely noticed the small raccoon hiding lazily behind a chair, until she got close to the porch. But when she did, she told the first person she saw.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Her quick action alerted the neighborhood and probably saved a smaller child from being bitten.

Rachel Quaday, 11, was delivering newspapers at around 5:30 p.m. on June 14, to the home of James Campo on Myrtle Terrace. After spotting the raccoon, she backed away from the porch very carefully just as I was walking back up the street from trying to pick up my daughter, Allison Trask, 5, from her babysitter.

I told her I would alert my neighbor and went in and called the police to take care of what appeared to be a sick raccoon. My babysitter had said Allie wasn't ready to come home and she would send my daughter up the street accompanied by her older daughter. I called her and said no, I would come back, armed with a large stick and walk Allison home.

Not too concerned, but definitely wary, I noticed the raccoon was no longer on the Campos' porch and

Board of Health to hold rabies clinic Saturday, June 19

The Winchester Board of Health will be sponsoring a Rabies Clinic on Saturday, June 19 at the public works garage on Lake Street between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. for DOGS AND CATS. The fee is $5.00 per animal.

It is extremely important that every domestic animal within the town be immunized against rabies. Since the rabies epidemic first began in Winchester there have been seven domestic animals exposed to rabid wild animals. Fortunately, each one of those animals did receive a rabies inoculation prior to the contact.

Massachusetts state law requires that both dogs and cats must be immunized. It is extremely important for your protection that your pet be immunized.

All animals must be on a lease or in a carrying cage.

Board of Health Director Joseph Tabbi urges all residents who haven't taken advantage of the clinics to bring their pets and protect themselves from unnecessary exposure. The Board of Health has conducted two other clinics since the onset of rabies in Winchester and will continue to monitor the need in town, according to Tabbi.

New rash of rug thefts hits town and "flats"

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester police continue to attempt to solve a series of rug thefts after two more home break-ins struck Winchester residents in the past week.

Eleven more Oriental rugs were reported stolen last week from two houses when thieves entered the houses while no one was home. Police said the houses were located in the "flats" area of town.

A theft of 3 rugs was reported on June 10, and a theft of 8 rugs was reported on June 14. Police do not have a price estimate on the rugs.

Police are uncertain as to the exact time of the break-ins because the residents were away at the time of the break-ins.

On May 29, a Winchester woman was held captive in her house while thieves stole 24 Oriental rugs.

Police are not saying whether they think the thieves in the latest break-ins are the same people who held the woman hostage. Police from 13 suburban departments have formed an Oriental Rug Task Force to exchange crime patterns in order to find any common links between the thefts. The FBI is also working on the thefts.

A rash of Oriental rug thefts have swept through suburban Boston over the last three years. The thefts have frustrated the police and fascinated the media and public as they enter homes and bypass radios, televisions, and jewelry while taking the rugs. The rugs are considered valuable because they are difficult to identify, expensive, and easily dumped on an international black market.

Police continue to investigate shooting

Winchester police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of a 27-year-old employee of N.P. Cleaners who died of self-inflicted gun wounds.

Police are investigating whether the 27-year-old Medford resident's death was an accident or a suicide.

Detective Lieutenant James Pierce said police received a call that someone had been shot at the Main Street dry cleaning establishment around 7:15 a.m. on June 10. An ambulance rushed the man, a long-time employee of the business, to the Winchester Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 7:35 a.m.

According to police, there were a couple of other employees present when the man shot himself.

Pierce said the police would be talking with the employees and piecing together the background as they determine the nature of the death.

Zoning Board grants approval for donut sign

By Stephen Olver
ASSISTANT EDITOR

After a year-long legal battle, Dunkin' Donuts has finally gotten a permit to erect a free-standing sign for its Main Street shop.

The Zoning Board of Appeals granted Dunkin' Donuts owner Anthony Pesce a special permit for a free-standing sign at its June 15 meeting. The 3 x 6 orange and raspberry internally illuminated sign will be placed upon an eight-foot pole. The pole will be located near the entrance of the parking lot, adjacent to the Bank of Boston property.

Pesce first appealed to the town for a permit for a sign for his business when it opened in February, 1992. His proposed 15-foot sign was rejected by the Zoning Board of Appeals as too tall. He returned to the board a month later with a different design but was told that under a previously unknown town bylaw -- which stated that any business within 40 feet of a public way could not have a free-standing sign -- he would not get a permit.

Pesce's attorney Patricia Donoghue appealed the case to the Massachusetts Land Court. She terminated the case when she reached a compromise with Town Counsel Wade Welch, which stated she could return before the Zoning Board for a special permit.

Donoghue argued before the board that the 3 x 6 sign was necessary to alert southbound drivers on Main Street that the shop was there. She said it was a matter of business and safety. She said drivers pass by the shop and never see it or stop suddenly to go into the lot. Donoghue added that any sign lower than 11 feet would block the sight line of customers pulling out of the Dunkin' Donuts parking lot.

"You are on nearly on top of the site before you can determine, 'Oh, yes, that's where Dunkin' Donuts is,'" said Donoghue. She said the sign would be visible from 300 feet away.

In approving the permit, the Zoning Board disregarded a recommendation from the Planning Board to reject the donut shop's request. In a letter to the Zoning Board, Planning Board members reiterated that the sign violates town bylaws. They also stated that the 3 x 6 sign was "excessive in size" and presented an "overkill for an area of town already blighted by a mishmash of signage."

The three Zoning Board members disagreed, saying that a 2 x 4 sign would be "absolutely useless" because it would not be visible to drivers until they were too close. They also noted that the 3 x 6 sign was less than the maximum allowed by town bylaws.

"I'm very disturbed by the letter from the Planning Board," said member Ann Matarese. "I'm really surprised by that."

Planning Board member Joshua Alper questioned not only the Planning Board's letter but also the decision of the Zoning Board a year ago when it rejected the permit. "I can't understand why the board came to the conclusion it did a year ago," said Alper, who was recently appointed to the board.

In agreeing to the sign, Zoning Board members conceded that some type of free-standing sign was necessary for business and safety purposes and that a smaller or shorter sign would present other safety problems.

One resident spoke out against the approval of the special permit. Swanton Street resident Mary Ferris said it was important to "keep all of Winchester as esthetically beautiful as possible, which means no more new free-standing signs."

ConsCom to visit well field site

By NEIL ZOLOT
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

The Conservation Commission will visit the Lynch well field to determine if it is subject to its protection.

"It's a yes or no question whether the land is subject to our jurisdiction," said Chairman Andrew Hogeland at a June 15 public hearing on the matter. A request for applicability was filed by Robert Dewald of Horn Pond Brook Road.

Applications were made in 1985 and 1986 and received a positive response, but the rulings expired after three years. "I assume we'll get a positive determination like last time," said Dewald.

Money for the renovation of the field was approved by Spring Town Meeting after a lengthy debate by a 109-35 vote. The plan calls for the extension of the current 3.2 acre Lynch Field into the well field area, a 3.97 acre of land under the control of the Board of Selectmen. The new field will cover 1.54 acres or 60,000 square feet, of the well field area.

The commission acceded to Dewald's request that the public hearing be continued at the next meeting June 28.

Commissioner Richard Maggio suggested that Town Engineer Jake Ciarcia accompany the commission. A woman in attendance said Ciarcia has no jurisdiction on a determination of applicability, only a notice of intent on a particular project, and Dewald's request was made without reference to a project.

Maggio responded that Ciarcia could shed light on the proposal to expand Lynch Field into the well field made at Town Meeting.

Hogeland added, "The site visit is to determine what parts are subject to our jurisdiction. We may find out more precisely when an application comes in."

In other matters

The commission approved plans by the Winchester Golf Course to groom two holes and bunkers. "There'll be no large movement of earth," said Golf Course Superintendent Daniel Higgins. "We're simply taking what's there and refurbishing."

Conservation Administrator Elaine Vreeland said the project was outside the buffer zone and would not affect wetland areas. She asked that hay bales and fences be placed around the work area to prevent soil runoff.

Vreeland also informed the committee that Amtrak will be spraying around its tracks this summer to prevent plant overgrowth. The spraying usually takes place in August, said Vreeland.

Approval of the herbicides is made by the state not local conservation commissions because tracks go through 352 towns, explained Vreeland. In the past she has informed abutters by mail, but the committee opted for notices in local newspapers and cable television stations, rather than mailings to over 100 abutters. No town boards are legally required to inform the public of the spraying, but the board feels it is a good idea, in part because the tracks are not completely fenced in.

"There are always holes in fences. If I had children and lived near the tracks, I'd want to be notified," said commissioner Bob Potter. "Even if there isn't a scientific risk, parents might be concerned."

The commission also directed that notices be sent to the Selectmen and Board of Health.

Fun for all at strawberry festival /fashion show

The Strawberry Festival held annually at the Jenks Senior Center has traditionally been a great success. Seniors, enjoying socializing with good friends, always like greeting the summer season with that most delectable of summer treats, old-fashioned strawberry shortcake.

This was especially true of this year's affair. The shortcake was delicious, the table arrangements and decorations were handsome, the service was faultless! In addition, there was the fashion show. Clothing in the very latest styles, provided for the occasion by Betsy's of Winchester, was modeled by seniors and by staff members of the center. Appreciation and thanks are extended to Marion Pirani and Pauline Lombardi, who were in charge of the program, as well as to all the members of the recreation committee who assisted in putting on this gala affair.

New medicare benefits available

In its spring newsletter, the Health Care Financing Administration advises that there are two new Medicare benefits available as of May 1: flu shots and therapeutic shoes for patients with severe diabetic foot disease. These two important preventative measures will prove to be of great value for millions of Medicare beneficiaries. These benefits were added to Medicare benefits as the result of studies performed demonstrating the effectiveness of flu vaccine in averting hospital admissions caused by pneumonia, and the cost of therapeutic shoes for Medicare beneficiaries with diabetes.

Home health care services

Home health care services are important because they may be the best type of care for a patient. The advantages of home health care include: privacy, convenience, comfort, shorter re-

Orthographers at work on Town Day

By Leonor Rich
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

On Town Day, 33 very enthusiastic fourth, fifth and sixth graders from the town's public, parochial and private schools came to the Jenks Senior Center to exercise their spelling skills. Parents, grandparents and friends gave complete support as the children tackled seriously the orthographic tasks. First and second prizes were awarded at each grade level, consisting of certificates valued at $15 and $10 dollars to be exchanged for books of winners' choosing at Book Ends in Winchester. Winners were: grade 4, first prize, Edward Tournier, Lynch School; second prize, David Hyde, Lincoln School; grade 5, first prize, Michael Breen McKay, Vinson-Owen School; second prize, Jonathan Bran, Vinson-Owen School; Grade 6, first prize, Afsoon Alshar, McCall Middle School; second prize, Amanda Corbett, McCall Middle School.

In Grade 4, the word that caused some fall-out in the line was "handkerchief." Grade 5 stumbled over "lieutenant." The demon in grade 6 was "competition."

Congratulations are extended to all the participants in this annual activity sponsored by the Winchester Seniors Association. Children at the fourth grade level comprised 60 percent of the contestants, handling the spelling with a high degree of acumen. Eight participants in grade 5 and six students in grade 6 demonstrated their skills in a commendable manner.

It is far more difficult to spell orally than it is to be able to see the word in writing.

Polly McGuigan coordinated the spelling bee for the eighth year, assisted by Dr. Leonor Rich, Mary Kelly, Sylvia Saslow, Elaine Delaney, and John and Ruth Null.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

ANN BLACKHAM, CRB, CRS

WHY A TITLE SEARCH?

QUESTION: Why is a title search necessary when you buy a home?

ANSWER: Skipping the title search is like buying a new car without a warranty — except the stakes are higher. Although you may be the only buyer, others may also claim rights to the property. There may be an easement to restrict the use of your land or unpaid taxes. An heir to a former owner may claim a share of the property. A title search will check for any such possible claims and determine if the title is clear. Your deed does not eliminate claims that others may have. It simply transfers the seller's right of ownership to you.

A TITLE SEARCH will check for "clouds" on the title, such as unpaid taxes or other claims.

NESWC hires management team

By Dave Denison
ADVOCATE STAFF WRITER

The 23 area communities that are part of the troubled North East Solid Waste Committee (NESWC) have taken a new turn in the long and winding road of public-private partnership.

The NESWC consortium, a partnership of towns and cities that includes Winchester, announced the selection this week of Environmental Futures, Inc., a Boston-based environmental firm, to take over management and strategic planning for NESWC's business: the incineration of solid waste at a privately owned and operated waste-to-energy plant in North Andover.

In the past, NESWC has been led by an executive director working with a small staff in a North Andover office.

The decision to hire a management firm instead of a new director is part of a NESWC reorganization that began earlier this year. NESWC reorganized last month, setting up a 23-member Board of Directors with one member from each community and Arlington town manager, Donald Marquis as chairman.

Marquis pushed for the hiring of a private firm, arguing that the job of managing what amounts to a multi-million-dollar solid waste business is too much for the NESWC office as formerly set up.

Under the new agreement, Steven M. Rothstein, President of Environmental Futures, will assume the role of executive director of NESWC and will work with a senior project manager, an office manager and other staff assigned to NESWC's work. The office will remain in North Andover for the immediate future, Rothstein said this week.

The incinerator that was funded by NESWC in the mid-1970s to handle the communities' trash is owned and operated by Massachusetts Refusetech, Inc. (MRI), a subsidiary of Wheelabrator Environmental Systems, of Hampton, N.H.

NESWC communities have had a troubled relationship with MRI, as the company has won greater payments from the communities for trash-burning since the onset of the New England recession brought MRI lower prices for the sale of energy.

"It's a monumental task, but also a monumental opportunity," Rothstein said, in discussing the challenge for his company in managing the NESWC-MRI relationship.

Rothstein said the NESWC contract, which requires communities to bring a guaranteed annual tonnage of trash to the incinerator puts the communities at a disadvantage as recycling and economic slowdown result in less trash in area towns. "That's a critical issue," Rothstein said, of the guaranteed tonnages, also known as "put or pay" agreements.

Rothstein said his company specializes in environmental and energy-related work for both public and private clients.

With now-Congressman Joseph Kennedy, Rothstein co-founded the Citizens Energy Corporation in the 1970s, a non-profit that was set up to provide energy assistance to low-income families.

Rothstein said that, though the arrangement between municipal governments and the MRI waste incineration company has been uneasy, "the concept of NESWC was very pro-active — in line with some of the current thinking about entrepreneurial government."

He said the NESWC challenge reminds him of the aphorism "for every complex problem there's a simple answer — that is always wrong." He added, "For this complex problem I don't think there is a simple answer."

Among the challenges facing the NESWC management are:

■ Keeping a steady stream of trash going to the incinerator, possibly through recruiting new communities to join the consortium;

■ Keeping the tipping fees that are charged to the towns for disposing of trash from escalating beyond the current $70 a ton average;

■ Coping with a contractual agreement with New England Power that keeps the price of the incinerator's energy low;

■ And facing another possible battle with MRI over the disputed question of whether the town's trash is burning hotter and thus causing added maintenance costs at the incinerator.

The 23 NESWC communities are: Acton, Andover, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Boxborough, Burlington, Carlisle, Dracut, Hamilton, Lexington, Lincoln, Manchester, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Tewksbury, Watertown, Wenham, Westford, West Newbury, Wilmington, and Winchester.

Eating better — living better

The American lifestyle seems busier and more demanding than ever with people juggling increased family and professional responsibilities. In the daily bustle, it's easy to let healthy eating habits fall by the way side, but in the long run, it will catch up with you.

Who has time for thinking about eating healthy, losing those few extra pounds, counting grams of fat, or getting enough beta-carotene? Certainly not you. So you continue with skipped meals, too much coffee, your cheeseburger and fries lunches, trips to the vending machine for chocolate — and you feel lousy. You tell yourself that next week you'll be less busy and will take time out to eat better.

Stop! You've got to stop waiting for next week to come and recognize that good nutrition and healthy eating doesn't have to be complicated, time consuming, or boring. The first step is to build your diet with foods high in complex carbohydrates (which give you energy to get through your exhausting schedule) and low in fat (which slow you down). Complex carbohydrates are found in foods such as whole grain breads, pasta, cereals, rice, and low fat crackers.

The American diet is typically high in fat which leads to greater incidence of health problems, such as heart disease, as well as a life-long struggle with our weight. Every gram of fat has 9 calories (carbohydrates have 4 calories per gram) so when you cut the fat out you decrease your overall calorie intake and this leads to weight loss.

Let's look at breakfast as an example of how some simple changes can make a major difference in our lives. A quick breakfast of an English muffin or toast with jam and a glass of orange juice contains 4 grams of fat, lots of complex carbohydrates and about 200 calories. By comparison, a single glazed donut has 230 calories and 12 grams of fat.

The second step in a nutrition plan is to stock up on fruits, vegetables, and salads. These foods are packed with vitamins and minerals which help your body get the most energy from foods. They also are high in carbohydrates and very low in fat.

For a healthy lunch try low fat yogurt, fruit, sandwiches with lean meat such as turkey or sliced chicken, grilled chicken sandwiches, or salads with lite dressings. For a topping, use lettuce, tomatoes, and mustard (which has 15 calories in a tablespoon as compared to mayonnaise which is 100). For a comparison, a Deluxe cheeseburger has 580 calories and 33 grams of fat while a grilled chicken sandwich has 310 calories and 9 grams of fat.

The lowest fat meal for some people is not to eat lunch at all, but that usually backfires by the end of the day. These people usually find themselves hungry at 6 p.m. and spend most of the night overeating.

For snacks to fill in between meals, fruits, pretzels, and popcorn are the best. One ounce of lite popcorn or pretzels has less than 100 calories or 1 gram of fat. The chocolate candy bars we eye in the vending machines have 300 calories and 20 grams of fat.

The eight hours a day we spend at the office can not be viewed as a separate part of our lives. What we do between 9 and 5 effect us 24 hours a day. By eating healthy at work, you will find you're more productive and have more energy all the time.

What do frogs and ferns, crocodiles and cabbages, and bogs and broccoli have in common? How about Robin Hood and rain forests? By now you know? It's green, green, green! Sneak over for the sneak preview on Thursday, June 17. No tickets are needed. This program is for ages 5 and up.

Beginning next Monday, June 21, families with children ages 3 to 12 can sign up for the summer program "Go For Books!" Come in and pick up the summer schedule which tells about all the activities and special performances, which are all sponsored by the Friends of the Winchester Library. Children need to register if they want to come to any of the summer activities. It's a simple procedure, and there will be fun for all ages.

"Nanny Night" is scheduled for Wednesday, July 7, at 7 p.m. Encourage your "caregiver" to come and meet old and new friends and hear more about what's happening at the library this summer.

Children ages 4 and up can learn about good health from Bill Strong, a good friend of Slim Goodbody, who will present a "Program For A Healthy Heart" on Monday, June 28, at 3:30 p.m. Pick up free tickets for this event in the Children's Room on June 21 or later.

The Winchester Women's Club Jrs. wish to thank the hundreds of women who attended and the many patrons for their generous support.

The Spring Luncheon and Annual Meeting of the Winchester College Club was held on Wednesday, May 12, in Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany, Winchester. Robert MacKay, director of education for the Museum of Our National Heritage, Lexington, was the featured speaker.

After a short business meeting conducted by Martha Ladd, president, new officers were elected. They are: president, Martha Ladd; vice-president, Florence Gosselin; treasurer, Peg Fahey; assistant treasurer, Rosemary Sullivan; auditor, Grace Dignam; recording secretary, Jean Twitchell; corresponding secretary, Mary Ann Mark; assistant corresponding secretary, Joanne Brady.

Also, education, Joanne Galvin; historian, Patsey Hintlian; hospitality, Lesley Ciano; interest groups, Katherine Keefe; membership, Grace Dignam and Denise Pappas; nominating, Marie Kennedy; program, Nancy O'Herron; publicity, Ruth Null; and yearbook, Muriel Dawes and Aurora Leydon.

Since the theme of the program was "Weddings," Linda Anderson, the program chair, had decorated the hall and the tables like a wedding reception with flowers, ribbons and confetti. The buffet lunch was a wedding repast complete with wedding cake.

Florence Gosselin, the president, called the annual meeting to order after lunch, and asked Marjorie Berger, recording secretary, for her summary report of the activities of the committees during the past year. Gosselin then gave her annual report and the Nominating Committee presented the slate of officers and committee chairs for the coming year. The officers and chairs of committees which represent the Home and Garden Club's commitment to the community are as follows: president, Janet Holborow; vice president, Mary Lou Eugley; recording secretary, Marjorie Berger; corresponding secretary, Martha Bund; treasurer, Elaine Delaney; community service, Lois Ross; conservation, Sunne Neumann; garden therapy, Rosemary Sullivan; horticulture, Florence Gosselin; program, Lucile Grassi.

The speaker, Pauline Runkle, delighted her audience with an illustrated talk entitled "Romantic Bouquets for Sumptuous Weddings."

The last activity of the season will be a joint board meeting of the retiring and new board members on June 2.

SAT and PSAT verbal preparation course

Registration is now being accepted for an SAT and PSAT verbal preparation course offered at Minuteman Tech Summer School. Three two-week sessions are available: July 5 to 16, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; July 19 to 30, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. or noon to 3 p.m. This course prepares high school sophomores, juniors and seniors for the verbal portion of the SAT and PSAT. Students learn proven test-taking strategies that may lead to score gains of between 60 and 200 points. The course provides the missing link for bright high school students whose potential sometimes may not be reflected in standardized test scores.

In the course participants gain proficiency in a variety of techniques for solving the analogy and sentence completion test items. Strategies for answering the reading comprehension questions, which are most troublesome, will be presented in depth. Intensive vocabulary development is also featured. Students become familiar with the most commonly tested words on the SAT and PSAT.

It's great to be a kid!

By Dick Hamilton

The best part of having kids may be the opportunity to re-experience those things which make childhood so special. Like Story Land, Santa's Village and Six Gun City...three family attractions in the White Mountains that are so much fun, with so much to see and do, that if you don't have kids, borrow some for the day. These attractions are really worth the trip.

Santa's Village and Six Gun City, both on Rt. 2 in Jefferson, are perennial favorites and, like Story Land, since children under four are admitted free with an adult, they're very affordable for families with young children. At all three attractions admission entitles you to unlimited rides and shows.

No matter what your age, Christmas always holds a special magic, and so does Santa's Village. Here you can meet Santa and his elves, talk to Rudolph and even feed real reindeer. The rides alone could keep you occupied for the whole day: splash down the Yule Log Flume; ride the roller-coaster, an old-fashioned car, the train that circles the Village, or the carousel. There are shows, too, including trained macaws, some of the cleverest birds you'll ever see.

Even kids from the East are fascinated by the Old West, so little wonder Six Gun City is so popular. There are cowboy skits where kids can get in the act and help the sheriff catch the outlaws. And if full size horses seem intimidating to your little ones (or to you), stop by the Miniature Ranch and see miniature horses, burros and goats. There are pony and burro rides, a log boat, and the Tomahawk Run Waterslide that has a hair-raising 360° turn. There's also an outstanding col-

new Bamboo Chutes, an oriental-themed water ride; Dr. Geyser's Remarkable Raft Ride to a Space Fantasy Ride, the Polar Coaster, and the Story Land Queen sailing ship. There are storybook characters to meet including Cinderella and Heidi's Grandfather, a host of activities, live animals and a Farm Follies Show that will get you humming along.

Colonel William P. Winchester

Haute Cuisine at the theater

By Dan Chane
 SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Many old-timers still recall the E.M. Loew's Winchester Theater with great nostalgia. After years of resisting the questionable moral value of movies on our young people, Winchester finally got a movie theater - only to have it less than 40 years.

In the late 1950's celluloid entertainment was put on the back burner to be replaced by the heady aroma of roast chicken, apple pie and duck l'orange as Converse Supermarket held a cooking school in the theater.

Popular Nick Andon, manager of the market, brought in three of the best economists in the area - Hazel Cheever, Shirley Swanson and Josephine Stearns who whipped up nutritious and economical meals before the wondering audience.

Dave Beattie of Mystic Valley Gas had installed stoves up on the stage.

At that time, Converse Market had an entrance on Mount Vernon Street, one on Shore Road - and was unique in that it could boast of indoor parking and delivery of your bags of groceries right to the car.

Converse was originally a fruit market, became an indirect descendant of the old Richardson's Market - and was ultimately absorbed by "Purity Sav-Mor".

The Converse Cooking School gave pride of place to the wide variety of groceries available at the market - and Dave Beattie (whose office was located next door to Converse) invited the ladies to fill their bags at Converse then "come next door for a good gas stove to cook on."

The quick witted repartee saw the ladies through a cheese souffle, green beans almondine, baked Alaska and the aforementioned roast chicken.

Many on Main Street speculated that E. M. Loew had gone into the restaurant business as aromas redolent more of Harrow's than Winchester Theater wafted out over "Gasoline Alley".

Excitement peaked within as Nick Andon awarded prizes at the conclusion of the demonstrations.

Nettie Whynot, Barbara Coss and Anna Crowley each won a cake while Mary Govoni and Mrs. Franklin Inman won baskets.

With prizes awarded, the ladies settled in comfortably to enjoy Elizabeth Taylor and Katherine Hepburn in "Suddenly Last Summer".

As the doors were flung open at last, most "students" headed eagerly for the Converse Market where native chicken was going for 33 cents a pound, fresh lobster meat was $1.69 for 14 ounces and sliced boiled ham was a steal at 79 cents a pound.

Unfortunately market, school, and theater have gone the way of those great prices.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 20 — Report No. 20
Massachusetts House and Senate
June 7-11, 1993

The House and Senate "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on seven roll calls and local representatives' votes on one roll call from the week of June 7-11.

Education Bill (H 1000) — House 101-48, Senate 30-7, gave final approval and sent to Gov. Weld the bill overhauling the state's public school education system. The package is estimated to cost $175 million in new school aid for fiscal 1994 and requires most communities to spend more of their local revenues on schools. Other provisions abolish teacher tenure and implement new performance-based testing for students.

Supporters said the long-overdue bill will improve the schools and help thousands of students. Opponents said the measure is too expensive and asked how it will be funded.

A Yes vote is for the bill. A No vote is against it.

Rep. Paul Casey voted no.
 Sen. Charles Shannon voted yes.

Abortion Clinics (H 2936) — Senate 25-11, gave initial approval to a bill making it a crime to block a woman's access to an abortion clinic. The bill imposes penalties of up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for first offenders. Second offenders could receive up to a two and one half year sentence and a $5,000 fine.

Supporters said women must have access to these health care facilities and noted the bill does not prohibit lawful picketing or demonstrating. Opponents said the bill singles out one group for harsh treatment and is unconstitutional.

A Yes vote is for the bill making blockade a crime. A No vote is against making blockade a crime.

The House-passed bill needs another round of Senate approval and then final approval in both branches before it goes to Gov. Weld.

 Shannon voted yes.

House Arrest (H 2936) — Senate 20-14, rejected an amendment allowing judges to sentence abortion blockade offenders to alternative punishment including house arrest with electronic monitoring devices. Amendment supporters said a prison sentence is inappropriate for these non-violent offenders and noted drug dealers and violent criminals are being released because of a lack of prison space.

Amendment opponents said judges can already impose alternative sentences and claimed the amendment is an attempt to delay the bill.

A Yes vote is for allowing alternative sentencing. A No vote is against allowing alternative sentencing.

Shannon voted no.

Privatization (S 1642) — Senate 28-7, rejected an amendment striking major sections of the bill restricting the privatization of state services. The amendment eliminates the requirement that private contractors deliver at least equal services for less money. It also takes away the power of the state auditor to reject private contracts if privatization is not "in the public interest."

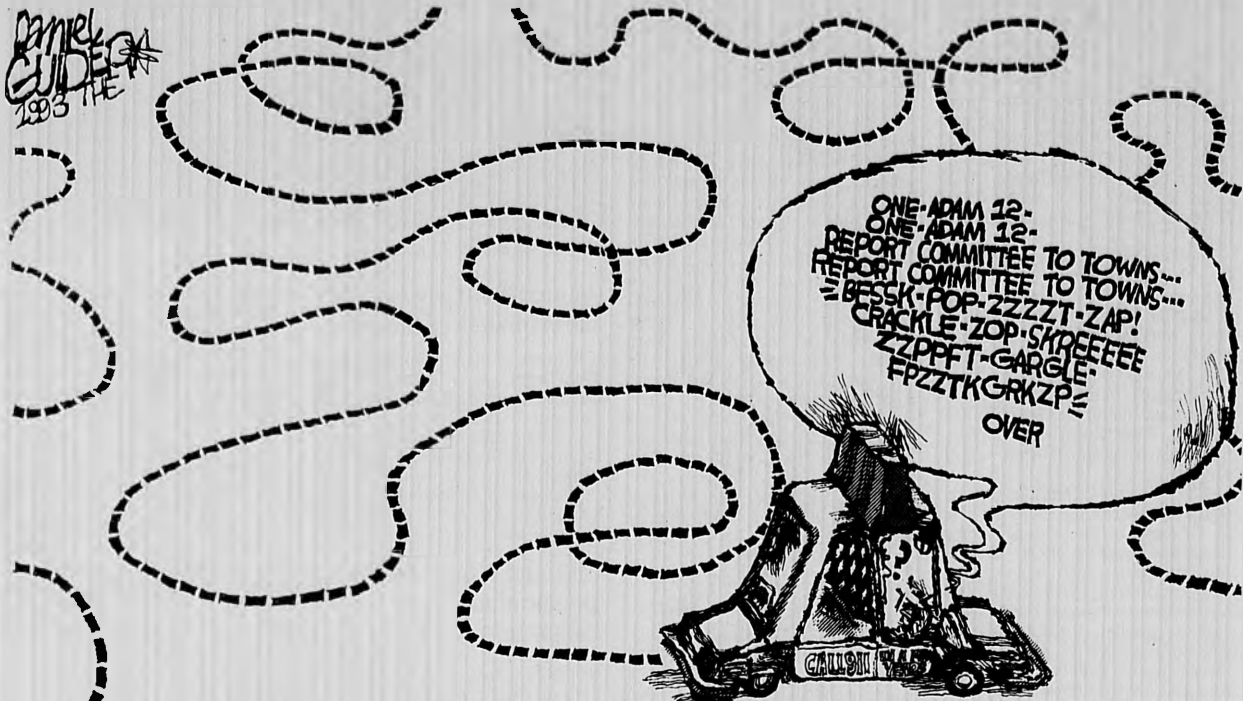

Amendment supporters said the amendment eliminates the parts of the bill which are designed to put a halt to privatization. Amendment opponents said the amendment kills the bill which is designed to save money and insure any privatization is fair.

A Yes vote is for eliminating major sections of the bill. A No vote is against eliminating these sections.

Action on pending Senate amendments and approval of the bill in the Senate are needed before the measure goes to the House.

Shannon voted no.

News Item: AREA COMMUNITIES TRY TO MAKE HEADS AND/OR TAILS OF REPORT ON REGIONALIZATION OF POLICE AND FIRE SERVICES

Chance dictates lifes ups and downs

The Bible says that the race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, but time and chance happeneth to them all, and boy did they get that right — especially the part about Chance.

Chance happeneth to uth all. A bird is sitting in its nest one minute and the next — WHAM! the tree goes down to the chainsaw and the bird finds itself among a lot of big guys in flannel shirts. We don't know what hit us any more than that bird does. And we're so dumb we keep on asking.

In fact much of our heavy mental lifting revolves around this question. I know because I get letters from people describing the little bump-and-grind Chance has done in their lives.

It's Chance that dictates whose mailing list you'll get on, for instance. A man from Vermont sent me this note:

"I've reached the advanced stage of addresshood where I am now seemingly on every mailing list in the country. (It has been determined that mine is a single male household and therefore will be only tangentially interested in household whiteners and brighteners, but vitally captivated by products and services that enable the swift conquest of women and amassing a grand fortune in real estate with no money down)... I recently received the enclosed special offer that promises to settle my hash with the universe once and for all, simply by teaching me to harness some basic techniques originally developed by a DuPont chemist for cheating at cards." The offer is for a $70 book that promises to teach its readers to "dominate those around them, easily taking away their money and power and leaving them in the dust."

TERRY MAROTTA

COLUMNIST

How did he get on this mailing list, he wondered? Who knew? But other satisfied customers contribute a whole page of testimonials. "Dumbfounded," gushed J.E. from California. We know how HE feels.

A second person wrote me too, describing her pool, which, that August in Florida, had achieved "the special color associated with renal failure." Clearly it needed to be shocked with acid. Only the stuff in the 5-gallon Pool Acid bottle looked a bit different as she dumped it in, "the color of apple juice, smelly and oily in appearance". And not acid at all, it turned out, but gasoline. "The vapors were so strong in the patio, I was afraid the friction of opening the sliding doors would be enough to create a fireball the size of Delaware." How did this happen? The bird wondered too.

A third citizen wrote in with the following tale from his youth. "I lived in a first-floor studio, my bike locked in the hallway and what little I owned crammed here and there in a tiny kitchen, a bedroom/sitting room, and a kitchen. I'd purchased tickets to a Tom Paxton concert, and invited some friends over for a quick meal beforehand." The place was so small, he said he had to place the black-and-white TV in the bathtub to make room for an extra chair.

"The meal was okay, the concert was better, but my condition upon awakening the next morning was groggy at best.

"I stumbled past the bike and into the bathroom, switched on that awful overhead light, reached for the faucets on the other side of the shower curtain, turned them on and took a look at myself in the mirror above the sink. Just what I expected...But wait! What was it I meant to do before showering that morning — ? "I shut off the water, rescued the TV from the bathtub and turned it upside down on the bedroom/sitting room floor...water streamed onto the rug. Two days later, I risked life and limb to plug in the TV, using a whiffle ball bat to turn it on. The result? The picture was clearer than pre-Paxton (honest!) and I escaped unharmed."

So the battle ain't always to the strong nor the race to the swift nor yet electrocution to the not-so-swift; but Chance playeth a big part too.

"Made 360 degree turn, can change the world." B.M. of Alabama wrote about the book that teaches you to leave others in your dust.

To which my new friend from Vermont adds this piece of advice which is good for us all on Chance's highway: "Check those tires, B.M. and for God's sake, remember your signals."

ON THE RECORD

The Massachusetts Water Resource Authority is ready to begin a waste oil disposal site at the town's transfer station. It is part of a wider pilot project by the MWRA that has towns sharing collection sites. Arlington residents will also use the transfer station site. The MWRA started the project in order to lessen the amount of used oil that enters storm drains and sewer systems. When the plan was discussed at Town Meeting, some members voiced concern about the plan of having Arlington residents come in to dump their waste oil. Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer conceded that there may be some "growing pains" but he added the effort was worth some initial frustrations. Town Meeting members were assured when notified that Arlington residents have curbside trash pick-up and would not be bringing trash to Winchester.

Now that the Committee to Reopen Wedge Pond Beach has gotten $13,000 from Town Meeting for personnel at the beach, they are looking for some assistance from town residents. Paul Albani is looking for volunteers to assist with fixing up the bath house. Albani is asking any interested plumbers, electricians, carpenters, or painters to call him at 721-1122.

The Personnel Board is looking for residents interested in serving on the board. There are two three-year terms up for appointment. The Personnel Board conducts research on area wage and working conditions and serves in an advisory capacity to town agencies and the town manager. Any interested parties should submit a letter to either the town moderator, School Committee, or Board of Selectmen by July 15.

Town Meeting welcomed back, with a round of applause, former long-time member Clarence Borggaard. The 93-year-old Borggaard returned to Town Meeting to speak in favor of the reopening of Wedge Pond Beach. Borggaard was a Town Meeting member for somewhere around 47 years, no one is quite sure. It was just like old times as Town Moderator John Sullivan ended Town Meeting after a motion by Borggaard to close the session.

Town Meeting passed a motion stating that the status of all revolving accounts be presented annually in either the town manager's budget or the Finance Committee's report. "Nowhere can we find anything about revolving accounts," said Town Meeting member Mary Pronski, who made the motion, which passed on a voice vote.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Saraco speaks out in favor of appointment

To the editor:

I write this letter in support of Mark A. Lombardi and find it difficult for me to accept what took place at the June 3 session of Town Meeting, relative to the attempt to reconsider the Board of Assessors budget.

This came about due to the fact that the Board of Assessors, by a majority vote, voted to appoint Lombardi as an unpaid consultant to assist them with upcoming Appellate Tax Board cases, because of his experience in the field (keep in mind that Lombardi did not seek this appointment but was asked if he would be willing to assist the assessors and the Town).

Now what happened at Town Meeting? The Town Meeting member that made the motion to reconsider the assessors budget stated "that we should let the assessors know we do not approve of this appointment." Speaking in favor of the motion to reconsider, another Town Meeting member stated "the appointment sent a wrong impression to Winchester residents." All this because Lombardi failed in his bid for re-election to the Board of Assessors.

Does this mean that any town official that fails in their bid for re-election to their office cannot volunteer free services at the request of said board? How foolish can we get?

Over the past many years, Lombardi has faithfully served the Town of Winchester and should receive the thanks of the citizens instead of the slap in the face he received at Town Meeting. Over the years, Lombardi served on the Town Finance Committee, he served six years as a member of the Board of Selectman, served on the Town Hall Building Committee, served as an elected member of the Board of Assessors and for many years as an active Town Meeting member. What has taken place these past weeks by a handful of citizens (I will not go into detail) has done harm to Lombardi and his family and has damaged his reputation.

I therefore take upon myself, as a Town Meeting member for the past 47 years, to apologize to Lombardi and his family and I salute him.

Myths and facts of sex education should be separated, says resident

To the editor:

The question of condomizing Winchester schools is once again caught up in a fog of rhetoric. Fortunately, a little reality should clear the air.

MYTH: Former Winchester student, Derek Meehan, would have us believe that teenagers simply can't control themselves. Everyone's doing it, we're told.

FACT: Everyone isn't doing it. A Harris poll, for example, stated that 72 percent of girls aged 12 to 18 years old have not engaged in sexual intercourse.

MYTH: The wave of AIDS among 18 to 24 year olds in New York City who contracted the disease by being "unprotected" is moving relentlessly toward Winchester. Our only chance is to erect a wall of condoms to protect our youth from almost certain sickness and a slow, painful death.

FACT: For whites, less than one-half of 1 percent of 188,340 cases of AIDS were contracted through heterosexual behavior. In other words, if teenagers will refrain from intravenous drug use and homosexual contact, they have less than one chance in five million of contracting AIDS, according to the American Medical Association. And as Herald columnist Don Feder states, this means they need protection against AIDS about as much as needing immunization from the bite of an African tsetse fly.

So, for all of the Chicken Littles who are worried that the AIDS epidemic is a teenager's worst nightmare, grab your condoms and run for the hills. The rest of us are just going to continue to live sensibly.

MYTH: Condoms are safe.

FACT: The fact of the matter is that condoms fail to prevent pregnancy in single women under the age of 20 up to 27 percent of the time. But women can get pregnant only a few days of each month, whereas AIDS can be transmitted 365 days a year. Of course, any failure is a life and death issue.

Condoms break or slip off during use 15 percent of the time.

Condoms are not effective in preventing the sexually transmitted disease (STD) chlamydia, a disease which causes sterility in young women.

In the Journal of Sexually Transmitted Diseases, it was reported in Vol. 19 No. 4 that 33 percent of tested condoms leaked HIV (AIDS) sized particles due to holes that naturally occur in latex. The pores in latex are 5 microns in diameter whereas the HIV virus is one-tenth of a micron in diameter — 50 times smaller.

And, consider the actual case of a high school in Colorado which has been putting condoms on kids for three years. Subsequently, the birth rate there has increased to 31 percent above the national average.

One could readily conclude that condomizers, by preaching condom usage, create a false sense of security thereby having the unintended effect of increasing sexual experimentation which could actually increase the risk of AIDS. And isn't this where the rubber meets the road?

And, if condoms are introduced into the Winchester schools, wouldn't it be possible for an irate parent to sue all involved if their student gets pregnant or contracts AIDS after using this government-issued device.

MYTH: Comprehensive sex education embarrasses parents and offends religious people. We need to overcome fear and embarrassment to protect students' lives.

FACT: The Alan Guttmacher Institute, the research arm of Planned Parenthood, indicated that 14-year-old girls who go through comprehensive sex education are 40 percent more likely to have sex than those who don't go through it. And, since 1970 the federal government has spent over $3 billion to pay for contraception and "safe sex." The result: unwed pregnancies are up 87 percent; teen abortion is up 67 percent; and unwed births are up 61 percent.

And, to claim that religion and morality are the reasons parents won't protect their children from AIDS is anti-religious bigotry. It's not only faulty reasoning, it's simply not true.

OPINION: I have tremendous respect for teenagers. They are more than primates in tennis shoes who must blindly follow their urges. Sex is more than a physical act or recreational sport. It is thoughtfulness, tenderness, courtesy, gentleness, selflessness and commitment.

Furthermore, self-control produces self-respect. It also fosters respect from the person with whom you are having a relationship. Self-control develops strength of character — maturity, responsibility and confidence. And couldn't we all use a little more of these?

Resident thanks emergency crews for response

To the editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to officer Lawrence Hill of the Winchester Police Department and EMTs Tim Coss and Paul Tonnello, Winchester Fire Department, for their quick response to an emergency call, to transport me to the Winchester Hospital on May 20, at 11:50 a.m., from 200 Swanton St., injured in an elevator accident.

These three young men were most kind, concerned and professional in their care of me and I am truly grateful to them.

To Tom Billiciff, manager of the building for speedily placing the call for the ambulance and his concern for my well-being. Also, the three young ladies at the elevator on the lobby floor, who did all they could to help me.

To the emergency room staff on duty at Winchester Hospital, especially Dr. Donald Amaralian.

Thank you all from a most grateful and humble heart.

All-Night chairs thank those who helped

To the editor:

The fourth annual All-Night Graduation Party held at McCall Middle School on graduation night was a huge success. Ninety-five percent of the graduating class attended. The party provides a safe environment for the graduates on an evening when the risk of accidents is unusually high. It is also a wonderful opportunity for them to be together one last night, with lots of fun and games and activities.

As co-chairmen of the committee that put on the celebration, we would like to publicly express our thanks.

First and foremost, thanks to the sub-committee chairmen for their long hours of hard work. No one could ever imagine the endless meetings and telephone calls that went into this effort.

Thanks to the individuals and businesses who made contributions which funded many of the events of the night. A special thanks to Enka Society, Rotary Club, and Women's Club Juniors. We appreciate the fact that we can always count on your generosity.

The graduating seniors were treated to food all night thanks to Domino's Pizza, Yankee Yogurt, China Wok, Bagel Land, George Sexeny of Lowell Bros. and Bailey Inc., and Barbara Doherty of Candy Castle, and Bob Johnson of Hood Co.

There are many individuals whose support was invaluable. Bob Crockett set up our phone lines, George Nowell and Sons moved tables and chairs, Rev. Waterbury set up and donated the projection equipment for the night, Don Cronin and Continental Cablevision for the video of graduation, Sue Powers and Winchester Hospital for the helium tanks, Video Horizons and Uptown Video for posters, Vandy French and the staff at McCall for their tolerance, Ashley Rooney for sharing her space in the Youth Center, Roseanne Innes for taking time out of her evening to attend, and Danny Ducette and Tommy Nolan for helping with just about everything.

The committee is grateful for the assistance provided by high school principal, John Ritchie, whose presence set the tone for the evening.

Our list would not be complete without a huge thank-you and a big hug to Tony DeTeso, our man of the evening. You may be retired but we have your number!

Finally, Karen and Mary — "keep smiling, keep shining, knowing you can always count on us — that's what friends are for." Good Luck finding our numbers!

Celebrity Auction Committee thanks community for support

In establishing the Celebrity Auction, we had two goals; first to raise money for the Youth Center and second to have fun. We met our first goal by raising $10,000 and we definitely surpassed our second goal. Anyone who attended will agree — it was fabulous!

The generosity of the following made it all possible: John Sullivan, David Roy, LMY Studio, Melissa Noone, Paris's Gourmet Fine Foods, La Patisserie, Rick's Cafe, Frame Haven, Lucy's Elegance in Catering, DeBustabus Catering, Sabitino's, Le Plaisir De Manger, Koko Boodakian's, Elaine Sami, Stephen L. Gangi Commercial Printing, Paula Rozsak, the Town Day Committee and to all of our "auction items" and the highest bidders — a thousand thank you's.

We would also like to thank our committee — Marie Banks, Ida Boodakian, Phyllis Beedle, Donna D'Agostino, Lee Evans and Doty Volpe-O'Malley, for a job well done.

To those of you who attended, thank you, to those of you who didn't, we'll see you next year.

Simon, the Sachem and symbolism

By Judie Muggia
GUEST COLUMNIST

Simon Donovan is an artist (oils) and furniture designer currently teaching painting to students in Tucson, Arizona. I tracked him down recently, because Simon is the creator of our much admired Winchester symbol, the Sachem. The Sachem was Simon's senior humanities project in 1976 and the senior class gift. Struck by the rigid and "down-cast" figure of the Sachem on WHS yearbooks before that time, Simon envisioned a figure of nobility and pride. Mr. Tracy and Mr. Walker found funding for materials and the rest is local history.

Simon's Sachem caught on with all of us and can be seen everywhere starting with the artwork itself on the facade of Winchester High School. By the spring of 1992, the Sachem was in obvious repair and repainting and therein lies a story of question and reflection.

High School principal John Ritchie, and art department head, David Ardito had the same thought at the same time as they removed the Sachem to the art room; "Shouldn't we all be reflecting on the effect of our loved Sachem symbol on Native American feelings? How about our efforts in so many ways, to explore, explain and support respectful, sensitive multi-culturalism?" As John Ritchie pointed out in his thoughtful article in The Red and the Black last fall, we must consider first and foremost, the effect of what we do, not the intent. Does the intent to express pride, strength and nobility through the Sachem Indian figure, supersede the effect of casting a proud people (American Indians) in the role of mascot?

Simon and I talked about this dilemma. He has always been delighted knowing that his personal aim for the Sachem, the expression of pride and nobility, has been such an obvious success. At the same time, having worked during his adulthood with Indian cultures in the southwest, he himself, has become very sensitive and understanding to American Indians who find the co-opting of pre-conceived notions of their heritage by other cultures, demeaning, offensive and unacceptable. He succeeded beautifully in his purpose of seventeen years ago; to transform the original Sachem symbol into one of nobility and pride. Winchester as a whole accepts his art as an accurate reflection of its civic and school pride. What now?

Humanities classes discussed the issue this past year. They were evenly divided between those who thought the Sachem should remain our symbol and those who felt it should not be our symbol if it causes offense. John Ritchie and some other faculty are clearly uncomfortable. School Committee chair Jerilyn Heinold, now that the question of sensitivity has been raised, would like to see the issue brought before the School Committee for discussion.

Sandy Thompson of the Multicultural Network expressed her personal hopes that we can, as a town, enter into a dialogue about this, exploring the feelings of Indian groups, working to resolve the dilemma through discussion and understanding.

Having lived in the southwest, working with the Navajo people in the late sixties, our family became acutely aware of the resentment even back then (before "pc" as Simon said) of Indians toward "Anglos" who used their images for mascots, business purposes, etc. Simon's Sachem indeed honors the lost tribe who lived here. Let this artwork return to a place as an honored senior art project, in the company of others in our high school art tradition. As a town, let's resolve to express our civic and athletic team strengths, pride and hopes with a new symbol from our own tradition.

Dartmouth College teams, for example are no longer the "Dartmouth Indians", but rather "the big Green". Will the new Boston Garden live on as the Shawmut Center? I hope Winchester can arrive at an appropriate decision that honors and is sensitive to all.

Realtors raise $3,200 for local hospices

Realtors from Council L of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board raised a record high of $3,200 which was donated to two hospices serving the area of Winchester, Arlington and Belmont. Representatives of Hospice West Inc., and Hospice Care Inc., accepted $1,600 for each organization.

The funds were raised at a Christmas boutique held at the Winchester Country Club. Several financial institutions provided matching funds and underwrote the plant sale. Individual gifts from realtors and the proceeds of a raffle also contributed to the funds raised.

The boutique committee coordinators were Maren Judd and Glenda Downs of Carlson Real Estate, Winchester; Susan Gilbert of Pennell & Thompson, Arlington; and Marie Monahan of Hunneman/Coldwell Banker, Belmont. Many realtors from Council L towns donated their creative talents and time to make the boutique a success.

Realty World receives kudos for fundraising efforts

Realty World-Winchester Properties recently received congratulations from the Massachusetts Easter Seals Organization for membership in the "600 Club." Realty World-Winchester Properties sponsored a team in the 13th annual Easter Seals Volleyball Games, which was one of 58 out of 422 teams that raised more than $600. Realty World-Winchester Properties actually raised more than $800.

More than $170,000 in total was raised through the volleyball effort this year which allows Easter Seals to continue to provide services to children and adults with physical disabilities. Proceeds from the games help to fund local recreational, therapy and home health care programs.

Tim Garvey was Realty World-Winchester Properties' team organizer. Garvey has been organizing Easter Seals volleyball teams for the past 10 years. Garvey's teams have raised more than $6,000 for Easter Seals. This year's team members included: Tony DeMelo and Matt Langley of Winchester; Brian Koss, Fred Laskey, Glenn Ritchie and Garvey of Medford; Alex Harui of Wilmington; Wayne O'Keefe of Stoneham and his fiancée Mary Caramanis. Team members were rewarded with T-shirts and Wearguard sweatshirts.

Department to buy engine

McNutt vigorously defended his maintenance staff. He said Engine 1 was purchased at a time when many engines of poor quality were being built. He said many other communities were having identical problems with their fire engines built in the same period.

Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer said that the rotting body was "something that is consistent with other fire apparatus of that same age."

"I assure you as a citizen and the chief in this town that the fire department maintains its equipment better than anyone else I know," said McNutt.

Some Town Meeting members questioned whether the engines were wearing out because they were overused. The engines are sent out to do fire inspections, and they go along with ambulances when there is a call for medical aid.

McNutt said firefighters can not take a separate truck or car to do inspections because they may be called from the inspection to a fire, and it would waste too much time to go back to the station to pick up a fire engine. When asked by Town Meeting member Anthony Conte why a building inspector could not do the job, McNutt said it was a state law that a firefighter had to do the fire alarm inspections.

Some Town Meeting members said that sending an engine out with the ambulance on medical aid calls causes unnecessary wear on the engines. "In our particular case, not only does the pumper go, the ambulance goes — that's four people — you have a police car — that's five," said Town Meeting member Frank Lambiasi.

Maurer said firefighters travel along with the ambulance because sometimes extra personnel is needed at the scene. Maurer said it would waste valuable time to radio for help if it were needed. "That is critical time...that may result in a problem," said Maurer.

The Capital Planning Committee had originally planned to refurbish the engine, but decided it was better to replace it. The cost of refurbishing was estimated at $90,000.

"It's long overdue," said Leonard, who moved to Winchester at the age of five and has lived here ever since. "Long, long overdue. On the whole, there are many, many men down there who are very supportive of me, and extremely gracious. And I think the vast majority of the men, maybe 97 percent of them, either are indifferent, or they're happy that it's happening. But I think what happens, like in all of life, is that there's always the minority, who seem like they're the majority. It seems like there is a handful of people down there who are extremely small-minded. And I think that the small-minded people of the world make themselves feel better by making other people feel badly."

Leonard, a 1975 graduate of Winchester High, sped through college in three years. Taking 20 credits a semester including summers, Leonard graduated magna cum laude from Boston University with a B.S.B.A. in finance in 1978. She moved to Florida where she briefly contemplated a professional golfing career, but decided it was "too much of a risk." Moving into sales, Leonard launched a career which has blossomed to the point that she now manages a $60 million account for Quantum.

Along the way, Leonard has found golf to be an integral part of her professional life. But as a woman, the only membership option available to her when her junior membership lapsed at age 25 was an associate membership. Associate members are not allowed to play at WCC during several full-members-only time-frames — including weekend mornings.

"Golf is absolutely essential in my profession," said Leonard. "In the past, if my clients wanted to play golf at 7 a.m. on a Saturday, I had to send my father (Eugene Leonard, a full member) out with them, because I wasn't allowed to play at 7 a.m. That was one of the issues, and the other is that I think I ought to be able to join."

Leonard was quick to point out that she was not on a crusade to change the world. Rather, she said, she just wanted the club to treat people equally.

"It's not a women's thing, it's the right thing," said Leonard. "I'm not a women's libber. I'm not a women's activist. What I believe in is equality. To me there's just no room for inequality. It's just unacceptable."

"Any time I see anyone getting discriminated against or people getting oppressed, and even though this is certainly nothing like Somalia or anything that matters, it's still something. It's like 'Hey, wake up guys. Wake up and smell the roses. This isn't the way it's supposed to be.'"

Last year, the WCC extended an invitation to women who were associate members to become full members. Each associate member was given the opportunity to become a full member, providing they met the eligibility guidelines and could afford the normal $10,000 fee. Leonard jumped at the chance.

"I love golf. I absolutely love it," said Leonard, a 20-handicap who consistently drives the ball 220 yards. "I would love to play golf every single day of the week. When I go to company meetings, the executives are all playing golf. I've gotten to know them really well because I'm a pretty good golfer. I hit the ball pretty well, so they usually want me in their foursome. A lot of our business is accomplished on the golf course. One of the most important things to be successful in the business world is not to stick out — especially if you're a woman."

Although the WCC has become a gender-neutral club, it could be several more years before any other women are granted full golfing memberships. Only those who took advantage of last year's offer and met the guidelines could immediately become members. Any woman who wants to become a full member now must go through the normal application procedure. If approved for membership, the applicant must then sit through the normal waiting list, which is estimated to be somewhere between six and 12 years long.

Said Leonard, "It may mean that any women who didn't take advantage of it (last year) but now wants to become a member has to go to the back of the line. I'm not sure. But if it's true, that could mean that there may be no more women for another 12 years. I'm not sure, but it could mean that."

Leonard said she doesn't want to make a big issue of her membership — she's very happy to have it — but on the other hand, she expects to be treated like any other full member.

"I'm not trying to be a rabble-rouser," said Leonard. "I'm just trying to do something I think I should have been able to do a long time ago. So if nobody causes a stir, there's not going to be a stir. On the other hand, if anybody is going to try to intimidate me or make an issue of something, then there's going to be an issue made of it. I'm not going to back down on anything."

Raccoon rabies is threat

crossed the street to the sitter's house. After receiving some gentle jibes from the sitter for my caution, "oh, they won't hurt you," we left the house.

We exited the back porch door and suddenly I heard a deep growl, I thought, from her dog.

was indefinitely postponed. The members would have served 5-year terms, with one term expiring each year.

■ A new dump truck and tractor will be purchased for the DPW at a cost of $53,500 and $17,500, respectively.

■ The Board of Health was given permission to run a revolving account to hold rabies clinics to vaccinate pets. The board held several well-attended clinics in the past year and feel the need will continue with the raccoon rabies epidemic. "We are now under a very serious threat...We don't see any time in the foreseeable future when the threat will be reduced," said board member Swartz.

■ A zoning law regarding exterior alterations or changes in non-conforming structures was made. Any person making a change in 1 or 2 family non-conforming structures does not have to go before the ZBA but can apply to the building commissioner for a permit.

■ An integrated learning system committee will study a proposed computer system for the town's elementary schools and report its findings to Fall Town Meeting. The 3-member committee consists of one member appointed by the School Committee, the Finance Committee, and the Board of Selectmen. The School Department had originally intended to seek the money for the project this year, but settled for forming a committee when the cost estimates came in significantly higher than expected.

■ The Water Study Review Committee was appointed for another year to oversee the design and construction of a $6.4 million treatment plant. Swartz said the committee members were "pleased to serve, if you so desire."

Spring Town Meeting, which ran from April 28 to June 14, was exceptionally long due to a four-week delay while town officials waited for more accurate fiscal numbers from the state.

Some of the bigger projects accomplished at Spring Town Meeting 1993 include approval of a $33.3 million town budget, a $6.4 million water treatment project, a controversial expansion of the Lynch Field, a study of a major renovation of the public library.

My daughter was at my side and as we walked around the side of the house, the raccoon lunged on its hind legs, reaching for my daughter's leg, all the while hissing, claws extended.

I dropped the stick, afraid it would keep attacking if I clubbed it, scooped my daughter up from the raccoon's reach and ran across the street. The raccoon didn't bother nipping at our heels, but then I wasn't really watching behind me.

I called the police again, but this time I said the raccoon had attacked my daughter and I was informed an officer was on his way.

Officer Peter MacDonnell listened to my account and then began a painstaking search of the area. Within minutes he found the raccoon, near a fence several yards away.

After the animal was destroyed Officer MacDonnell removed its remains and disposed of it. In a telephone interview following the incident, Rachel, a fifth grader at Muraco Elementary School, said she knew what to do because she'd watched some films in school. And she couldn't just leave without telling anyone the raccoon was there. "I thought it would be good to let someone know because whoever was in the house would come out and might get bit by it," said Rachel. "At first I thought it looked like a cat, then I noticed it had a mask so I knew it wasn't," she added.

Since April 1, the Police Department has received 197 calls for problem raccoons. The department has destroyed 37 of those raccoons as potentially rabid. Because the presence of rabid raccoons in Winchester has been confirmed, the state no longer tests raccoons in town, unless they come in contact with a human.

Board of Health Director Joseph Tabbi said in a telephone interview that he made a videotape for the schools to use in instructing the children what a raccoon looks like and what to do. Tabbi is also printing a flyer for distribution townwide on how to deal with the epidemic as it spreads.

"Kids should not be outside unsupervised," says Tabbi. Tabbi says 9 and 10-year-olds know enough to stay away from a wild animal, but he recommends close supervision even in back yards of 5, 6, and 7-year-olds, because this incident was not an isolated one.

"We've had several calls asking why these animals are so aggressive," said Tabbi. "And we tell people to change their thinking about this animal." "We don't want people to panic, but definitely extra caution with children outside is indicated this summer," said Tabbi.

Pappas provides counsel

for the handy man program. Pappas collected estimates for window replacement and selected the best bid to do the job. The woman, who would not have been able to afford the new window, was assisted by a local organization that paid the $300 bill.

"There's a perception that everyone in this town is wealthy. It's definitely not the case," said Pappas.

The housing counselor position is a pilot program that began in March and is slated to end in the fall. The program was one of the town's Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy's first-year plans.

Six-thousand dollars for the program came from the town's Affordable Housing Trust Fund and $4,500 is from the state Executive Office of Elderly Affairs. The $680,000 housing fund consists of money from linkage fees.

The selectmen have asked the Council on Aging to seek private sources to supplement money from the housing fund that goes toward the project. "We have already started doing this," said Council on Aging Chairman Robert Erickson. "It looks as if we're going to be successful in getting the money."

Providing referrals is also a large part of the housing counselor's job. She alerts the elderly to their housing options. Pappas says she has collected a wealth of information on elderly housing, so the elderly can make an informed decision on where they will live.

"It's a pretty big subject. There are a lot of choices and they differ in what they offer...The elderly can be a little overwhelmed," said Pappas, who has visited many elderly housing complexes in the Winchester area. Pappas said she never recommends one place over another but informs the elderly in what they can expect when they choose certain places.

Pappas also refers elderly to agencies where they can find out about other housing options, such as home sharing, tax deferrals, or reverse mortgages.

Winchester High's Matt Fuller won his second consecutive Massachusetts boys individual tennis championship with a 6-1, 6-0 win over Wachusett's Scott Lowder in the state final Saturday at Longwood Cricket Club in Brookline.

Fuller repeats as state champ

Tennis star wins 2nd Mass. title

BROOKLINE — Anyone within earshot of center court at the State Individual Tennis Championships at the Longwood Cricket Club on Saturday afternoon would have sworn he had found the perfect match for tennis superstar Monica Seles.

WHS BOYS TENNIS

Winchester High's Matt Fuller, grunting like Seles on every shot, repeated as the boys state singles champion. Hardly breaking a sweat, the Dartmouth College-bound senior disposed of Milton's highly-touted Scott Crichtlow with ease, 6-0, 6-3, in the semifinals in the morning. After working the kinks out of his game in the first match, Fuller had an even easier time dispatching of Wachusett's Scott Lowder, 6-1, 6-0, in the matinee to clinch the title.

"The volleys were so crisp," said Winchester coach Sean O'Loughlin. "I've never seen him hit volleys so well. Everything (Lowder) hit, he had an answer for. Every time the kid came up with a great shot, Matt had an even better one."

And then some. Dominant serving, dominant volleying and dominant net play were the order of the day for Fuller, who had Lowder talking to himself, his racket, and often responding to the crowd's oohs and aahs on several close line calls. But what else is new for the undefeated Fuller (18-0), who last lost early in his junior year.

"I was a little quicker, just a better athlete," said Fuller, who never minces words. "He's a pretty good player, I was just a better athlete."

SEAN O'LOUGHLIN

While his larger physique undoubtedly aided him, Fuller admitted that Lowder's 1-6, 7-5, 7-5 semifinal victory over Amherst's Issa Cohen in the morning may have taken a little starch out of his

Winchester hosts lax all-star game

Winchester High School will host the EMass Senior Lacrosse All-Star Game on Thursday, June 17, at Manchester Field. The game features the top high school lacrosse talent in Eastern Massachusetts. Five Sachems are eligible to participate in the event, which will begin at 6 p.m. and has an admission charge of $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Senior tri-captains Brian Bernazzani, Paul Albani and Mike Szczepanski, all of whom were named to the North Division first team all-star squad, are eligible to compete along with Jon Arsenault and Mike Collins. Szczepanski will miss the game as he recently had surgery on his knee to remove the various screws and plates which had held the damaged knee together since his first operation in November.

Several All-Scholastic and All-America players are expected to participate, including five members of the state champion Newton North Tigers.

In addition to the game, there will be a skills competition which will include a fastest shot competition.

Spotlighting Sachem stars

Grande, Brown, O'Loughlin among top WHS performers

At the close of another sports season at Winchester High, it's time to announce The Winchester Star's picks for the best in Sachem sports in the spring 1993 season.

Best Male Athlete Matt Fuller, Tennis

Although arguments could be made for track tri-captain Henry Kayulu or lacrosse tri-captain Brian Bernazzani, Fuller gets the nod as the best male athlete at Winchester High in the spring sports season. Having won the State Individual Tennis Championship as a junior, the senior was in the difficult situation of being expected to win the title for the second straight year — and did.

Jim McKenzie

Fuller was supposed to go undefeated in the regular season and breeze through the North sectionals and the state finals — and he did. The Dartmouth-bound graduate won the North title on May 29 when he defeated Burlington freshman Dennis Baden. Saturday at Longwood Cricket Club, Fuller smoked Milton's Scott Crichtlow in the semifinal before whipping Wachusett's Scott Lowder in the final. He lost just four games Saturday.

Fuller, ranked in the U.S. Tennis Association's top three in New England (18-under), will be criss-crossing the country this summer for several national tournaments before heading to Hanover, N.H., for his freshman year at Dartmouth.

Best Female Athlete

Diana Grande, Outdoor Track

Diana Grande topped a strong athletic career at Winchester High by being named a tri-MVP of the Middlesex League in outdoor track. Coach Joe Centillon considered Grande one of his most versatile weapons. She was a near-lock to win the 110-meter hurdles or the triple jump, but participated in several other events throughout the season, depending on the Sachemettes' needs.

Grande set the WHS triple jump record with a leap of 34 feet, 11½ inches in a meet against Melrose on May 11. Grande was a two-time ML All-Star in outdoor track, a senior-season All-Star in indoor track and a starter on the girls soccer team in the fall. Also named as a co-winner of the Star's Female Athlete of the Season for her indoor track showing, Grande is headed to Fordham University in New York City.

Rookie of the Season

Andrew Brown, Lacrosse
When lacrosse coach John Pirani surveyed the athletes on hand for the first day of practice, he was looking for one thing in particular: a goalie. He saw one player who possessed the necessary vision, quickness and determination to play lacrosse goalie. Pirani thought perhaps Andrew Brown, a ML All-Star in hockey for the Sachems, might be able to make the switch from the ice to the turf.

As it turned out, Pirani's brainstorm was right on target. Not only did the junior make the transition to a different sport, but he made the switch to a new lacrosse position, moving from attack to goalie. Playing against the best teams in the state, Brown managed to claim a spot on the North Division All-Star team. All this came with less than three months of experience between the pipes. Pirani should have no worries about his goalie in 1994.

Coach of the Season Sean O'Loughlin, Boys Tennis

When Sean O'Loughlin walked into his first head coaching assignment six seasons ago, he was walking into one of the most established programs in the state. Under coaches Chris Scanlon and Paul Atkinson, Winchester had made several appearances in the state tournament and had even captured a New England championship in 1981.

O'Loughlin, who played his high school tennis at Woburn, has done nothing to tarnish the Sachem image. O'Loughlin guided this year's Winchester squad to the semifinals of the North sectional tournament. The team finished 15-1, which gave Winchester its second straight ML championship and topped O'Loughlin's lifetime mark to 70-17.

In his six years, O'Loughlin's teams have captured three ML championships and finished second twice and

Carlson Real Estate A's 3 Indoor Tennis Center Orioles 1

The A's secured their fourth league title in five years with a 3-1 win over the Orioles in the final regular-season week of the Winchester Bambino Baseball League.

BAMBINO BASEBALL

Pitcher Jeremy Carroll yielded just two hits — to Matt Malatesta and Paul Koslowski — but allowed eight walks. He pitched his way out of trouble several times. Carroll and Peter Dupuis had two hits each to pace the A's. Kellen Baker added the other A's hit. Malatesta pitched extremely well for the O's. J.A. Koslowski had a solid game at shortstop for the O's as did Jeff Swanson at first base for the A's.

Carlson Real Estate A's 10 Cooperative Bank Dodgers 1

Colin Barden finished his season with a perfect 5-0 record, giving up three hits and six walks, striking out 13. Barden had three hits. Jeremy Carroll had two, including a first-inning home run. David Lynch, John Lynch, Kellen Baker, Jeff Swanson and Jason Lanzillo had the other A's hits. Brian Curry, Johnny Miller and Gino Rotondi had the Dodger hits. Peter Dupuis and Kellen Baker each made outstanding catches for the A's.

Winchester Star Cardinals 9 Winchester Elks Cubs 8

The Cardinals came from behind to pull out a victory over the Cubs.

Down 8-3, the Cards picked up six runs in the fifth, loading the bases when Doug Halchak singled, Danella walked and Eberling reached on an error. Halchak scored on Joe Bussichella's grounder. Danella scored on Harvey's sacrifice fly, and Eberling and Bussichella scored on Nagle's double. Bussichella then delivered a two-out, two-strike, two-run gapper to left-center for the 9-8 win.

The Cubs took an 8-0 lead on a run in the first inning, three in the second and four in the third. Pat Sullivan tripled and scored on Shane Proch Wilson's single in the first, then drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple in the second. In the third, Proch Wilson and Mike Morris each singled and Mike Breen doubled to knock in runs.

The Cards got on the board with a run in the third when Robby Nagle singled and later scored on Justin Barauskas' double. In the fourth, the Cards loaded the bases on singles by Guy Danella, Geoff Eberling and Dave Notartomaso, and Brad Harvey slapped a two-run single to cut it to 8-3.

Winchester Star Cardinals 16 Blackham Realty White Sox 1

The Cardinals' Justin Barauskas struck out 15 and faced only 19 batters in a victory over the White Sox to close out the regular season. He struck out the side in the first three innings. He also went 3 for 4 with two doubles and a grand slam. Also for the Cards, Doug Halchak had three hits, Rugo Santini had two and Robby Nagle, Adam Grassi and Guy Danella each had one.

The White Sox scored when Chris French singled and came around to score on three passed balls. Joey Murphy singled in the sixth.

Indoor Tennis Center Orioles 10 Cooperative Bank Dodgers 6

The Winchester Indoor Tennis Center Orioles concluded the regular season with a 10-6 win over the Winchester Coop Bank Dodgers on June 6.

The Orioles jumped out to a 4-0 lead on a run in the second inning and three in the fourth on doubles by Luke Kilflon, Tom Hayden and Matt Malatesta. The Dodgers came back with six runs in the fourth with the key hits by Jason Reese, Brian Curry and Jay Higgins.

The O's rallied for six in the fifth on doubles by Killion and Hayden and singles by Danny Nelson and Dana Fallon.

New Pro Red Sox 7 Carlson Realty Athletics 5

The Red Sox defeated the A's in the last game of the regular season. Red Sox pitcher Brad Frost went three innings and got relief help from Ben Thomas and Randy Bandoian. The A's pitchers were David Sullivan, Jeff Swanson and Jason Lanzillo. Bandoian led the Sox with a grand slam, scoring Ernie Guarino, Turner Kniffen and Jeff Capone. Austin Gardner and Danny Arria also hit for the Sox. Hitting for the A's were Lanzillo, Jeremy Carroll, Ernie Axon and Kellen Baker.

Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 5 Blackham Realty White Sox 3

Chris Tambone allowed just one hit — to Sox batter Alex Walker — and the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets held onto first place in their division with a 5-3 win over the White Sox.

The White Sox scored in the first inning when Oman walked, stole second and scored on two wild pitches. The Mets tied it at 1-1 on singles by Mike Clauro, Tambone and Eric Martino. In the second, hits by Collin Simson, Clauro and Tambone put the Mets up 4-1. In the fourth, the Mets added their final run on Steve Migosky's hit.

Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 17 Winchester Elks Cubs 4

Pitcher Andrew White scattered seven hits and walked just one to help the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets place themselves on top of the Western Bambino Division.

Winchester High's Andrew Brown made a successful switch from hockey goalie to lacrosse goalie. In both sports, the junior netminder was named a league all-star.

opponent's game. "He was down, 6-0, 5-0, and comes back and wins 7-5, 7-5," noted Fuller. "He had to be drained."

Fuller, who O'Loughlin credits with helping to rebuild the Sachem program, will be taking his act to Hanover, N.H., and Dartmouth this fall. Fuller will need all his considerable talent and confidence to compete for the Big Green next year, but O'Loughlin knows he'll be ready for the task.

"I think he'll do excellent," said O'Loughlin. "I think he'll be a contributor right off the bat. He's also got the doubles skill."

As each set progressed on Saturday, Fuller was gaining strength, volleying as well as he ever has and maintaining an aggressive approach at the urging of O'Loughlin.

While Lowder had little to lose, the pressure beat down on Fuller like the oppressive midday sun. Each finalist reacted differently to the pressure. Lowder, who was often frustrated at his disagreeable tendency to hit his returns out, was visibly upset throughout both sets. But Fuller maintained an icy cool all day.

"I think there's a great deal of pressure on a player to repeat a performance," said O'Loughlin.

'I just didn't make any mistakes, volleyed well, and that's about it.'

WHS STATE CHAMPION

"I'm sure (Lowder) came out here saying 'I'm a great rallyer, I hit everything back. There's no way I can lose. No matter what happens today, I can't lose.' (Fuller) is the only guy that can lose."

"I think that's a great deal of pressure," O'Loughlin added. "(Fuller) answered the call. Considering the competition, it was probably the best match I've seen him play all year. He just really turned it on."

The key to the win was Fuller's pedal-to-the-metal approach, not ceding any territory to Lowder. His last serve and volley were as hard as his first. Fuller patiently volleyed with Lowder, waiting for the right moment to blast a crushing shot.

"I just didn't make any mistakes, volleyed well, and that's about it," said Fuller.

Short and concise. Just like his strokes.

The Christopher Columbus Club Red Sox finished their season with an 18-10 win over the Parker-Lane-Winn Indians in a slugfest at Manchester Field. Brad Murphy's sensational pitching and great team defense held off the Indians.

BABE RUTH PREP BASEBALL

The Red Sox jumped out to a high-scoring first inning and never looked back. Their bats came alive with hits by Ryan Duffy, Brendon Carroll, Jeff Granfield, Pat Quigley, Mark Shannon and Brad Murphy. The Sox win prevented the Indians from clinching sole possession of first place. The Indians finish tied for first with the First Call Braves.

First Call Braves 9

The Parker-Lane-Winn Indians stayed tied for first place by posting an 11-9 victory over the league-leading First Call Braves at Manchester Field.

The Braves jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first on singles by Matt Gallery, Dave Adams and Steve Deering sandwiched around Tim Schindler's walk. The Indians went up 5-3 in the bottom of the frame, on five walks and singles by Joe Lang and Fritz Von Mering.

The Braves added a run in the second when Joe Lindmark scored on relief pitcher Mark Sullivan's single. The Braves knotted it at 5-5 in the fourth when Billy Flemming walked and scored on Paul Swanson's hit.

The Indians came back with five in the fourth to go up 10-5, on singles by winning pitcher Kevin Shanahan, Matt Killion and Von Mering. The Braves rallied for four runs with two outs in the final inning, sparked by Matt Gallery's triple.

Defensively, Indians shortstop Mike Notaremaso, second baseman Matt Dearman and first baseman Matt Killion combined on a nifty double play, snuffing out a potential Braves scoring threat.

First Call Braves 3

The Parker-Lane-Winn Indians clinched a share of first place in the Babe Ruth Prep League with a 4-3 win over the First Call Braves. Pitcher Matt Killion picked up the win, limiting the Braves to three hits and out-dueling Joe Lindmark, who held the Indians to four hits.

The Indians plated a run in the top of the first as Mike Notaremaso walked, stole second and scored on some alert base running.

Brian D'Entremont knotted it at 1-1 in the bottom of the inning, reaching on a walk, stealing second and scoring on the first of Mark Sullivan's two singles. The Indians worked out of trouble when Jon Fador, first baseman Joe Lang and catcher Matt Dearman combined on a double play.

Dearman broke up Lindmark's no-hit bid with a single in the fourth, later scoring the Indians' second run. Killion put the Indians up 3-1 after five innings, driving in Kevin Shanahan. Fador scored the game-winner in the sixth, walking and later scoring on Lang's single.

The Braves rallied in the sixth but fell a run short. Brad Scott and Sullivan scored before Killion retired the final two hitters on groundouts.

First Call Braves 7

Century 21 A's 5

In his pitching debut for the First Call Braves, Bill Fleming gave up two hits in a complete-game 7-5 win over the Century 21 A's Saturday.

Fleming allowed five walks and a single to Chris DeSimone the A's four-run first inning. DeSimone, Brian Purchis, Alex Scepton and Jeff Davis each scored.

Scepton, who pitched the first four innings for the A's, held the Braves scoreless in the first despite hits by Mark Sullivan and Matt Gallery. The Braves cut it to 4-2 in the second when Fleming singled, Brad Scott walked and Brian d'Entremont doubled. The Braves scored one in the third after a walk and some excellent base running by Tim Schindler. In the fourth, Joe Lindmark walked and scored on wild pitches. Sullivan bashed a double and scored, and Gallery walked and scored.

In the fifth, Scepton walked and scored on Scott LeBlanc's sacrifice. Chris Martino crushed a double to left, but was thrown out at home on a strong defensive play by David Adams. Pat Aufero was strong in relief of Scepton, coming on in the fifth and giving up a hit to Adams and a walk to d'Entremont, who scored in the seventh.

Century 21 A's 3

Christopher Columbus Red Sox 2

After a delay between innings of nearly three weeks, the Century 21 A's came to bat in the top of the seventh tied at 2-2 with the Red Sox. Jeff Davis led off with a walk and moved to second on Chris DeSimone's bunt single. After an out and a double steal, Alex Scepton lofted a long sacrifice fly to center to send the winning run home.

Red Sox Brad Murphy led off the bottom of the frame with a walk, then stole second and third with one out. But pitcher Davis got the next batter to pop out and struck out the final hitter to seal the win.

Century 21 A's 8

Christopher Columbus Red Sox 7

The Century 21 A's defeated the Christopher Columbus Red Sox 8-7, but not before a fierce come-from-behind rally by the Sox that nearly tied the game.

Down 7-1, the Red Sox came back with four runs on four hits in the fourth. Brendan Carroll, Pat Quigley, Mark Shannon and Tim Phinney each had a hit and scored a run in the rally. After the A's added an insurance run in fifth, the Sox continued their comeback.

Brad Murphy and Carroll started the inning with back-to-back singles and scored on a botched pickoff play, with Carroll racing all the way around from first to cut it to 8-7. Pitcher Chris DeSimone sent them down after that to earn the save. The A's Pat Aufero pitched three strong innings for the win.

The A's picked up two runs in the first. After back-to-back singles by DeSimone and Alex Scepton, DeSimone scored on a groundout and Scepton scored on a wild pitch. The A's added two more in the third on consecutive hits by Jeff Davis, Scott LaBlanc and Aufero to make it 4-0.

Mike Roscillo scored the first Red Sox run, taking advantage of several A's miscues to cut it to 4-1. The A's added three more in the fourth on hits by Brian Purchis and Scepton and runs scored by David MacMillan, Frank Batchelor, and Purchis.

Century 21 A's 6

Christopher Columbus Red Sox 5

The Century 21 A's survived a late-inning rally by the Christopher Columbus Red Sox and held on for a 6-5 victory, their sixth win in a row.

Down 6-0, the Red Sox started their comeback in the fourth when Ryan Duffy doubled and scored on an error. They added another in the fifth when Pat Quigley doubled and scored on an infield out. The Sox cut it to 6-4 in the sixth as Mike Roscillo singled and scored on Duffy's triple, his third hit of the game. Duffy also came in to score. The rally ended up one run short as the Sox tallied once in the seventh when Tim Phinney scored on Matt Rich's hit.

Chris DeSimone pitched five strong innings for the A's, allowing four hits and only one walk. But the night was Frank Batchelor's, who had two hits, two RBI, played fine defense and ended the game with an unassisted double play.

The A's scored one in the second on hits by Pat Aufero and Batchelor. They added four in the third on four walks and hits from DeSimone and Batchelor to take a 5-0 lead. They scored their final run in the fourth as Jeff Davis came in on DeSimone's single.

WYBA summer hoop camps

The Winchester Youth Basketball Association will sponsor summer basketball camps for girls and boys this summer. The boys camp, in its 13th year, will be directed by Winchester High School varsity coaches Quinton Dale and Joe DiSarcina. The camp will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, June 28 to July 2. The girls shooting camp, directed by DiSarcina, will be held July 6-8 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. Registration forms may be obtained at the Recreation Department (located in the Lynch Elementary School) or at the McCall Middle School.

WHS fall sports exams

In order to participate in Fall Sports at Winchester High School, all students must have a physical examination by their own physician, dated no earlier than May 1, 1993. A copy of the exam must be given to the coach on the first day of practice, Monday, August 30.

Baseball camp starts July 19

Joe DiSarcina, a Winchester resident and head baseball coach at Somerville High, will be directing the eighth annual Middlesex Baseball Camp beginning on July 19 at Manchester Field.

The camp, which is offered in one-, two- or three-week sessions, is designed to teach campers aged 5-14 the fundamentals of baseball, including pitching, fielding, baserunning and hitting.

Older, more experienced campers will be exposed to the JUGS pitching machine, which introduces batters to all different types of pitches that can be thrown. Video taping and analysis of hitting will also be offered to all campers.

This year's staff includes DiSarcina, a former draft choice of the San Diego Padres and a College Division I All-American at UMass; Bill Chase, Winchester High baseball coach; Tom O'Grady, Lexington High coach; and Paul Mattatall, assistant coach at Medford High.

Each camper will receive a T-shirt, an individual photograph with the instructors and a complete player profile.

For more information, contact DiSarcina at 721-2361.

It was a play that put an exclamation point on a terrific high school career for Imperatore.

Play of the Season

Scott Imperatore, Baseball

It wasn't the most glorious season for Winchester High's baseball team. After winning the ML with a 16-4 record in 1992, this year's Sachems fell to 10-8, missing the playoffs by two wins. But Imperatore, a two-time ML All-Star, continued to show the hustle and determination which was the hallmark of his three-year varsity performance as the Sachems' center fielder.

Never was this more in evidence than in a May 17 extra-inning win at Melrose. With the score tied at 3-3 and Imperatore on third in the top of the eighth inning, coach Bill Chase called for a suicide squeeze. The Raiders smelled it out, however, and pitched out. Imperatore, steaming for the plate, should have been an easy out. But instead of accepting his fate, Imperatore launched himself up and over Melrose catcher Steve Potamis, landing behind him and slapping the plate with the Team of the Season

Softball

In 1992, the Winchester High softball team finished 1-17 and in last place in the Middlesex League. Again. But near the end of the season, coach Linda Silvestri's club started losing games by one or two runs, instead of 10 or 15. This year, the season started slowly again, but the Sachettes were losing by one or two early in the year. They simply weren't being blown out like they had in the past.

Late in the season, the persistence finally paid off. With a good mix of youth and experience, the Sachettes won five of their last six games, finishing the season with a respectable 7-11 record, the best Winchester record in the last six years.

Although the record doesn't compare with that of the 15-1 boys tennis team or the 12-3 girls tennis team, the manner in which the softball team finished the season makes it the choice for Team of the Season.

Changing the culture of violence

It's not easy being a long term worker in a short term world.

However, the Foundation for Global Community (formerly Beyond War) continues to reach for great change from a myriad of individual contributions over time. History is filled with examples that show the potential of human beings to realize impossible visions.

Tony Lee, Trustee of the National Foundation, will lead a local meeting in this direction dealing with:

1. Looking at a current reality: how violence permeates our society.
2. Looking to a vision: a cycle of non-violence.
3. Looking at the process of change.

The date is Thursday, June 17, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Paulett and Ganson Taggart, The Ledges, #85, 7

Wainwright Road, Winchester.

All are invited to respond by calling Doris and Stan Osgood, 729-0295 or Barbara Weedon, 729-0255.

Dan's Motor

Location: 13 Brigham St., Westboro.

History: Dan's Motors was established in 1942, 50 years ago by Daniel Tortora Sr. The current owner, Daniel Tortora Jr., carries on the family tradition as a family run dealership. Employing only 13, Dan Jr. and his staff take pride in servicing their customers, and after 50 years of service Tortora says, "we'll be here for another 50 years."

Types of Cars Sold: Dan's Motors carries a nice selection of new Jeep/Eagle Products, and specializes in Jeep/Eagle used products, as well as other models of used cars and late model Corvettes.

Best Deal on the Lot: Because of the price, the Cherokee Larado 4-door is currently the best deal on the lot.

Hottest Sellers: The Jeep Cherokee Larado and the '93 Grand Cherokee are the hottest sellers at this time.

Specialties: What sets Dan's Motors apart from other dealerships? Dan's Motors is a five star servicing dealership, and is an Award of Excellence dealer from the Chrysler Corp. "At Dan's Motors we have no overhead and sell at invoice pricing," says Tortora. "We cater to the people, and that's backed up by our five star service."

Incentives: Service labor $38 per hour, and rebates on all models.

Philosophy: "Service and sales at a low price."

INSIDE:

Child seats don't have to be expensive to be effective, says auto writer Herb Schuldiner.

In an interesting marketing twist, the established product, Jeep Cherokee, is designed to appeal to a new audience, while the newer Jeep sport utility, the Grand Cherokee, is designed to appeal to existing Cherokee owners.

Jeep Grand Cherokee is targeted for the upscale market the original Cherokee pioneered nine years ago, while Cherokee's 1993 model lineup has been packaged and positioned for a younger buyer. Cherokee is also being marketed to new niche markets — as a police unit,

The repositioned Cherokee models include the Base, Sport and the new top-of-the-line Cherokee Country. Each is available in either a four- or two-wheel drive configuration, and with either two or four doors.

Every 1993 Saturn has a standard driver-side airbag. Secondly, the option of 4-wheel disc anti-lock brakes. And thirdly, traction control* for "traction" a.k.a. "control" on snow, sleet, rain, that stuff. Things like a steel spaceframe with "crumple zones" and a reinforced passenger compartment. Standard? You bet. We just didn't have room in this ad.

Lincoln Mark VIII

All-New 1993 Lincoln Mark VIII is years ahead of its time

Mark December 26 on your calendar as Mark VIII Day. That's when Lincoln introduces a new luxury coupe that will drive right into the next century.

KEANE ON WHEELS

By Tom Keane

The reason is that this car is as good as it gets; they don't make them any better. What I like most about the Mark VIII is that it is a luxurious coupe with definite sports-car handling characteristics. The Mark VII was somewhat a luxury car with sporty features, but it didn't excel in either area. This new car, with its great handling and strong engine, makes driving fun.

This is the eighth in a series of Mark cars that began back in 1940. The first car had a spare tire housing on the trunk lid and the identifying tradition continued through the years. The 1993 version, however, is hardly noticeable.

The new Mark has long, sleek lines. The overall length is longer than the Mark VII and the wheelbase is five-inches longer, too. But it handles easier and doesn't seem as big. I suspect the ease in handling is the result of better visibility. The instrument panel and hood seem lower and the drivers seat higher — even though this model has a lower roof line compared to the Mark VII. How Lincoln accomplished this, I don't know.

There are numerous ingenious designs in the new Mark. The curb weight is lighter than the Mark VII, but the ride feels heavier and more solid. The trunk lid is lower than the lid on the old Mark, but has more usable storage space. However, it still has limited storage capacity. The back seat is easier to get into, too, but I'd recommend it only in emergency.

The bucket-type front seats are delightful. They are covered with leather that matches the surroundings. Although the entire interior LINCOLN, Page 12

Child seats don't have to be expensive to be effective

By HERB SHULDINER

A birth in the family means another passenger for the family car. But a new baby is a special passenger with special safety requirements. That is why there is a whole industry dedicated to keeping kids safe in car crashes.

Selecting the right system for your kid isn't easy, but it doesn't have to be expensive either. Let's take a closer look at what is available and what system is best for your child.

There are four types of child restraints, designed to take a kid from birth to the time he or she is big enough to use conventional seat belts. Infant-only carriers are designed for kids to use from birth to the time they weigh 20 pounds. The infant carriers must be installed facing rearward.

Convertible seats combine the features of an infant carrier and a child safety seat. Convertibles are also used until kids weigh 20 pounds — about the time of their first birthday.

The most common child seats are built for toddlers more than one year old and who weigh up to 40 pounds. Children sit facing forward in these seats.

For children who are too big for kid seats and too small for conventional seat belts, there are booster seats.

How do you go about deciding which offers the most protection for your child? The first thing to look for on any child restraint is a label saying the seat has passed Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 213. No child car seats may be legally offered for sale in the U.S. unless it pass the requirements of this standard.

After that preliminary step, the rest can be decided by how easy a car seat is to install and how comfortable your youngster feels in the restraint. Surprisingly, it doesn't matter what you spend to obtain the most protection for your child. "There's no reason you shouldn't buy the least expensive system," says Kathleen Weber, director of child passenger protection research at the University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor.

The Michigan researcher says that sometimes the least expensive restraints are easier to install and use. The reason? "A lot of child restraint systems have fancy crotch posts and bells and whistles that do little but add to the cost," Weber says.

Unwilling to recommend specific systems, Weber says she favors five-point harnesses for child protection. These are on the low-end of the price scale, but offer the most protection. Five-point harnesses are the type worn by pilots and race car drivers.

However the harnesses have a drawback. The straps have a tendency to twist and get tangled.

Until recently, all child restraints have been after-market items you had to purchase separately from the car. But now there are restraints built into seat backs to protect kids. Two types are available so far, but others are due to arrive on the market soon.

Chrysler is the only manufacturer to offer a full child seat. The Chrysler seat folds out of rear seat backs. It's advantage is that crash forces are designed to go through the seat and into the seat back — and then into the rest of the vehicle.

Chrysler engineers claim that as a result, children receive "significantly lower" crash forces in the fold-out car seats than while restrained in conventional after-market systems. These Chrysler seats are available in minivans and in the new Dodge Intrepid, Chrysler Concorde and Jeep Vision.

Volvo has a built-in restraint for children who weigh more than 40 pounds. The Volvo system is an booster seat for kids who are too big conventional child seats, but too small for using seat belts. The booster is available in Volvo's 900 series cars and the 850.

Child restraints cost from $40 on up to about $200. The effectiveness of any seat is compromised if it is not installed properly. Except for the built-in kid seats, child restraints must be fastened tightly in place with the car's seat belts. This is difficult to do with many of the new three-point seat belts. Some car manufacturers offer special child restraint anchorages.

The effectiveness of any seat is compromised if it is not installed properly.

Others offer locking clips to keep three-point belts in place.

A special note of caution for owners of cars with dual air bags: Don't install a rearward-facing child seat on the front seat of such vehicles. A deploying air bag could hit the back of a youngster's seat with so much force that head injuries could result. It's also safer under most circumstances to install rear-facing seats on the back seats of cars, experts say.

Millions of child car seats have been recalled for defects in past years. But there has never been any proof that a child has ever been injured in such a seat if installed properly. To check whether a seat you purchased has been recalled, the National Highway Traffic and Safety Administration operates a toll-free hotline: (800) 424-9393. For District of Columbia residents, the number is (202) 366-0123.

Lincoln Mark VIII

isn't covered with leather, it looks and feels like it is. What rubs off is the feeling of wealth.

The ergonomics are perfect. All the instrumentation is just where you'd expect it to be and easy to reach. I like the appearance of the instrument panel. It has a circular design that runs from one door post to the other with clean, uncluttered lines. The area in the center contains the controls for the automatic heating/air conditioning system and sound system.

I appreciate the location of the radio. Even though it requires more design ingenuity to place the sound system above the climate control system (because of the air ducts) Ford Motor Company engineers and designers found a way to do it.

That thoughtfulness can be found throughout this car, such as sentinel lighting, rearview mirror dimmer, trunk lid lockout, keyless entry, finger-tip speed controls. Of course it has all the latest safety features including dual airbags and anti-lock brakes. It's worth the $37,000 or whatever the final price will be.

I've been saving the best features for last: the engine and the handling. This car has an all-aluminum V-8 engine. It has 32 valves that produce 280 horsepower and 285 pounds-foot of torque. That's tremendous power.

On the other hand, I wonder why there is no express down button on the driver's side power window, and why the horn toots so loud when the security system is armed through the button on the key ring.

I've been saving the best features for last: the engine and the handling. This car has an all-aluminum V-8 engine. It has 32 valves that produce 280 horsepower and 285 pounds-foot of torque. That's tremendous power.

The torque makes the car surge ahead at the demand of a heavy foot. It's a little noisy under hard acceleration, but the sound adds to the thrill.

A quick lane change in this car is a piece of cake. The handling compares with the best of sports cars, yet the ride is medium-firm and comfortable.

If you're busy on Dec. 26, don't fret, this car will be in your dealer's showroom — for many years to come. It's a winner.

SMART DUMMIES: General Motors conducts most of its crash testing using the advanced Hybrid III family of dummies. These dummies represent real people better than older models. They are capable of making more sophisticated measurements of what happens in a crash.

The additional data helps GM formulate strict internal guideline for crash-worthiness of its cars and trucks.

SOLVING PROBLEMS: The American Automobile Association has a third-party arbitration service called Autosolve. It offers car owners and manufacturers and alternate to costly and protracted legal action in a dispute, with decisions binding only on the manufacturer.

Since 1985, the program has settled more than 10,000 cases in the ten states it has arbitration agreements. It is used by Toyota, Lexus, Hyundai, Subaru and Porsche.

BRAKE FIRST: Should you encounter slick or icy roads, always do your braking on the straightaway before you enter the curve. Coast around the curve and steer smoothly. Accelerate when you are coming out of the curve.

LOOK AGAIN: When a dealer makes an overly generous trade-in allowance, take a hard look at the other terms of the agreement to see where the money is coming from.

School policy to address weapons issue

Stephen Oliveri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

For the first time in its history, the Winchester school system will be adopting a policy to deal with students who carry or use weapons on school grounds.

The need to implement a weapons policy has come about after three high school students were disciplined for bringing weapons to school during the second semester of the 1992-93 school year.

One student sprayed another student with a Mace-like substance, another had pulled a knife during a fight in the cafeteria, and in another case a student was caught in possession of brass knuckles.

At a School Committee meeting soon after the third incident took place in April, parents petitioned the committee to quickly formulate a policy to deal with students who bring weapons to school.

At the committee's June 22 meeting, the School Committee's policy subcommittee presented a draft of a weapons policy to the full committee. School Committee Chairman Jerilyn Heinold said the policy will be finalized in future School Committee meetings and will be implemented at the start of the 1993-94 school year.

The draft policy states that anyone caught with a weapon will be automatically indefinitely suspended by the principal. After an investigation, the principal will suggest either a specific suspension period or expulsion to the superintendent.

If the principal recommends an expulsion, the School Committee must vote to carry out that decision. Superintendent of Schools Robert Fitzgerald said that all incidents where a student is caught with a weapon, whether the suggested penalty is a suspension or an expulsion, will come before the committee, if only for informational purposes.

This is in contrast to previous situations when incidents of students with weapons were not always discussed at School Committee meetings, and, in some cases, members were not aware that an incident had taken place until well after it had happened.

The subcommittee is recommending that the full committee use a broad description in describing the term weapon. In addition to a firearm, loaded or unloaded, a weapon also includes in their draft a knife, slingshot, blackjack, blowgun, metallic knuckles, or "any

Uproar over oil collection at transfer station

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

Winchester might have an oil collection site at the transfer station, but collection won't begin until officials can answer questions raised about its operation.

The Board of Selectmen said some of the finer details in an oil recovery program were left out, when a tank was installed at the transfer station prior to a vote by the board. However, selectmen were informed that a grant to fund the program had been filed by town officials and included in the proposal was the information that the tank was to be installed by the MWRA sometime in April, 1993.

In addition, during a presentation to the board on Oct. 6, 1992, Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer outlined the program. Maurer explained then that, under a new Massachusetts Water Resources Authority pilot project, Winchester and Arlington could share a collection site for used oil at the transfer station on McKay Avenue. The site would only accept five gallons per resident. Maurer noted, at that time, that an MWRA grant would pay for construction and site preparation including a special concrete berm and canopy-type roof in exchange for monthly information on the amount of oil collected.

A local oil company had been approached to handle the oil disposal, said Maurer. Collection would occur on one Saturday a month and would cost the town $500, estimated for the disposal of the oil collected. The new MWRA pilot program would solve a problem the Board of Health and the Winchester Department of Public Works had long been studying: what to do with the town's waste oil so that it does not end up in the storm drains.

However, one board member and residents present questioned why Winchester had to let Arlington along for a free ride, indemnifying both Arlington and the MWRA from any liability associated with the oil's disposal.

Several selectmen reviewed the town counsel's opinion on Winchester's liability with respect to the disposed oil, but continued to question why the site would include Arlington. Town Counsel Wade Welch issued his opinion that liability would not be a problem for the town, provided the oil was disposed of, "in accordance with the standards established in the bid specifications."

Selectmen Stephen Powers and William O'Leary expressed surprise that the tank had already been installed by the MWRA, without a formal vote by the board. However, they were chastised by Selectmen Chairman Peter VanAken for what appeared to be a change of heart on the issue.

"Implementation of this (program) has to be a lot crisper...than it's been here. We will need to have some definitive checkpoints," conceded VanAken.

However, he directed his next comment to Powers, referring to earlier discussions on the oil collection program: "A reasonable person could draw inferences that the board was supporting this." VanAken also strong-

Bartlett director retires, but she'll always be nearby

By Will Morton
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Another school year is over and the pictures and maps have been stripped off the walls of the Bartlett School. But this year, more than the faces of the walls will be changing.

For one, the face of Norine T. Casey, the school's director, will be seen a lot less frequently next school year; she officially retired from the school Friday, ending a 43-year career.

"There were a lot of hugs all around today," she said, adding that there was deep sentiment involved in her passing the school along.

Dorothy Costa, a former staff member at Bartlett School, said she most admires Casey for having the stamina to teach and run the school for as many years as she has.

She said that at the retirement reception, Casey didn't seem sure whether or not she would enjoy retirement.

"I just told her to 'go for it,'" said Costa. "She has a real bubbly personality."

As a retirement gift from the faculty and friends of Bartlett, Casey will have her portrait painted by local Winchester artist Ellen Whitney. Once completed, the painting will hang in the front hall of the school, next to a similar portrait of her mother.

Casey's mother founded the school in 1933 in the living room of her family's home in Arlington. There were only 12 students then, including Norine T. Casey. From that beginning the school grew steadily, changing buildings and towns several times before moving to Winchester in 1977.

BARTLETT, see page 10A

Norine Casey receives a testimonial in recognition of her service to the Bartlett School from the House of Representatives.

■ Healthy Kids: Every child deserves affordable, basic health care. The Winchester Board of Health, Winchester Hospital Blue Cross and Blue Shield are teaming up to build awareness of a new program called, "Healthy Kids."

Healthy Kids is a state-funded primary and preventative care health insurance program for children under six years old that's priced according to a parent's ability to pay. Any child from birth to his or her sixth birthday is eligible if he or she is a Massachusetts resident, not covered by Medicaid and not covered for primary and preventative services by public or private health insurance plan. There will be an open registration for Winchester residents who wish to participate in the Healthy Kids program on: Monday, June 28, 10 a.m. - 12 p.m., Board of Health, Town Hall, Winchester.

McCord-Winn looks back at 125 years of history

By Stephen Oliveri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

As the U.S. House of Representatives was undertaking the serious business of impeaching President Andrew Johnson for high crimes and misdemeanors, two men, Bardwell A. Goodell and James H. Winn, began a simple watch hand manufacturing plant that still exists today in Winchester.

The company, Goodell and Winn, was started in 1868 in a barn in Waltham, 125 years ago. Before long, the owners realized they needed an ample supply of water to run a wheel that supplied the power for the machinery. Within two years, the company was moved to Winchester at the location where it still stands today on Washington Street, under the name of McCord-Winn.

Recently, the company's 230 employees celebrated the 125th anniversary with a cookout, live music, and a tree planting (signifying the company's increased concern for the environment) at the company grounds. "There's a lot of history at this site," said Quality Control Manager Dan Chane, who has worked for the company for 24 years.

When they opened up shop in 1868, Goodell and Winn were on the cutting edge of timepiece technology, manufacturing watch hands. Watches had previously been made only by hand and were therefore rare and expensive. In 1867, an employee of the Waltham Watch Company invented a way to produce watch hands by machinery. He began the operation but became discouraged by its size and cost. He was bought out by Goodell and Winn for $200 in September of 1868, the start of a 125-year venture.

The manufactured watch hands were soon in great demand, with watch companies as far away as Illinois going to Goodell and Winn for business. In 1896 Goodell was bought out by the Winn family.

As the times changed, the company adapted. In the 1920s, when foreign companies dominated the watch-making

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

QUESTION: Doesn't it make sense for me to sell my house on my own? This way I can pocket the Realtor's commission. Right?

ANSWER: Wrong! It's not that simple. For one thing, the typical buyer is no fool. He'll expect you to deduct the commission for HIS benefit before you even start serious negotiations. Then you're on your own to handle some tough bargaining, curiosity seekers, credit checks and intricate financial arrangements. In the long run, you'll find that a Realtor will sell it for the best price and in the shortest amount of time. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to sell it the professional way.

DON'T UNDERESTIMATE the buyer. Sell your home the professional way.

Alert driver tips police to theft in progress

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

A man who police believe made the mistake of returning to the scene of the crime was arrested as he attempted to walk away with almost $8,000 worth of cigarettes from a Cambridge Street gas station.

Around 1:30 a.m. on June 20, police were notified that there was an unusual hole in the rear of Charter Fuel gas station, by a man who saw the hole as he drove through the lot. Near the hole was a case of Coca-Cola and assorted candy. Police surmised that frightened thieves had broken into the gas station and left the job undone.

When police discovered 10 cases of cigarettes, each containing 30 cartons of cigarettes, on an access road behind the station, they decided to wait to see if the thieves would return to collect their loot.

Police dispatched the cruiser from the scene, while Officer Philip Coss hid and waited in the nearby woods. According to police reports, after a 20 minute wait, the officer heard two people approach the cigarettes through the woods.

The officer watched one man pass within 10 feet of him and pick up a case of cigarettes. At that time the officer made himself known to the suspect. A second suspect fled the scene and was unsuccessfully pursued by the cruiser, which had returned to the scene.

According to the manager of Charter Fuel, taken from the station was 300 cartons of cigarettes, $30 in cash, candy, and 24 cans of Coca-Cola. The suspect, a 27-year-old Lowell man, was arrested by police for receiving stolen property over $250.

At the time of his arrest, the suspect had in his possession keys that belonged to a vehicle found in the Gables at Winchester parking lot, which had been reported stolen from Billerica. The suspect also had on him change identical to the money reported stolen from the gas station.

Pilot program takes off

By Mark O'Toole
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

On Friday, when this group of Winchester students receive their diplomas, not one of them will be worried about a college application, SAT scores, or a resume. In fact, the next big challenge for these students will be kindergarten in September. They are the first graduates of a pilot program located at Lynch Elementary, designed to integrate preschool-age children with diverse needs, who otherwise might not attend preschool.

The class, one of two currently in the school system, is funded by the Massachusetts Community Partnership Preschool Program, and provides a creative, multi-cultural learning environment for the thirteen 3- to 5-year-old children who are enrolled in the program. The children come from a variety of backgrounds; some have special needs or learning disabilities, others have language barriers and economic constraints. Three of the program's students come from families where English is spoken as a second language.

Because of the differences between the students, they learn at their own pace. The children learn through a variety of structured group activities — like morning circle, an exercise that helps the children develop social skills through interactive group tasks — or individual activities — like learning center, a monitored play time that helps the students expand their motor skills and creative abilities.

The goal of the class is to impress upon the young children the equality of their peers, while also acknowledging and understanding that others have different and separate needs. Teacher Susan Spang stresses the children are taught "not to discriminate against each other. They learn not to look at themselves as different."

An important element of the program is the home component. Parents are encouraged to become part of the learning process at home and in the classroom. One of the children, Anna, a Russian girl with limited English language skills, benefits from having her mother as a classroom volunteer to occasionally translate concepts and also to help the full-time head teacher and assistant teacher.

Anna's mother, Lara, says that Anna was apprehensive at first about attending an American school, but now she can't get to class soon enough. The strict Russian environment did not provide Anna with the specially tailored development and nurturing opportunities offered in this class. Anna is continually amazed that there is so much to look at and play with.

With respect to the daily challenges facing these classes, a team approach has been devised to develop the curriculum and act as a resource for the students and their families. Education professionals with backgrounds in speech and language development, social work, psychology, and occupational therapy all contribute their skills to the learning process.

The classroom itself is animated and busy: zig-zagging partitions create different learning zones for the children — a snack table, a play kitchen, a toy area, and, most importantly, a friendly, colorful area designated for circle.

Anna uses circle to develop her language skills and to interact with the other children. Circle also presents the students with an opportunity to share daily news, personal experiences that can range from a visit with their grandparents to details of a trip to the airport or aquarium.

For a student like Anna, this class could be the beginning of a traditional American education. When these children don their caps and gowns for real in twelve years, the building blocks being laid today will hopefully result in a more diverse, tolerant, and understanding graduate.

Friends recall Mike Ciarcia, his love of family

By Stephen Oliveri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester residents recall Michael Ciarcia as a born motivator and a man whose top priority was his wife and children.

Ciarcia, a 1967 graduate of Winchester High School, passed away on May 30, 1992 after a four and a half year battle with colon cancer. He was only 43. He had lived with his wife, Mary, and their four children in Ridgefield Ct. for the last six years of his life.

At Winchester High School, Ciarcia was active in sports; he caught for the baseball team and was a lineman for the football team. Later, he would teach others the skills he learned at the high school.

His friends said Ciarcia used his enthusiasm and energy to rise to the top level in sports, and anything else he did. At the high school, he was a class officer and outstanding student, who everyone knew would succeed.

"Everyone knew he was going to do well and he did," said former classmate Kenneth Albertelli, a lieutenant with the Winchester Police Department.

After high school, Ciarcia went to Penn State, where he earned his degree in architectural engineering in 1972. He was employed with Turner Construction Co. in New York City.

Long-time friend Daniel McGee remembered Ciarcia as a natural organizer, who could get people to work together and motivated them to do their best.

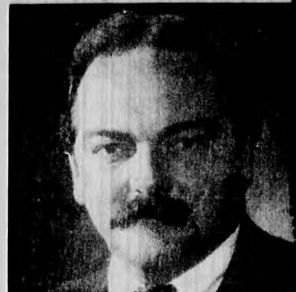

"He was very personable. He loved to talk to people, anybody," McGee, an inspector for the Police Department, recalled.

When Ciarcia moved to Ridgefield, he continued to use that talent. He was a Junior Pee Wee Pop Warner coach in Ridgefield for five years, where he made a lasting impression on the kids. "With him, everyone should have a chance to play sports," said McGee. "Everyone who went out for the team, played."

When he died, the town named its new football field after him, and all the players in the program wore his initials, M.C.C., on their jerseys. In his last year of coaching, so weak from cancer that he was confined to a wheelchair and was unable to bark out instructions and encouragement to his players, his team won the Candlewood Valley League Champions in an upset, no doubt spurred on by his example of determination.

His family and friends began the Mike Ciarcia Scholarship Fund, a $1,000 annual award to a senior at Ridgefield High School who has contributed to the Pop Warner program.

Ciarcia kept in touch with his many friends and family in Winchester over the years after he left town. He always made it back to Winchester to watch his old team take on Woburn at the Thanksgiving game. Ciarcia left behind relatives in Winchester, including his uncle, John "Jake" Ciarcia, the town engineer and his grandmother, Florence.

Michael Ciarcia Sr.

"He loved Winchester. He always maintained his ties to Winchester," said McGee.

One thing all those who remembered him recalled was his devotion to his wife, Mary Fay Ciarcia, whom he had been dating since the 7th grade and married after graduating from Penn State. "He loved his kids and loved his wife," said McGee.

Colonel William P. Winchester

Enough is enough!

By DAN CHANE
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

There is still a cabal at Town Meeting which — because its very vocal members have been fortunate enough to have avoided calling on the medical or fire combative skills of Winchester Fire Department — insist on denigrating the service by stripping it to the bone.

Furthermore, an incredible lack of respect for those responsible for the department permeates all debate advanced by this group of people.

A gross selfishness and lack of feeling for their fellow Winchester citizens who, through sad circumstance must call on the department, shades each of their negative objections to any request to better service to those citizens.

There was a recent incident here where an elderly citizen suffered a stroke while dressing in the upstairs bathroom of one of those ubiquitous Victorian houses so common in our town.

As she fell against an ancient marble sink, she snapped her collar bone and shattered one side of her rib cage as she tumbled into an awkward position on the floor.

When the town ambulance arrived — followed by an "unnecessary" piece of fire equipment, an "unnecessary" member of the police department and the "unnecessary" North Suburban backup unit, every man present was needed to stabilize the woman, to get her into a stretcher and out of the house quickly.

Due to the cramped conditions of the old-fashioned staircase, furniture had to be moved and the patient hoisted clear of the stair railings to get out.

Despite the fact that the beloved matriarch of a Winchester family ultimately died, her family feels that no amount of money delivered to the Public Safety Building could repay the men employed there for the care and comfort they delivered on that fateful day — and long after.

It gets increasingly tiresome at each session of Town Meeting to have to endure the selfishness of those who place a higher value on themselves and their well-filled wallets than they do on the overall good of their town — and that of its citizens in distress.

Enough is enough!

"CONFOUND IT! I THOUGHT FOR SURE WE WERE GOING TO MAKE IT INTO THE 21ST CENTURY WITHOUT HAVING TO MOVE INTO THE 20TH CENTURY..."

A tribute to short lives

"Birthday party!" you thought at first, as you drove toward the tree decked with bright balloons that danced in the April breeze.

But it was no party.

A young man had died here two nights before. No drinking was involved. He just drove too fast, lost control of his car at the curve, and smashed into a utility pole and the tree beside it.

The tree told it all: one large trunk-like limb snapped in half and hanging down, suspended by a jagged skin of bark.

Other passing cars slowed and stopped, as I did, out of something stronger than curiosity.

We had seen such deaths before and not just once — a young person last year, and one the year before that, two together one hot night three years ago. Sometimes drinking had been a factor, sometimes not. Each year it now seems there is a fresh toll of young people who do not swim or run or play come summer, but lie instead in their best clothes in polished boxes under the ground.

Such a tribute as this we had not seen. An elderly couple had stopped, a man in a phone truck, a woman with two small children.

For the spot was decorated — not just with balloons but with streamers and flowers, team photos and stuffed animals. And for a hundred feet along the curb, the dead boy's friends had penned their good byes. "You will always be with me" read one in shaky blue marker. "We all miss you. We never got old together."

I stood transfixed as I read and presently became aware of a man snapping pictures with reddened eyes. Seeing me see him thus, he spoke up.

"We lost a son too — in 1977." He and his wife had been eating pizza when the call came from the hospital. Panicky, they rushed down the highway. David had suffered heart failure while playing soccer. The doctors saved him and he seemed to recover. "We knew soccer was out now. But we thought, well, he can golf. And go hiking. Two years later, one summer day we kissed him goodbye, as he went off with his friends." He swam the length of one of their pools, climbed out and died at the water's edge.

And now here he was that youth's dad, quietly recording this tribute to the short life of another. We talked a while and exchanged names and addresses. In a few weeks he sent me the snapshots.

In them you see it all: the raw April earth, the stumps of candles, lit in vigil as the teens gathered during the nights, a set of drumsticks, a League Champion T shirt, the bouquets of flowers. And not least the kids' words, at once child-like and wise, stoical and anguished.

"SAD BUT TRUE" in large block print. "Look, Matt, they decorated your tree." "This is a part of it. One day to live, one day to die. Sorry, bro." And this, by his big sister: "That place between sleep and awake where you remember your dreams — that's where I will always love you."

Do the young know, I wondered, reading these, how precious is this gift of life? How fleeting and imperilled? How brief? Do any of us, until it's too late?

Shortly after the accident, still in the tender first days of spring, this thoughtful man penned me a note, sitting in a pew at his church as his wife rehearsed with the choir.

Of young Matt's death he wrote, "though he was unknown to us, the event set off a stream of emotion. It opened a wound that I guess never really heals....God but we loved and miss our son."

He enclosed a copy of the words said by their pastor at David's service, which I quote today in the first tender days of this new season of freedom and the long warm nights.

"Stand with these dear people in their hour of loneliness," he had prayed, "until the day break, as break it shall, and the shadows pass away."

I drove by Matt's pole again this morning. I saw fresh flowers wilting at its base, "ONE IN A MILLION" spray-painted in huge letters on the street.

And I thought to myself, they who mourn the young wait long for the passing of those shadows.

ON THE RECORD

Winchester residents should be on the lookout for a new pamphlet to be distributed by the Board of Health entitled, "Raccoons, rabies and you." The pamphlet contains several pages of information on how to avoid contact with rabid animals and what to do should contact occur. Board of Health Director Joseph Tabbi said the incidence of rabid raccoons could slow over the summer months but experience a sharp increase as new baby raccoons are born in September. State health officials are reporting a faster spread of the virus among the raccoon population than had originally been predicted.

Only 6 volunteers showed up to begin the cleanup process at Wedge Pond to ready the beach for use this summer. According to Board of Health Director Joseph Tabbi more volunteers are "desperately needed." Tabbi said volunteers can just show up at the pond on Saturday and even if they only have an hour, pitch in, work will be ongoing from 8 a.m. until dusk.

School Department officials won't have the summer off. They will be undergoing a hiring frenzy to fill several staff positions. On July 7 and 8 the School Committee will be interviewing four candidates, two on each day, for the position of assistant superintendent of curriculum. According to School Committee Chairman Jerilyn Heinold, each interview will run an hour, with a half hour of questions from the committee and a half hour of questions from staff and audience members. According to Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald, the administration received 53 applications for the position. Also school officials will be selecting four new elementary teachers from over 1,000 resumes they have received. A committee headed by high school Principal John Ritchie will choose a new assistant principal to replace Susan Austin, who is leaving to be a housemaster at Newton North High School, after 18 years in the Winchester school system.

When School Committee member Constance Makhoul voices her opinion there is never a dull moment, especially when she starts off with the familiar "at the risk of making some people upset." At a recent discussion of multi-cultural issues, Makhoul said she was worried that the implementation of multi-cultural classes would come at the expense of American history classes. Makhoul stressed that she supports appreciation of diversity but added, "I hope that in this enthusiasm to integrate the multi-cultural we don't lose those things that pull us together."

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 20 — Report No. 21
Massachusetts House and Senate
June 14 to 18, 1993

The House and Senate "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on six roll calls and local representatives' votes on two roll calls from the week of June 14 to 18.

Lockouts (S 1523) — Senate 32-5, House 121-27, overrode Governor Weld's veto of the bill giving unemployment benefits to workers locked out by employers during a labor dispute. The override means the bill becomes law. Bill supporters said this measure gives some security to workers and their families during lockouts. They pointed to the recent Boston Gas Company lockout and noted that present law allows the Department of Employment and Training to decide on a case by case basis whether jobless benefits are paid.

Bill opponents said the measure tilts the balance too far in favor of unions and sends yet another anti-business message.

A Yes vote is for giving unemployment benefits to locked out workers. A No vote is against giving benefits.
Rep. Paul Casey voted yes.
Sen. Charles Shannon voted yes.

Abortion Blockade (H 2936) — Senate 25-10, refused to reconsider its earlier approval of the House-passed bill making it a crime to block a woman's access to an abortion clinic. The bill imposes penalties of up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for first time offenders.

Supporters said some protesters are violating their rights of women and noted the bill does not prohibit lawful picketing.

Opponents said this unconstitutional bill singles out one unpopular group of pro-life citizens for harsh treatment. The measure needs further Senate and House approval before it goes to Governor Weld.

A Yes vote is for reconsidering making a blockade a crime. A No vote is for making a blockade a crime.
Shannon voted no.

Restrict Privatization (S 1842) —

Senate 29-6, gave near approval to the bill restricting the privatization of state services. The measure permits privatization only if it is proven that a private contractor will deliver equal services for less money. It also establishes many conditions which must be met for privatization and allows the state auditor to reject private contracts if the conditions are not met.

Supporters said the bill is a fair one which insures that any privatization is proper and saves money.

Opponents said the bill makes it almost impossible to privatize services and save the taxpayers money. The bill goes to the House for consideration.

A Yes vote is for the bill restricting privatization. A No vote is against the bill restricting privatization.
Shannon voted yes.

State Employees (S 1642) — Senate 20-7, rejected an amendment eliminating a requirement that new private contractors hire qualified state employees who are laid off from the agency being privatized.

Amendment supporters said private contractors generally rehire these state employees but should not be forced to do so.

Amendment opponents said current state workers should be protected and offered jobs after privatization.

A Yes vote is against requiring hiring of laid off employees. A No vote is for requiring hiring of laid off employees.

Shannon voted no.

Public Interest (S 1642) — Senate 23-8, rejected an amendment eliminating the power of the state auditor to reject any privatization contract which is not "in the public interest."

Amendment supporters said this phrase is vague and gives excessive power to the state auditor to kill all privatization contracts.

Amendment opponents said it is important to empower someone outside the administration to insure that a particular contract benefits the public.

A Yes vote is against giving the auditor the power. A No vote is for giving the auditor the power.
Shannon voted yes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An open letter to the residents of Winchester

To the editor:

It hardly seems possible that a year has already passed since Hugo LaFauci retired from Winchester TV & Video. He had labored long and hard, servicing the people of Winchester for more than 30 years. Having worked alongside him for six years, I was able to observe how he always tried to treat each customer with respect and fairness. He was quite pleased when I expressed an interest in the business, as he knew I would continue that tradition of quality and integrity which he had taken great pride in establishing.

Moving and setting up the business at a new location was no small undertaking, but I felt it was necessary in order to better serve the public. Our new site is larger, enabling us to properly display our expanding product base. We also have off-street parking now, which was one problem we always experienced on Thompson Street.

On the subject of repairs, the fact that the licensed technicians all made the move with us, bringing along their expertise and years of experience, was another factor which made for a smooth transition. They, as do I, hope to continue to serve you for 30 more years.

We have tried to establish a pleasant and enjoyable atmosphere for our customers to shop in.

In closing, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the loyal customers who stayed with us during the transition from Winchester TV & Video on Thompson Street to Hawaii Five Video...and More at 755 Main St. Thanks go out as well to all the new customers who have since found us and climbed on board. It is because of each and every one of you, new and old, that our first year has been such an overwhelming success.

Tom O'Leary, Hawaii Five Video and More (formerly Winchester TV & Video)

Resident notes compassion of local vet

To the editor:

On Tuesday, June 18, I was driving down Winthrop St., Medford whereupon I came across two girls almost half way in the street sitting with an injured cat that had just been struck. Many people had witnessed the incident and kept on going to the baseball game that was in the area. Others just walked by. I turned around and with the assistance of these two lovely young girls brought the cat to the Winchester Veterinary Group on Cross Street. No sooner did we walk to the front door when Dr. Steve Zanotti had come out to assist us and took charge immediately.

I can't tell you how impressed I was... he didn't ask any of our names, who owned the cat, or how was payment to be made. He just sprung into action and did not only was he has been trained to do, but showed what a very kind, compassionate and caring human he is. He took this cat in as a patient I'm sure knowing that even though the girls were going to look for his owner, he would not be paid and therefore he would not get paid. The animal kingdom is lucky to have such a friend as Dr. Zanotti and we should be proud to have him serving in our community.

P.S. Because of severe head trauma the cat had to finally be euthanized.

Meehan questions response to his letter

To the editor:

I would like to apologize to anyone who has been offended by what I have had to say. I guess there are some issues that just can't be discussed objectively. It must be remembered that my opinions are just that, my opinions.

I took a course devoted entirely to the study of AIDS in adolescents and statistics were a large part of that course. I am left wondering because

Mr. Horn retires as crossing guard

Mr. Richard Horn recently retired as a crossing guard at Lincoln Elementary School in Winchester.

Every day for 13 years, hundreds of Lincoln students were greeted by Mr. Horn's much-loved and familiar face as he saw them safely across Washington Street to the school grounds.

A special ceremony on June 14 at Lincoln School marked Mr. Horn's retirement. He was presented with gifts from the children, a citation from the Board of Selectmen, an American flag and a plaque inscribed with his name; which now hangs on the fence by "Horn Crossing".

Members of Mr. Horn's family, town officials, parents, teachers and students listened as Mr. Horn spoke of his pleasure in working with children, and how he had "enjoyed every minute of his 13 years".

The entire Lincoln community expressed their gratitude his dedicated service, and thanked Mr. Horn, for taking such good care of the children who passed his way.

Mr. Horn is noticeably touched by the gift of a book of pictures from Lincoln children at the ceremony in his honor.

the statistics I studied and the ones presented in a letter by Mr. Oakes have considerable differences. That is not to say that one is right and the other wrong.

Since I only expressed my opinions, I do not feel the need to justify them to anyone. However, I would like to clarify one comment made by Mr. Oakes. Sir, I was raised as a Roman Catholic and I would no more consider myself an anti-religious bigot for mentioning fundamentalism than I would consider you a racist for making distinctions between AIDS, cases in blacks and whites. I do certainly respect the opinions that were expressed, but I do wish that judgment had been left out.

MULTICULTURAL NETWORK

Multicultural awards

By Sandy Thompson
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Winchester High School had several multicultural award winners this spring: two students and one staff member. Kay Tiffany, a guidance counselor, was honored by the Anti-Defamation League's A World of Difference Institute during the second annual teacher ceremony in May. According to ADL, "despite the progress made in the area of human relations, our world continues to be one in which human differences are perceived as threats and signs of inferiority, resulting in feelings and acts of disrespect and intolerance."

A World of Difference Institute recognized Tiffany and 11 others who had worked to create "educational environments in which human diversity is acknowledged and made an integral part of the learning process... and (in which) students and staff interact positively and cooperatively in order to gain greater understanding of a diverse world."

Tiffany was singled out for her work in linking community and school, advocating for social fairness, helping to write a grant resulting in multicultural workshops for teachers and helping to shape a concerted effort to promote multiculturalism in the high school.

High School juniors Amy Albert and Binh Nguyen, along with volunteer Sandy Thompson, were similarly recognized for their efforts by the Massachusetts Department of Education, the New England Center for Equity Assistance, the Massachusetts Association for Bilingual Education, the METCO Directors Association and the Massachusetts Foreign Language Association.

Designed to focus on individuals and groups, the multicultural recognition awards honored those who have engaged in "activities that foster understanding and celebrate diversity." According to the introduction in the award booklet, the sponsors believe "that diversity is, and must remain, a vital part of the American norm. To celebrate this diversity is to celebrate the ideals of our democratic tradition."

Albert and Nguyen had both attended the youth leadership training program, Anytown, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, last summer. Albert helped write a grant application to enhance curriculum materials in order to better reflect the diversity in our country, organized an urban/suburban exchange and has been an active member of the Multicultural Issues Group.

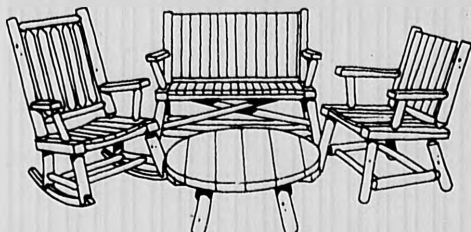

Nguyen has also been active with the Multicultural Issues Group, has spoken out on issues of racism and sexism, and has worked with the curriculum group. Nguyen, a native of Vietnam, attends Winchester High School through the ABC program.

Library to offer summer program for seniors

During the summer of 1993, the Winchester Public Library will offer "Bingo With Books," a summer reading program for Winchester's senior citizens. The program will have a "Bingo" theme. Each participant will read on biography, one book related to a hobby or personal interest, one novel, one classic, and either a suspense story or a love story, for a total of five books, and fill them in on a "Bingo With Books" entry form. Those who complete the program will be invited to a "Bingo With Books" party with band and refreshments (homebound players will receive a floral bouquet). Applications will be available at the end of June. For more information, please contact Richard Welton at the Winchester Public Library, telephone 721-7171. The program is sponsored by the Winchester Co-operative Bank, in commemoration of 100 years of service to the community.

Introducing the "clean-machine," the cordless, rechargeable, electric mower from Black & Decker.

No wonder everyone's buzzing about the new generation of electric mowers. They're like a breath of fresh air. Cordless. Powerful enough to cut up to 10,000 square feet of lawn on a single charge. They require no gas, no oil, no tune-ups—and cause virtually no pollution. Just flip the starting switch and you're ready to mow—for about 7¢ per cutting.

Why a Cordless Electric?

It's better for the environment. According to the EPA, using a gas-powered mower for one hour pollutes Massachusetts' air the equivalent of driving your car for a full week! Cordless electric mowers are virtually pollution free.

- No more gas to buy, store or mix
- No more messy oil changes
- No more noxious fumes
- No clumsy cords
- Incredibly quiet
- Plenty of power

The cordless, electric lawn mower is available at Somerville Lumber, Home Depot & Home Quarters Stores. Check your local retailer.

Winchester Foundation for Educational Excellence announces grants

The Winchester Foundation for Educational Excellence conducted their first annual meeting June 16, concluding a very successful and eventful year.

Highlighting the annual meeting was the announcement that seven major projects have been selected for the foundation to work on to seek funding. They are:

1. A leadership development program to encourage students in grades kindergarten through 12 to promote good citizenship and develop responsible leadership within the schools and the community.

2. An inflatable planetarium to introduce students in grades kindergarten through 12 to the prime energy sources through a study of the stars and our sun.

3. A quality exhibit area to acknowledge and honor the achievements of students at the high school in areas as diverse as art, science, poetry and technology.

4. A graphics arts center utilizing state of the art technology in a collaborative effort between the business and art departments.

5. The "Year of the Book," a K-12 thematic reading experience to include library net-working, publication of books, visiting authors, adult literacy and creative writing by staff and students.

6. A teacher resource and professional development center.

7. An "artist-in-residence" program with a leading composer working with the McCall and High School bands.

Program directors Sara Swiger and Amy Fitzpatrick coordinated the major grant selection process, that included school administrators and teachers, and the final approval of the school committee. The Foundation is now in the process of looking for funding for these projects through private foundations and a variety of corporations.

Election of officers for the 1993-94 year was completed with the following being elected: Judy King, chairperson; Mike Manzo, vice-chairman; Paul Rahmeier, secretary; and Ed Holleran, treasurer. Other trustees include Shawn Smith, Robert Drummond, William Galatis, Elaine Kuttner, Dr. Donald McLean, David Pywell, Bruce Stevens and Jack Wallwork. Superintendent of Schools Robert Fitzgerald and Jerilyn Heindol, School Committee chair, serve as ex-officio trustees. Program directors include Marsha Lamson, Sara Swiger, Amy Fitzpatrick, Abby Hurlbut, Nancy Evans, Jim and Karen Hayes.

In addition to the major grants announced tonight, The Foundation was also able to award 40 mini-grants and seven special projects this past year allowing more than 100 Winchester teachers to bring innovative and enriching new programs to more than 1,000 students covering every school and grade level. These kind of programs that go beyond the existing curriculum and would otherwise be unaffordable.

Chairperson King enthusiastically summed up the year, "As our first school year comes to a close, I want to thank the people of Winchester for their overwhelming support—in time, energy and money. And our teachers deserve a lot of credit...for the inspirational ideas they put before us, and their commitment to an even better educational experience for our young people."

Foundation funds are not intended to substitute for, or relieve the existing responsibility for taxpayer funding of the schools. For more information, contact the Foundation trustees, or write The Winchester Foundation for Educational Excellence, c/o The Winchester Public Schools Administrative Center, 154 Horn Pond Brook Road, Winchester, 01890.

Ships, settlers, lakes and land

By Dick Hamilton

Two of the most unique attractions in the White Mountains are set at opposite ends of the region: the cruise ship m/s Mount Washington which berths at Weirs Beach and Heritage-New Hampshire in Glen. As different as they may be, they have one thing in common: each combines a cruise and history.

A cruise ship called Mount Washington has been plying the waters of Lake Winnepesaukee for 105 years. The present "Mount" was purchased in New York after the original ship burned in 1939. She was launched in 1942, but taken out of commission later that year when the Coast Guard acquired her engines for the war effort. New diesel engines were installed in 1946 and once again this proud ship cruised the waters of this 74 square mile lake. Later, in the winter of 1982-83, the ship was lengthened by 24 feet, refurbished and re-christened that spring the m/s Mount Washington II.

Today from May to October, the Mount makes its 50 mile cruise. Daytimes, the fascinating commentary on points of interest, history and local legends is a delightful counterpoint to the continually changing scenery during the relaxing ride, while evenings the special moonlight and theme cruises combine music, dinner, dancing and entertainment, and the romance of the lake at night.

Heritage-New Hampshire provides quite a different type of cruise: a simulated ocean voyage from the Old World to the New in 1634, and then a journey through 300 years of New Hampshire history. You feel the roll of the deck of the Reliance under your feet, hear the cry of gulls, the creak of the ship's rigging and the slap of the ocean waves.

opulent Mount Washington Hotel in Gay 90's...a scenic train ride through Crawford Notch in 1910 at the height of foliage season...the years and the scenes unfold.

You can take both these "see" cruises in one day, perhaps with a stop in between for a picnic. One favorite spot: the shores of Lake Chocoma. No cruise there, but a wonderful view to see.

other device or object used or attempted to be used to inflict bodily harm on a person." The subcommittee noted it would also include the use of things like baseball bats or lacrosse sticks, which are commonly found on school grounds.

The subcommittee is recommending that penalties range from suspension for three days to one-year suspensions to expulsion. Fitzgerald told the Star he was unsure of whether the school system would have to provide education for a student expelled for using a weapon, but he conceded in some cases, especially with younger students, that education would likely have to be provided.

Heinold noted the final policy version will probably contain more definite guidelines of the consequences that students should expect as a result of certain types of actions.

School Committee member Constantine Makhoul said the school administration must take steps to ensure the weapon policy does not get lost in the student handbook between policies on chewing gum and detention.

"The secret to success here is how the policy is presented to the students, because if we vote this policy and put it in our policy book we've technically done our jobs, but it hasn't done the job that we need it to do," said Makhoul. "I would like to see an implementation plan...on how they (the principals) intend to educate the students, in the opening weeks of school, about this policy."

Makhoul suggested that the students receive a statement that has "some pretty strong teeth in it that says, 'Here it is and we're serious, kids, so let me tell you about it.'" ing industry, the company switched from watch hands to pointers for clocks and radios. In 1935, the company, now called J. H. Winn, entered into the automobile industry (where it still is today) when it produced pointers for speedometers, gauges, and automobile clocks.

During the Second World War, the company became immersed in work for the government, manufacturing pointers for gauges for war planes. In 1942, J.H. Winn's Sons employees were awarded the Army-Navy "E" for Excellence Award for their manufacturing work for the government at a ceremony at Town Hall.

In 1948 they manufactured pointers for gauges for the latest technological development, television.

The company has been manufacturing auto parts exclusively for the last 18 years — fuel pump armatures, air pumps, and lumbar supports for seats. The company became McCord-Winn in 1987 and has two plants in addition to the Winchester location, one in Derry, N.H. where they make motor components and wiper systems, and Tennessee, where they produce washer systems and car seats.

Uproar over oil collection

ly disagreed with the suggestion that Winchester use the site alone.

"I think that if we made an application to the MWRA with Arlington we should honor it," said VanAken.

Sheridan Circle resident Dan Strange complained about the potential for traffic problems in the area of Swanton Street, particularly on a busy day at the transfer station.

Strange said some residents called him to point out the possibility of having to wait in long lines to get into the dump, potentially behind an Arlington resident.

"I don't understand how something of this magnitude could get decided without a public hearing," said Strange, appearing in front of the board on June 21. Resident Frank Lambiasi asked that selectmen consider the addition of a police officer to monitor the increased traffic.

Maurer said that the number of people from Arlington who will utilize the service will be low. Maurer noted the site will be used by the relatively few people who have a need to dispose waste oil.

However, the plans were discussed in detail when first raised at the Oct. 6, meeting when O'Leary said, "I'm not opposed to properly disposing oil, I'm concerned with the town being on the hook. I'd like to know what happens to the oil, just so I can know what we're signing up for."

At that same meeting Powers said, "It seems that figure would be extremely low," questioning the $500 cost and added, "I'd like that explored. I applaud the effort, but I have some questions as to the cost."

Selectmen did not bring the program up for a vote at the meeting since several members asked that training and personnel issues be more fully addressed through the Department of Public Works and asked additional questions on the length of the agreement.

At the June 21 meeting Powers said he was surprised people were actually trying to deliver oil to the dump last Saturday.

"I intend to vote against it. I don't think it was done properly," said Powers.

Bartlett director retires in June

Casey graduated from Wellesley College and received her M.A. from Radcliffe in 1951. She taught at Bartlett for three years and then spent one year as a teaching and research assistant before returning to her mother's school. Casey took over management of the school in 1967.

She said her mother was an amazing woman for having started the school and making it successful, while at the same time staying involved in community affairs and raising her children. Casey's mother was also the first woman to run for the state Senate.

"I tell my students that I had an excellent role model," she said.

The most memorable event, according to Casey, was the move to Winchester. It was a major decision but a good one because she has always enjoyed the town and, from the beginning, the school was well accepted, she said.

Casey said the most enjoyable moment was having a student approach her to say they learned a lot and thought she was a good teacher.

"It doesn't get any better than that," she added.

She also said she enjoys staying in touch with people who graduate from the school. At her retirement reception, June 3, Rep. Paul Casey, a former student (and no relation, she added) presented her with a testimonial from the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Her plans in retirement will include travel, reading, and study. Casey said that one of her greatest interests outside of the school is natural history. In the past she has traveled to the Galapagos Islands to see and study the wildlife there, as well as to Africa, Norway, Austria, and Alaska.

She said she tries to carry her interest in the environment and wildlife into the school atmosphere by sensitizing the students to issues involving the extinction of animal species.

This summer, Casey will be spending two weeks in France, where she will get the chance to use her proficiency in French. She has taught introductory French to the students at Bartlett, as well as music. Although Casey is officially retired, she will return for two days a week next school year to teach those topics.

Loretta Berovelli, a kindergarten teacher at Bartlett, said that it was just as well that Casey would be returning for a few days a week next year.

"I don't think she could just walk away," Berovelli said, adding that it will be good to know that Casey won't be far off.

FOOT NOTES

by Joseph B. Gimbel, D.P.M.

THOSE IMPORTANT FIRST STEPS

The pitter-patter of little feet can bring great pride and joy, and sometimes the realization that something isn't quite right. It's never too early to be alert to signs of in-toeing or pigeon-toed gait, as well as to falling or tripping that occurs more frequently than in children the same age. Regular foot care and professional attention can correct early problems before they have a chance to grow into debilitating conditions. Ignoring a child's feet can lead to damaged legs and back, poor general posture, and even personality traits like shyness and the avoidance of social or athletic activities. Many foot ailments that send adults to the podiatrist's office had their origins in neglected childhood conditions.

Childhood is the best time to begin teaching proper foot care. Learned early, taking care of the feet becomes a lifetime habit. Take your child's first step on the road to happy, healthy feet. Call us at 641-0107, 677 Massachusetts Ave., Arlington. A sure investment in your child's future is a visit to our friendly, caring offices today. We treat all members of your family, from kids to grandparents, for medical, surgical, sports medicine & routine care. House call appointments available. Workers comp. & accident cases welcome.

P.S. Don't try to force a child to walk. When youngsters are physically and emotionally ready, they'll take off on their own!

Proper Lawn Cutting & Watering

As summer approaches your established lawn will thrive with 1" of water one time per week. Preferably water early in the day to allow the moisture to dry off, thereby reducing the risk of fungus disease.

Raise your mower to a cutting height of 2 1/4". This will reduce "burn out" and broadleaf weed development.

In addition, check your blade monthly to make sure it's sharp.

Braves rally for Prep League title

Defense the key in First Call win

In the championship game of the Babe Ruth Prep League, the First Call Braves knocked off the Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 11-7. The Indians took a 4-0 lead in the bottom of the first, but the Braves tied it with four in the second and went on top to stay by playing three more runs in the fourth.

BABE RUTH PREP

The Braves and Indians had identical 9-5 records going into Wednesday's clash at MacDonald Field, but the Indians had defeated the Braves in three of the four games between the two this season.

In the top of the first inning, Indians pitcher Matt Killion got the first two Braves to ground out, but then gave up back-to-back hits to Mark Sullivan and Matt Gallery before striking out the next Braves batter.

"I think the difference was that we played solidly defensively. We didn't make any errors. It was a case of timely hitting and error-free ball."

DAVID ADAMS
BRAVES' COACH

In the bottom of the first, the Indians scored four times. Braves starter Mark Sullivan walked Indians Kevin Shanahan and Fritz VonMering. Jon Fader promptly singled into left field, scoring Shanahan and sending VonMering to third. Fader moved to second on Joe Lang's sacrifice, but Matt Killion followed with a two-run single. Killion later scored on an error, giving the Indians a 4-0 lead.

In the second, Killion struck out the first batter before Steve Deering reached on an error, Brad Scott walked and Brian d'Entremont delivered a two-run single. Joe Lindmark walked to put runners on first and second, and Mark Sullivan doubled them both home to tie it 4-4. After Matt Gallery singled, Lang came on to pitch, retiring the next two Braves.

Sullivan picked up two of his seven strikeouts in the third. In the fourth, the Braves added three more runs, loading the bases on walks to Lindmark, d'Entremont and Gallery before Tim Schindler's two-run single. Gallery scored on a wild pitch to put the Braves up 7-4. After a walk to Paul Swanson, the Indians ended the inning with a double play. Steve Deering grounded to Lang, who picked it up and threw out Swanson going to second. Indians third baseman Jon Fader and catcher Matt Dearman then caught Schindler in a rundown between third and home.

The Indians came back with a run in the fourth to cut it to 7-5 when David Van Aken walked, stole second and scored on Kevin Shanahan's single.

The Braves went over the top in the fifth inning. Brad Scott and Joe Lindmark walked, then Mark Sullivan delivered a Texas-league single to right center just out of the range of the second baseman. Two runs scored and Sullivan advanced to second on the play then stole third. Joe Lang picked Sullivan off at third, but Matt Gallery picked up his third hit of the night and came around to score on a couple of stolen bases and a throwing error.

Gallery was not only hot with the bat as he turned in two defensive gems at third base with double plays in the fifth and sixth innings. After a Jon Fader triple, Gallery snared a liner off the bat of Joey Lang and lunged to tag Fader off the third base bag. In the sixth, Gallery caught a Notartomaso line drive and doubled Matt Dearman off second. "Offensively and defensively, Matt was the star of the game," said Braves coach David Adams.

Kevin Shanahan pitched the last two innings for the Indians, allowing just one run. With the Braves ahead 11-5, the Indians got to Sullivan for two seventh-inning runs on hits by Von Mering, Lang and Matt Killion, but it wasn't enough, as the Braves held on for the win.

Babe Ruth crown goes to Athletics

The Broad and Milk Store Athletics won the Winchester Babe Ruth League championship by knocking off the Federal Heating Royals 8-6 in the final round of the playoffs.

BABE RUTH BASEBALL

En route to the Babe Ruth League title, the A's outlasted the Royals in a fiercely competitive battle, which featured fine performances by many players.

Winning manager Joe Marrone wished there was a series MVP award to give to Stephen "Beaver" Palmer for his stalwart work behind the plate and his clutch hitting, driving in six runs in the A's two playoff games. Bobby Marrone pitched well, backed by the defense of Jun Mizutani, who performed flawlessly at second base, and Scott Brooks, who played several different positions in critical situations.

Offensively, many A's contributed. Marrone and Palmer each had two hits while Stephen Cucinatti, Jarrod Galante, Dan Notartomaso (2 RBI) had hits and Brian Picariello knocked in a run.

The Royals' Bill Shields pitched well, allowing only six hits and fanning nine. Five of the eight runs he surrendered were unearned. He also did well Jeremy Carroll of the Carlson Realty A's dives home in front of Mets pitcher Tom DiCarlo to score a first-inning run in the A's 10-1 win over the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets during the Bambino Baseball championship game last week at West Side Field.

Carroll strikes out 12 as Carlson Realty knocks off Saltmarsh Mets

The Carlson Real Estate A's captured their fifth straight Bambino League title on June 15, topping the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 10-1.

BAMBINO BASEBALL

A's starting pitcher Jeremy Carroll set the pace, striking out the side in the top of the first inning for three of his 12 total strikeouts. He later hit a mammoth three-run homer to put the game out of reach.

The A's went to work in the bottom of the frame, taking a 4-0 lead. Colin Barden and Jason Lanzillo each singled, then Carroll, Brian Sullivan, Jeff Swanson and David Lynch all walked before Chris Zissi singled.

Carroll retired the Mets in order in the second, striking out two more. The A's added four more runs in the second on a couple walks, Brian Sullivan's single and Peter Dupuis' double. In the third, the Mets mounted a threat with one out when Colin Simson walked and Andrew Chin reached on an error. Carroll settled down and struck out the next two.

The A's finished off the Mets in the third, scoring three runs with two outs. Barden singled, Lanzillo walked and Carroll hit a towering home run to center field to make it 10-0.

The Mets scored in the fourth when Tommy DiCarlo singled, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Chris Tambone's single. The Mets tried to rally in the fifth on back-to-back singles by Andrew White and Andrew Chin, but Carroll retired the next three batters.

It was a great turnaround season for the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets, winning five in a row before beating the Red Sox in a semifinal thriller to advance to the championship game.

"Jeremy Carroll was the key," said A's manager Bob Nutile. "The Mets were on a big-time roll. We title with solid defense, pitching and overall team play.

"When Jeremy didn't strike them out, we made all the plays defensively," said Nutile.

There were several payoff games leading up to Tuesday night's finale, with the Blackham Realty White Sox providing a big surprise by knocking off the second-place Indoor Tennis Center Orioles in the first round.

The White Sox, who finished the season in third place in the West Division (8-11), stunned the O's, who finished one game behind the first-place A's at 12-5. Matt McGowan pitched for the Sox and kept the O's off balance throughout. McGowan, Rico Cella and Chris French provided the offensive spark, while catcher Matt Kenney called a great game.

The Orioles rallied in the last inning behind a long homer from pitcher J.A. Koslowski, but it wasn't enough, as McGowan and the White Sox held on for the upset.

Kayulu 4th in sectional decathlon

Marino brothers qualify for Bay State Games in wrestling

SPORTS WRITER

Winchester High's Henry Kayulu placed fourth in the North sectional decathlon competition June 14-15 at Masconomet Regional High School in Topsfield. A graduate of WHS earlier this month, he finished with 5,994 total points, leaving him less than 300 points shy of Jim McGeehan's school record.

WINCHESTER ACHIEVERS

Kayulu, who had scored 5,111 points in the same competition as a junior, won the 1,500-meter race with a personal-best time of 4 minutes, 26 seconds, but subpar performances in the discus and high jump prevented him from eclipsing McGeehan's mark.

"I didn't practice enough for the high jump," said Kayulu, whose strong performance still qualified him for a regional competition July 9-10. "I should have reached 6 feet or at least 5-10, but I only got up to 5-7. That hurt."

According to Sachem coach Tom Kline, Kayulu ended the meet on a real high note.

"The last event was the 1,500," said Kline. "Henry really blew people away. It was nice to see him come back and finish strong."

Kayulu will attend either Northeastern, UMass-Lowell or Salem State in the fall.

"Henry has something a lot of college coaches really look for," said Kline. "He has the ability to compete in a lot of events. He'll do well wherever he goes."

Winchester residents Gerard Marino, and his brother, WHS junior-to-be Mike Marino, have both qualified for the Bay State Games wrestling competition on July 16 and 17 at UMass-Boston.

Gerard, a 19-year-old sophomore at Northeastern University, finished in the top six in the 180-pound open division at a regional qualifier at Wayland High on June 12. Mike, 16, qualified by finishing in the top six of the 171-pound scholastic division.

Gerard Marino wrestled at Lexington High, where he was the team captain and a sectional champ. Mike, the only one of the huge Marino family to attend Winchester High, went 14-3 as a first-year starter for Sachem coach Larry Tremblay. Normally wrestling at 171, Mike earned the team's Courageous Award for his willingness to step up to 189 pounds, where he pinned opponents outweighing him by upward of 20 pounds.

Winchester's 12-year-old Bambino all-star team has been invited to a regional invitational baseball tournament in New Meriden, Conn., July 1-3. The team will challenge squads from the Eastern Seaboard, including teams from Virginia, Florida, New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

New Meriden is where the team captured the New England Championship as 11-year-olds last August.

"It's quite an honor to be considered in the same class with teams like these," said Winchester manager Bob Nutile. "This shows you just how far Winchester has come in the past few years. Winchester baseball is definitely on the map."

Carlson Realty pitcher Jeremy "Chad" Carroll managed a complete-game, 12-strikeout victory as the A's captured their fifth consecutive Bambino Baseball championship with a 10-1 win over the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets last week at West Side Field.

David Lindmark's single, an A's error, a walk and Ryan Buchanan's double for a total of four runs. The A's, however, answered with seven runs in the third. Barden had three hits for the A's, while Carroll and Dupuis had two each.

Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 3 Cooperative Bank Dodgers 2

In a first-round playoff game against the Dodgers, the Saltmarsh Insurance Mets came up with some strong play against Dodgers pitching ace Brian Curry. "Curry is so consistent," said Mets coach Bill Ciauro. "If you make one mistake, you will need a miracle in order to win."

Curry led off the game with a double, but Jay Higgins roped a line drive shot that the Mets' Tommy DiCarlo snared. DiCarlo tossed to second baseman Eric Martino to catch Curry leaning for the double play. Ryan Sutton then singled and Jason Reese walked before Martino made another big play to get the Mets out of a tough inning.

The Mets' Chris Tambone doubled and scored on Martino's single to put Saltmarsh Insurance up 1-0. A hit batter, a few walks and a double by Brian Shaughnessey resulted in a 2-1 lead for the Dodgers.

In the Mets' fifth, Martino drew a walk before Curry collected two more of his 13 total strikeouts. "We're in deep trouble now," said Mets manager George Parker, but Dave Rodriguez proceeded to slap a tailing line drive to right that resulted in his first home run of the season and a 3-2 win for the Mets.

NewPro Red Sox 12 Winchester Star Cardinals 10

In a quarter-final slugfest, the Red Sox withstood a tremendous game by Justin Barauskas of the Cardinals, who hit three home runs and knocked in nine of the 10 Cards' runs. The Sox hitters were led by Jeff Capone, Randy Bandoian, Danny Arria, Ben Thomas, Turner Kniffin, Austin Gardner and Brad Simas.

Kniffin went the distance on the hill for the Red Sox, and was helped by a double play from Capone and Bandoian in the bottom of the sixth.

Carlson Real Estate A's 4 Blackham Realty White Sox 1

The first semifinal game featured a classic pitcher's duel between Colin Barden and Chris French. Barden powered his way to the victory, surrendering just three hits. The A's managed only six hits and were kept off balance and swinging at air by French's changing speeds.

Three hits and three runs in the second inning were enough for the A's victory. Matt McGowan hit a solo homer for the White Sox. Doug Wilkinson and French had the other hits. Peter Dupuis had two for the A's. Jason Lanzillo, Dave Lynch, John Lynch, Mike Russo and Kellen Baker each had one for the A's. Mike Trakimas had an outstanding catch at the fence to rob Jeremy Carroll of a home run. Kellen Baker made a heads-up defensive play to save runs for the A's.

Saltmarsh Insurance Mets 11 NewPro Red Sox 10

In the other semifinal game, the Mets jumped out to a 10-1 lead but needed extra innings to knock off the stubborn Red Sox.

Trailing 10-6, the Sox tied it in the bottom of the last inning when Danny Arria blasted a grand slam off Mets starter Chris Tambone.

But in the top of the seventh, Andrew Chin tripled and came home on a wild pitch as the Mets advanced to the final.

at the plate, hitting a single and a double in three trips. Mike McGrenery wielded a hot bat, delivering two doubles and a home run. And Paul McGowan provided yet another two-base hit. Defensively, the fleet Tim Zue tracked down a deep fly to center by Marrone.

The A's and the Royals, who finished the regular season in first and third place, respectively, each drew a first-round bye, as did the second-place Bonnell Ford Indians.

Bread and Milk Store A's 6 Courtside Restaurant Red Sox 5

This semifinal game was a crown pleaser featuring clutch hitting, excellent defense and strong pitching by the Braves' Andy Sullivan and the A's Jarrod Galante. It took eight innings to decide, as the A's battled back from a 5-1 deficit before winning it in the extra frame.

The Courtside Restaurant Sox took a 1-0 lead in the first when Sullivan scored on a Jono Zissi's suicide squeeze. The Sox added two more in a third, highlighted by Alex Racioppi's triple, to go up 3-0.

After cruising through the first three stanzas with six strikeouts and allowing no hits, Sullivan was touched up for a triple by Bobby Marrone in the fourth. Marrone scored on Danny Notaromasso's RBI to cut it to 3-1.

The Sox plated a pair of two-out insurance runs in the seventh to make it 5-1 on the strength of hits by Brad Verrecchia and Sullivan. An upset seemed certain, as Sullivan had allowed only three hits through the first six innings and notched 13 strikeouts.

But Sullivan was victimized by three errors in the bottom of the seventh as well as Galante's clutch hit and Stephen Palmer's three-run triple that tied it at 5-5 and sent it into extra innings. It only took one inning for the A's to seize the victory as Dana LaPointe, Brian Meagher and Stephen Cucinatti reached to load the bases for Galante's game-winning hit over the head of the drawn-in center fielder.

Other hitters were the A's Scott Brooks for the Sox's Mike Massiglia. Defensively, both Mike Pacheco and Cucinatti were outstanding in center field.

Federal Heating Royals 7 Bonnell Ford Indians 2

Behind the four-hit pitching of Mike

McGreenery, the Federal Heating Royals advanced to the championship game at the expense of the Bonnell Ford Indians. Not only did McGrenery have 12 strikeouts and only two walks, but his defense played flawlessly behind him. The Royals' attack was paced by Paul McGowan, who belted a three-run homer and added a double. Bill Shields, Justin Serpone and McGrenery also had two hits apiece. Aaron Quaday chipped in with another hit.

Brian Fitzgerald pitched well for the Indians, fanning six Royals and walking only three. Fitzgerald's effort fell victim to three defensive miscues that the Royals combined with walks and timely hitting to take a comfortable lead.

The Indians' Matt Gillespie had two hits. Dave Chamberlain had one hit and scored both Indian tallies. Mike Provenzano added a hit and two walks and played well in center field.

Courtside Restaurant Braves 3 Tony's Barber Shop Red Sox 2

In the quarterfinals, the fourth-place Courtside Restaurant Braves faced off against the fifth-place Tony's Barber Shop Red Sox on Sunday at Manchester Field. With the right to advance to the semis against the A's at stake, the teams locked up in one of the best pitching duels of the season.

Despite hits by Red Sox Bill Bunting and Mike Cella in the first and another by Bunting in the third, Braves pitcher Darrell Interest held the Sox scoreless through the first four frames.

The Braves managed to push across two runs early as Andy Sullivan, Mike Pacheco, Alex Racioppi, and Interest each singled in the first inning. But Bob Roscillo pitched well in the clutch after allowing hits by Tom McCarter and Sullivan (double) with only one out to deny any damage in the second. The Braves made it 3-0 in the third as Racioppi and Interest again bunched two hits around a stolen base.

The Sox mounted a comeback attempt when Chris Sullivan walked in the fifth, advanced on a stolen base and wild pitch, and scored on Ben Powell's sacrifice fly to center. In the seventh, Andy Belanger reached and came around on a series of Braves miscues to cut it to 3-2. Chris Sullivan then walked. With two outs, Powell, representing the go-ahead run, singled. But Andy Sullivan put out the fire by getting Eddie Airey to sky out on a fine running catch by Racioppi in left.

SCATE team holds to tough schedule

SPORTS WRITER

The members of SCATE — Stop Cancer Across The Earth — are nearing the three-week mark on their 3,300-mile cross-country in-line skate. As of Monday, the team was right on schedule, traveling through Colorado in the midst of an 11-day journey through the most challenging portion of the trip.

Last week, Winchester's Michael Sayre, one of four SCATE team members, reported that the team was in excellent health as it prepared to ascend to Wolf Creek Pass, Colo., the highest point (elev. 10,500 feet) on their 63-day marathon.

"We've had a couple of minor problems," said Sayre, 20. "Courtney (Mather, the lone female member of the foursome) took a spill and has a pretty good road rash, and we're all battling blisters, but all in all, everything's OK."

The team reached Wolf Creek Pass after a struggle against the environment and the law. The drastic uphill climb meant that the team needed oxygen at several points, but after slowing their pace, they managed to finish the climb.

The group also had a slight run-in with the Colorado State Police. In Colorado, it is necessary to have both a parade permit and an insurance rider in order to protect the state from liability. After a brief delay, the parents of one of the team members were able to secure the necessary paperwork to allow the team to continue.

As of June 21, the team had made up the ground it had lost and was back on schedule.

SCATE notebook: SCATE recently received confirmation on a major event in Chicago. When the team reaches the city on July 17, it will be joined by members of the National Hockey League's Chicago Blackhawks, who will skate with them to the mayor's office. Once at City Hall, the group will be presented with a proclamation.

Similar events are planned with NHL teams along the way. In Boston, the team will skate into Faneuil Hall on August 7 for a Victory for Cancer celebration along with members of the Bruins and representatives from the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

In the last few weeks, the project picked up several corporate sponsors, as Marriott Hotels, Ragu, Citgo and Kodak joined Bauer, Winnebago, Swix, Valeo, Light Force and Finish Line as major sponsors.

When the SCATE team reached Colorado Springs on June 24, it was to be met by two former Winchester families now living in the area. Judy and Dean Erickson and their two children and Don and Susie McLean were looking forward to cheering on the team.

The group is actively soliciting donations. SCATE offers several options to financially assist the project. The Mile-Per-Hour Club ($15) reminds the team to keep up the 15 MPH pace. The Power Breakfast donation ($30) will buy one day's breakfast for the team. The popular Home Stretch option ($100) donates a dollar for each of the 100 miles the team will cover in Massachusetts, while the big one, The Rockies Challenge ($1,050), represents 10 cents per vertical foot the team climbed between the Pacific Ocean and Wolf Creek Pass, Colo.

"I think the difference was that we played solidly defensively," said Adams. "We didn't make any errors. It was a case of timely hitting and error-free ball."

Parker-Lane-Winn Indians 18 Christopher Columbus Red Sox 1

The Indians slugged their way into the finals by overpowering the Red Sox 18-1 at Manchester Field. The Indians pounded out 10 hits and benefited from 11 walks. Indians' pitcher Kevin Shanahan allowed just six hits in the complete-game win.

The Indians put the game away with an eight-run first, then settled in and played a tight defensive game behind Shanahan. Jeff Granfield knocked in Ryan Duffy to ruin Shanahan's shutout bid.

First Call Braves 6 Century 21 A's 2

The First Call Braves swept past the Century 21 A's on the heels of a three-hit pitching of Joe Lindmark. Lindmark helped his own cause with two singles, four stolen bases, two runs scored and an RBI. Brian D'Entremont also picked up two hits and two runs as the Braves got to A's starter Chris DeSimone for six runs on six hits.

Brian Purchia and Pat Aufiero scored for the A's. The Braves' Mark Sullivan had a two-run single to ice the win in the fifth inning. Steve Deering and Brad Scott also scored for the Braves.

Aria Guild to perform in cloister garden series

The Boston Aria Guild will perform in concert on Thursday, June 24, 8 p.m., as part of this year's Cloister Garden Concert Series at the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. Entitled "Opera Galore!" this concert will feature Boston Aria Guild members Sue Ellen Kuzma, soprano; Gale Fuller, mezzo-soprano; William Cotten, tenor; and David Murray, baritone. They will be singing a selection of favorite arias and ensembles. They will be accompanied by noted pianist Michael Beattie. Composers to be performed include Rossini, Beethoven, Thomas, Massenet, Saint-Saens, Donizetti and Leonard Bernstein.

The Boston Aria Guild is a nonprofit performing arts organization, founded to give audiences opportunities to enjoy the work of some of the superb professional singers who are citizens of our musical community. All have established careers in the United States, and in some cases, internationally, as well. In Boston Aria Guild concerts and recitals these singers perform repertoire from art songs to arias. While serving all lovers of vocal music, the Boston Aria Guild is dedicated to expanding the audience for great singing among traditionally under-served populations.

During the past several seasons, soprano Kuzma has been featured in the internationally noted series of Mozart operas directed by Peter Sellers. Kuzma has appeared in several premieres of contemporary opera, including "The Juniper Tree," by Philip Glass at the American Repertory Theatre.

Mezzo-soprano Gale Fuller is at home on both the operatic and concert stages. Fuller made her professional debut with the Boston Lyric Opera Company. She holds degrees from Peabody Conservatory and the New England Conservatory of Music and has been named by Musical America as "an artist to watch" in coming seasons.

Tenor William Cotten has been a soloist with many of New England's finest choral and instrumental ensembles, including Banchetto Musicale, Boston Concert Opera and the New Hampshire Symphony. In addition, Cotten has performed nationally and internationally work by such diverse composers as Mozart, Purcell, Bach, Honegger and Philip Glass.

Baritone David Murray is a winner of the 1990 Liederkrantz Foundation Competition in New York and has performed with many opera companies and orchestras including Boston Lyric Opera, Boston Musica Viva and the Denver Symphony. This past season Murray made his European operatic debut as Figaro in "The Barber of Seville" with Il Teatro Lyrico Arturo Toscanini di Milano.

The Cloister Garden concerts are presented on alternate Thursdays in June and July (and one special Sunday afternoon) in the garden of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance through the church office: 729-1922. The cost for adults is $7; for students under 18, $4. The Cloister Garden will be open from 6:30 p.m. for concert-goers who wish to bring their own picnic supper and enjoy it in the garden before the music.

The concert series will continue with a special family event entitled "Magical Melodies" on Sunday, July 27, at 4 p.m. Marion Dry, singer, and Leslie Amper, pianist, will perform classical composers' songs that the whole family will enjoy.

Madeleine, a native of London, England, has been designing floral arrangements for the past 10 years and has been teaching adult education classes for five years. Her creations can be seen in several shops at the Mall.

Some of Madeleine's designs are featured in the 1992 and in the upcoming 1993 edition of "A Yankee Christmas" by Sally Ryder Brady.

Tribute to scholarship recipients

By Christine Crawford and Ashley Rooney
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

This past winter, the Winchester Council of Youth paid tribute to founder Harrison Chadwick. As part of their tribute to this wonderful man, the organization changed the name of their annual scholarship in his honor. The group is proud to announce the first two recipients of the "Harrison Chadwick Scholarship." They are graduating seniors, Deirdre Murdock and Peter Harris. The following tributes are written by Council on Youth chairperson, Christine Crawford and Winchester Youth Center director, Ashley Rooney.

Every once in a while you run into a really special young person. Let me tell you about Deirdre Murdock. I haven't known Deirdre much longer than about the last 10 months, but here's what I do know about her:

Outside of Deirdre's many obvious qualities, including intellectual astuteness, conscientiousness to the task at hand, and a delightful sense of humor, I think the thing that has impressed me the most about Deirdre is that she is relaxed! Now, that might seem a trite or insignificant characteristic to most, but, when I refer to "relaxed," I'm compelled to point out that in a world where growing up is "much scarier" than it used to be, Deirdre has managed to graduate from high school "relaxed." She has found a balance somewhere, sometime, in her life. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock, you certainly deserve your accolades, as you've provided that fundamental foundation. However, as with all parents, we face that realization that our children will question our values, try those of their peers, their teachers, their MTV gurus. With firm foundations in place, we must let them go, encourage their independence, praise their good decisions, and help dust them off when they fall. Deirdre is part of a generation that faces uncertainties in every walk of life; there seems to be much more pressure to succeed academically; many are frightened by hoping to "make" a standard of living, let alone sustain one in which they were raised. I don't wish to go into the litany of "things" that our teenagers and children must deal with. We all know what they are. I believe one of the highest achievements any person attains is that of inner peace. To be a young person entering the "wormhole," and to have attained that balance is, in my mind, truly remarkable! (Many adults spend years looking for it!) It takes discipline and hard work to find that balance. When we attempt to define the criteria we think are important for successful futures, it usually falls into a list of grades, committees, etc. Deirdre is a shining reminder that there exists another certain tool critical to the skill set in one's life. We need more Deirdres. She will be the stabilizing force in any professional confrontation she encounters and her personal relationships will be stronger. For every 10 anxious young people graduating from high school today, it is a most comforting thought in knowing that Deirdre is out there. Her abilities to cope will be the driving force to objectivity, self-confidence and ultimately good decision-making and a happy life. Deirdre is off to Cornell University in the fall with an intended major in engineering. Good luck, Deirdre, it was great getting to know you! You will go far, I am sure.

The Council on Youth named Peter Mason Harris as one of the recipients of the 1993 Harrison Chadwick Scholarship. Peter has been deeply involved with the work of the Youth Center and its youth groups. Most recently, he has coordinated the pilot Center Aide in Training (CAIT) Program, where seven eighth graders were selected for leadership training, volunteering in the center, conducting community service projects, and acting as role models volunteering in the center, conducting community service projects, and acting as role models for their peers. As CAIT coordinator, Peter helps to organize the CAIT events, oversees, their meetings, and establishes the standards for this new program. As a center aide for the 1992/93 school year, he has worked hard to develop a safe, attractive, fun drop-in center, attracting many through his charm and high spirits. When the center needs a coat rack, he gets the drill, the lumber and necessary parts and plays Tom Sawyer involving many youth in installing the rack. He also was a youth intern for the Junior High Group, DISCOVER.

Business Spotlight

Natalie Delvaille, TLC Landscapes

TLC Landscapes offers a very special kind of garden "maintenance" because it knows that what you often need goes beyond periodic lawn mowing and hedge shearing. Your needs may include hand weeding, staking, fertilizing, deadheading, creation of new flower beds, planting and transplanting, or careful and thoughtful pruning of shrubs. You probably don't need an ongoing maintenance contract; rather you need to get certain jobs done while you're just too busy to do them yourself; or while you're on vacation; or in time for that special event at your house.

TLC Landscapes also creates designed for shrub, tree, and perennial plantings as well as walks, decks, and planters; you can implement the design yourself at your own pace; or leave it all to us.

Whatever you have in mind, just call Natalie Delvaille, the owner of TLC Landscapes, to discuss this very flexible kind of garden design and care. The number is:

SCHOOL NEWS

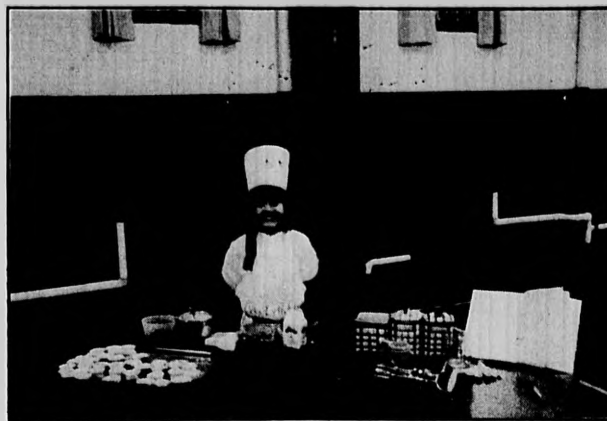

Ms. Mortenson's kindergarten class strikes a pose with its creation, "Trashosaurus." The new species was created at Lincoln Elementary School from recycling trash as the culmination of several weeks' study of the dinosaur by the class.

Ambrose mentor program a success

At the Ambrose School 11 students in the fourth and fifth grades proudly displayed the results of their mentored learning program at Sharing Night on Thursday, May 27. Now in its 12th year, the eight-week extracurricular program is designed to allow students to explore and develop their special interests and talents through a one-to-one learning experience with volunteer mentors from Winchester and surrounding communities.

The students' projects represented a variety of interests, from art and literature to sports. Fifth grader Bennett Ewing, whose mentor was Chris Baskin of Artists Inc. in Stoneham, invented his own comic book superhero, "MasterBlaster," and learned the process of compiling a comic book from concept to rough sketches through finished drawings. Science fiction fan Daniel Hayes, also a fifth grader, wrote his own SciFi story entitled "Adeon — the not-quite Bard of the Harp" with the guidance and inspiration of his mentor, Craig Shaw Gardner, a fantasy science fiction writer who authored the "Batman" novel. Channel 19 newscaster Marianne Vonfeldt mentored fourth grader Katie Newhouse in the production of a video "Newscast" of this year's ENKA fair.

Winchester-based merchants showed their school spirit by mentoring several of the students. Julie Quill of the Phillip Clampa Hair Salon imparted the secrets of French braids to fourth graders Leslie Kuy and Shannon Brady. The owner of Cinderella's Closet, Piper Cort, and her daughters, Bess and Adrienne, shared the skill of making sculpy jewelry with fifth graders Haley Lamson and Ryan Rae, whose handiwork was presented for sale at Town Day. Clothing retailer Calista, who recently relocated her Winchester store to Belmont, initiated Sarah Montgomery of the fourth grade into the business of women's clothing merchandising.

Two students developed their special sports interests with real pros. Patrick Sullivan, a 5th grade student, explored his love of ice hockey with Scott Fusco, a 1984 and 1988 U.S. Olympic Hockey Team member currently residing in Burlington. Winchester High School coach John Donahue taught fourth grader Shawn Smith the intricacies of football strategy.

Speaking of pros, professional chef and Culinary Institute of America graduate Bob Little shared his time — and his kitchen — with fourth grader Liz Vacovec. They produced a magnificent strawberry shortcake which was enthusiastically sampled by all who attended the students' presentations.

This year's mentor program was organized by parents Leslie Ewing, Karen Hayes, and Nancy Newhouse. The committee extends its thanks to Principal Rick Rodgers for his continuing support and guidance of the program.

Fuller Enterprises

Dealership: Fuller Enterprises (consisting of a Dodge and Isuzu facility in Belmont and a Mitsubishi and Oldsmobile dealership in Watertown)

Location: 1000 Pleasant St., Belmont, and 43 and 49 North Beacon St., Watertown

History: Having been in the car business for nearly 89 years, the Fuller family has seen three generations of family members carry on its tradition of automotive service. Now owned by Peter Fuller Sr. and Peter Fuller Jr., Fuller Enterprises can be traced back to Peter Fuller Sr.'s father, Alvan T. Fuller.

A Packard car salesman, Alvan Fuller opened his own car dealership in 1904. He later branched out to Cadillacs, then expanded his business to become a distributor of various automobiles. His son, Peter Fuller Sr., began his automobile career as a Cadillac salesman in his father's enterprise, then later came to own his own dealership in Boston.

Peter Fuller Jr., who now co-owns Fuller Enterprises with his father, says he got his start in the car industry by working at his father's Boston dealership. By performing various jobs for the company while still in high school, Fuller gained experience with the business. Following graduation from high school, he was offered, not surprisingly, a "great job opportunity by the boss," and joined the company full-time in 1979.

In 1975, the Boston-based dealership moved to Watertown Square. Eight years later, Dodge was added in Belmont. Early this year, Dodge will relocate to Watertown Square, with Oldsmobile moving right down the street and Mitsubishi right next door.

Types of Cars Sold: Dodge, Mitsubishi, Isuzu and Oldsmobile. In addition, Fuller Enterprises sells a variety of used cars at all of its locations.

Service: "We have a long-standing reputation for service, which is one of the reasons for our longevity," explained Fuller.

Mitsubishi Expo

fun and versatility

On the outside, Mitsubishi's 1993 Expo and Expo LRV models display clean, attractive body lines and, on the inside, offer ideal seating and cargo versatility to meet the needs of singles and young families with recreational lifestyles. And, to add a pleasurable, responsive car-like driving feel, an all-new upgraded 2.4-liter powerplant has been added for 1993 to make these two "sport wagons" more enticing.

Mitsubishi engineers have introduced a new and more powerful 16-valve, single overhead cam (SOHC) four-cylinder engine that features ECI multi-point electronic fuel injection and microprocessor-controlled ignition to produce 136 bhp at 5,500 rpm and 145 lbs.ft. of torque at 4,250 rpm.

In addition to offering a new powerplant for 1993, Expo and Expo LRV models feature increased interior refinements and features as well as such exterior enhancements as two-tone paint themes and revised trim. While such luxury and functional upgrade options as power and convenience packages were previously only available in top-line models, Expo and Expo LRV entry and midline models now offer these features as options, while top-line models add them as standard equipment.

Mitsubishi Expo

'Sport wagon' offers pep, fun and versatility

Expo LRV and Expo can seat five or seven passengers respectively, yet they offer more than traditional station wagons. With spacious interiors for hauling cargo and "stuff," they aren't mini-vans either. The versatile seating arrangements are designed to pamper passengers with abundant comfort and their interior configurations can adapt to provide the cargo carrying capacity of much larger, bulkier vehicles, yet Expo LRV and Expo don't fit any existing automotive categories because they offer so much more.

Like the contemporary buyers they were designed to suit, Expo LRV and Expo fit the changing character of today's society. And, where a station wagon, van, truck, sport utility vehicle or compact sedan may have been the logical choice in the past, buyers today might consider such vehicles too restrictive for today's increasingly varied lifestyles.

Mitsubishi's Expo LRV and Expo meet needs in a specialized category within the American automotive market: "Sport Wagon."

The five-passenger Expo LRV and seven-passenger Expo are available in front-wheel-drive or all-wheel drive (AWD) models, and combine excellent seating with economy, maneuverability and high value. Spirited handling and performance make both models more invigorating and fun to drive than other vehicles that are designed to move people and things. Expo LRV and Expo were designed with a variety of innovative features, with versatility reflected throughout the vehicle design and execution.

Offering ample room and a variety of seating/cargo carrying arrangements, Expo LRV and Expo can be "personalized" for most situations - from car pools to camping trips - with interior room big enough to hold packed moving boxes or sports equipment.

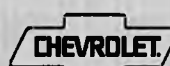

CAR OF THE WEEK

Where a station wagon, van, truck, sport utility vehicle or compact sedan may have been the logical choice in the past, buyers today might consider such vehicles too restrictive for today's increasingly varied lifestyles.

Geo Tracker

Convertible offers a fun way to start the summer

If I were young, especially with summer right around the corner, I'd buy a 1993 Geo Tracker 4WD Convertible for three reasons:

KEANE ON WHEELS

By Tom Keane

fun, versatility and affordability.

I know I'd get a lot of attention because the Tracker is cute. I'd put the top down and cruise by the beach, or pass the corner hang out, or drive it to the old swimming hole. I can hear the gang yelling, "Hey, Tom, take us for a ride."

Enough of this daydreaming, but I must confess that such thoughts did go through my mind a few weeks ago when I drove past a Suzuki Sidekick. The driver appeared to be having a lot of fun, and I wanted to be a part of it. So I scheduled Geo's version of the Sidekick, the Tracker for a test-drive.

Although my youth is many years behind me, this week has been almost what I expected. The Tracker is an easy vehicle to drive, is very maneuverable, and does surprisingly well off road.

The reason I was surprised is the size of the engine. I'm used to driving full-size off-road vehicles into the wilderness.

I was skeptical of taking the same trails in the Tracker because of its pint-size engine. The 80 horsepower it produces is nothing by comparison to a Grand Cherokee, Trooper or Ranger.

Nevertheless, the Tracker got me where I wanted to go because it is much lighter than the larger vehicles. The engine didn't have to work as hard.

This vehicle is very agile. I could improvise on some off-road paths because of short turning radius and tiny size. I could squeeze through openings that wider vehicles couldn't approach. GEO TRACKER, Page 10

Geo Tracker

Convertible offers a fun way to start the summer

Four-wheel drive is perfect for the beach. Although I don't have a surf board, the Tracker is ideal for the crowd that enjoys riding the waves. There's only one problem: getting the top down.

The canvas top is removed by tugging at snaps, pulling Velcro apart, plus a lot of unzipping of windows. Actually, removing the top is easy compared to putting it on again. I did it once, that was enough. I suppose, with a little practice, the task would become more manageable.

With the top up, the cargo space is very limited.

The interior is compact. People sitting in the rear seat aren't that far away from those in the front, which has its advantage. You can hear others talking. The Tracker is not a quiet machine. Both engine and road noise come through the floor boards loud and clear. With the windows down, the air rush makes the interior noise level even higher. For the most part, I drove with the windows up, and was kept cool by the very efficient air conditioning system.

The Tracker LSI model has "see through" adjustable head restraints. Not only can the seats be adjusted to one's comfort, the steering column can be tilted, too. All the controls are at the driver's finger tips. There is no need for power windows or locks, the window crank and door lock on the passenger's door are within easy reach.

The radio, which has pretty good volume, comes with an AM/FM stereo with cassette player. Other features on this year's model: a swing-open tailgate, side-window defoggers, dual black sport mirrors, power front-disc/rear drum brakes, and rear-wheel anti-lock brake system.

The vehicle I drove had a three-speed automatic transmission. It's hard to find a vehicle that still has a three-speed transmission, today; most automatics are four speeds. The sideview mirrors are a throw-back in time, too. Each mirror has to be adjusted by hand, it does not have the convenience of a lever inside the cab.

Another attractive feature is the price tag. The upscale LSI model, loaded with options costs $15,245; it averages 23 miles to the gallon. If I were only few years younger...

PRICED TO SELL: In a survey conducted by the Dornier Company, 79 percent of the 18 to 24 year-olds had the lowest awareness of a new concept called one-price selling. This method is where each new vehicle at the dealership is marked with a specific, nonnegotiable price which has been substantially reduced from the manufacturer's suggested price or sticker price.

DON'T BE FUELISH: To economize on gasoline without too much inconvenience, plan your trips by taking the most direct route, or one with the fewest stops. Avoid construction zones and heavy traffic areas that require idling for long periods of time.

Combine trips such as stopping at the store on the way home from work rather than making another trip out in the evening.

WANTS AND NEEDS: To help simplify shopping for a new car, make a checklist of your needs. As you inspect each car, check off its equipment and features. This will help you keep on track of your needs, and avoid being distracted by your wants.

COLLECTOR'S ITEM: As Buick prepares to celebrate its 90th anniversary this year, it is tracing its roots. Of the 32 million Buicks produced, the oldest known survivors are 14 Model C Buicks from 1905 and 1906.

5 Star Service Award 6 Years in a Row!

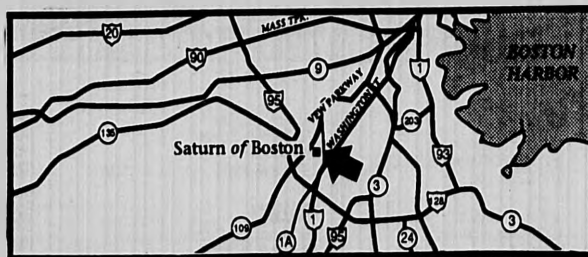

Safety first, second and third.

Every 1993 Saturn has a standard driver-side airbag. Secondly, the option of 4-wheel disc anti-lock brakes. And thirdly, traction control* for "traction" a.k.a. "control" on snow, sleet, rain, that stuff. Things like a steel spaceframe with "crumple zones" and a reinforced passenger compartment. Standard? You bet. We just didn't have room in this ad.

*Requires optional automatic transmission and anti-lock braking system. M.S.R.P. of the 1993 SW1 is $11,410 including retailer preparation and transportation. Tax, license and other options additional. ©1993 Saturn Corporation.

A Sense of Presence

RICHARD BAKER

By Karen Aude

Paintings by Richard Baker are deceptively simple, yet spiritually engaging. There is an other-worldliness to his pictures, a dream-like quality which plays to our unpremeditated associations between seemingly disparate elements. The artist's obvious concern for the integrity of his picture and the lucidity with which he depicts his chosen elements lends comfort and vitality to his work.

Richard Baker calls it "a sense of presence." His interest, he says, lies in "the tension between the various elements, the contradictions that appear across the surface" of his painting.

The contradictions to which Baker refers relate both to object selection, scale and the juxtaposition of these objects within a narrowly defined framework. His paintings are about looking at, seeing and absorbing that which we tend to take for granted, whether our nonchalance and complacency relate to commonplace objects or the landscape, or even the very space in which the object or landscape exists. This act of seeing is an intensely personal exercise for Baker, an exercise which ultimately translates into an intensely reverent experience for the viewer.

Paintings by Richard Baker defy easy characterization. In an effort to place his powerfully original work within an historical context, we might speculate upon its apparent debt to surrealism. And though Baker's work certainly suggests what French poet and critic Andre Breton

Editor's Impressions...

July already!

Response has been overwhelmingly wonderful to A-PLUS, and Patti Smith and I thank everyone for the positive reinforcement.

Our ART COVER STORY examines paintings by Provincetown artist Richard Baker. His beautiful, yet deceptively simple paintings challenge viewers to take a closer look at objects and space, and relationships of objects within space.

Our FEATURES include a look toward the ARCHITECTURE, of the land as people take a closer look at their surroundings. Earle Barnhart and Hilde Maingay design environments for the environmentally conscious landowner (see page 7).

And as usual, auction correspondent Faye Andrashko shares the before and afters in the AUCTION scene (see page 8); Brian Cullity covers ANTIQUES for us, choosing to discuss antique applique quilts (see page 12).

Lisa Goodwin, our eye toward AMBIANCE continues her "Advance Notice" observations with respect to current trends in interior design (see page 10). Lisa also walks us through the fine art of salvage — where to find what, and what to do with it when you do (see page 16).

We're also pleased to hear contemporary ARTISTS "Perspectives: On Quilting" (see page 11).

Focusing in on individual DEPARTMENTS, A-PLUS, continues to keep an eye toward the HEADLINES (see page 4), looking at a new children's art school in Wellesley, as well as learning where in Boston to begin genealogical research.

Keeping current with FACES AND PLACES (see page 6) is always fun, as are our new DISCOVERIES (see page 9). Here, Tim Wood introduces a Chatham man with a little Yankee ingenuity.

A-PLUS also keeps readers informed on what's UP AND COMING (begins page 19.) Along with the usual artist receptions, and art and crafts and antiques events, we've included some information on three major concerts happening on Cape Cod this summer — "Pops By The Sea" in Hyannis featuring the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra; "Pops In The Park" in Orleans, and "Mashpee Night at the Pops," the latter two featuring The Cape Cod Symphony Orchestra.

And A-PLUS goes OUT & ABOUT, this time revealing neat items from Needham, Hanover, Boston and North Truro.

If you want to know how to find anyone or anything mentioned in A-PLUS, turn to READER INFORMATION (see page 16). We've tried to be as comprehensive as possible, but if we've missed someone, give us a call.

In the meanwhile, enjoy!

I know we do when we're putting this A-PLUS supplement together...Of course Patti Smith pays particular attention to the advertisers...

Ket Ferguson loves design...James Burrows buries himself in ad production challenges.

We all value our readers and advertisers and invite comments and suggestions. For editorial or advertising information, do call (508) 362-1440.

Sincerely,

Karen Aude

New School in Wellesley

Ann Diggins does what Ann Diggins does best — teaches art. And in a dream-come-true reality, Diggins recently opened The Children's Art Studio at 2 Hollis Street. She's not alone in her enthusiasm for the small school. Local businesses have chipped in seed money; friends have donated lots of things, and the school has grown from 18 students to 46 in a few short months. For information, call (617) 239-0633.

PAAM Welcomes James Lechay Donation

The Provincetown Art Association and Museum Collection Committee recently accepted a donation to the museum's collection of three works from the artist James Lechay. The donation was in response to the committee's request, as part of its plan to expand the museum's art collection by increasing the range of works by artists whom they have identified as being under-represented at present.

Lechay has had many solo exhibitions and has exhibited at Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington DC to name a few. Examples of the artist's work are found in many museum and university collections, including Pennsylvania Academy of Art, Brooklyn Museum, Hirschhorn Museum, Art Institute of Chicago and National Gallery of American Art. Lechay has received awards from American Academy of Arts and Letters, Walker Design Center, Des Moines Art Center and National Academy of Design.

Provincetown Art Association and Museum plans an exhibition in the summer of 1994 to showcase works donated.

The sense of place so integral to the Provincetown experience, his interaction with peers of like passion and a two-year experience as visual fellow at the Fine Arts Work Center, enhanced Baker's already powerful commitment to painting.

Richard Baker

Continued from page 1 referred to as a "super reality," Baker's approach is stylistically distinct. While there is some scant suggestion of an hallucinatory atmosphere, his work is distinguished by its intelligence and poetic sensibilities. Whether consciously or not, this artist simply asks the viewer to ponder relationships, not only between objects but between an unquestioning acceptance of objects within a particular time and space. Once pondered, the viewer confronts his or her own self within the broader context of life and living.

Over the years, Baker's paintings have evolved from consideration of a single object — a tulip, an iris, a cut of steak, for examples — against a flat color background. The artist grappled with the ideas of locating and/or not locating something within space; he worked with color and ground and, in a phrase, concerned himself, in his words, with "how to make a good painting." Again, it was the sense of presence which Baker explored. "The object...me in front of the object...me painting the object," says Baker of the evolution of these earlier paintings into his current work which involves another kind of space.

"Untitled" by Richard Baker: oil on linen. Private collection.

At first, Baker says he was uncomfortable with this new "space" which seemed to insist itself into his work. "But then," he says, "it dawned on me to combine two kinds of spaces, the object and the landscape. The color field became an actual field." There developed he says, "a charge... looking at something up close quite intimately," while, he adds, at the same time, "looking at the distance quite intimately."

The result of this ongoing investigation is evident in Baker's work. Mutually exclusive elements probe our consciousness. It is the verisimilitude, the subtle exploration of illusion, the elusiveness and poetry of his paintings to which we respond.

Richard Baker was born in Baltimore, Maryland, in a small steelworking community. His interests leaned toward the sciences until junior high when the arts began to take precedence. Following high school, Baker attended Maryland Institute of Art which he credits with having helped to instill in him a sense of discipline toward his work. For several years, Baker maintained a studio in Boston in Fort Point Channel, a haven for artists during the late 70s, early 80s. Travel in Europe followed. Eventually, life's various twists and turns led Baker to Provincetown where he now resides year round.

The sense of place so integral to the Provincetown experience, his interaction with peers of like passion and a two-year experience as visual fellow at the Fine Arts Work Center, enhanced Baker's already powerful commitment to painting.

Soft spoken with a warm smile and quick humor, Richard Baker is thoughtful when contemplating his work. He is mindful of his audience only to the extent that "an audience completes a work," he says. "One half of a piece happens in the studio, the other half when someone sees it." Baker sees art as communication but adds, "when I'm working, an audience is fixative." He muses, "Poets sometimes say that when writing verse they think of a particular person. Me. I'm not aware of who that person is, but I am aware that there is a person."

Richard Baker

This act of seeing is an intensely personal exercise for Baker, an exercise which ultimately translates into an intensely reverent experience for the viewer.

Baker has enjoyed several solo exhibitions and participated in many more group shows. He is the recipient of several prestigious grants and awards including his most recent — a 1992 New England Foundation for the Arts grant. His work is included in the collection of Museum of Fine Arts in Boston as well as numerous private collections.

Clearly, viewers feel an intuitive connection to Baker's eerily poised still life/landscapes. They are pure of form, rendered with utmost clarity, yet the reality is in the unreality of Baker's dream-like canvases. ▲

FACES AND PLACES

By Karen Aude

The annual gala silent auction to benefit Fine Arts Work Center (FAWC) in Provincetown takes place in Boston each spring. In past years, the Institute of Contemporary Art has been host to the festive evening. This has been "tradition." Rule Number One might be "don't mess with tradition." But the FAWC benefit auction was moved to a very sophisticated, very large, very impressive two-story marble foyer-like function space in an office building on Berkeley Street in Boston. And it was very sophisticated and very impressive. It was also a very acoustically unsatisfying experience. The more "homey," comfortably crowded, arty ambience of the FAWC's event at the ICA was lost to glitz. The auction was semi-successful, which is to say not as much money was raised this year as in years past. Who knows why. The fine art of fundraising is at best an imperfect art.

FAWC president Pat DeGroot was on hand to greet guests as was director John Skoyles. Several collectors were in evidence, as was Cambridge auctioneer Jim Bakker and Provincetown gallery owner, Berta Walker. The evening certainly didn't lack for arts scene celebrities. . .

Speaking of Berta Walker and Provincetown and Jim Bakker. . .

The first round of Provincetown openings this season was quiet, though optimistic. Walker featured work by Pasquale Natale and Richard Pepitone and both artists were present to discuss their works. The Provincetown Art Association was packed with artists and public. Seen mingling were mid-Cape artist Sara Holl, Provincetown sculptor Paul Bowen (more on Paul later) . . .

Jim Bakker

Irma Smith,
Gordon Haworth

(wonderful new landscapes), Jan Collins Selman (beautiful pastels continue to evolve), Dianne Vetromille (junk artist extraordinaire), and others. . .

Kendall Gallery is a great example of outdoor ambiance. A rambling sculpture garden wraps around several indoor gallery spaces. Exhibited work is fresh and challenging. . .

The mid-Cape is off to a quiet start. Cummaquid Fine Arts in Barnstable had a very casual Memorial Day opening. A steady flow of people wandered in to congratulate owners Jim Hinkle and Roy Hammer and to welcome in the summer season. . .

In Orleans, galleries are gearing up for a busy season. New Horizons and Artful Hand, both look great. Julian Balrd of Tree's Place proudly reports that gallery artist Loretta Feeney has been awarded the Grumbacher Gold Medal from the prestigious 16th annual Non-Members Exhibition at Salmagundi Club in New York City.

And while we're on the subject of awards — back to Provincetown sculptor Paul Bowen. From 750 applications, the New England Foundation for the Arts has awarded 32 grants to area artists. Bowen was one of 10 sculptors to receive the honor. Congratulations to both Loretta and Paul. . .

Gallery news elsewhere comes from Harwich where gallery directors are making a concerted effort to work together for the benefit of all. This is similar to Provincetown galleries agreeing to Friday night openings town-wide; Wellfleet opting for Saturday. Harwich galleries are clustered in a one-mile stretch on Route 28 — very accessible, very fine galleries featuring both traditional and contemporary work. . .

Other news. . . the annual Cape Cod Antique Dealers Association show at Heritage Plantation attracted antiques lovers despite the threat of rain. Show manager Helen Joyce was not to be discouraged. Heritage Plantation Director Gene Schott and Publicity Director Judi Selleck wandered the exhibits along with Barbara and Charlie Adams, Suzanne Courcier, Steve Belfit, Irma Smith, Gordon Haworth and others. The good news is, lots of show goers held purchases.

Share your news with the editors — awards, trips, exhibitions, comments and concerns. Introduce yourself. We're eager to make your acquaintance. Write or call A-PLUS, P.O. Box 660, Yarmouth Port, MA 02675; (508) 362-1440.

From Rubble to Riches The Greening of Terra Firma

By Karen Aude

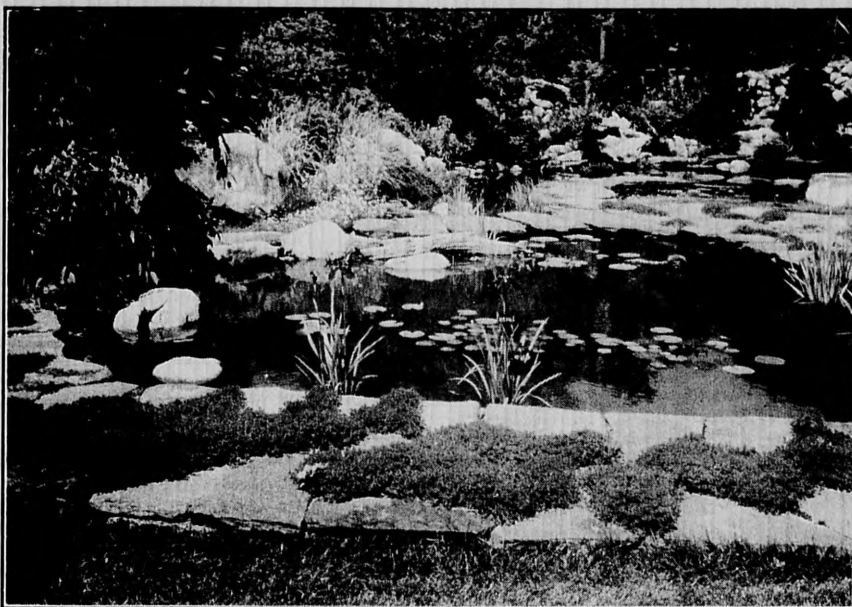

Edible plants need not be relegated to the backyard garden patch. So say Earle Barnhart and Hilde Maingay who approach landscape architecture with an eye toward productivity. Asian Pears, Chinese Chestnuts, Hazelnuts, Korean Nut Pines are some of the more exotic sounding choices.

Plants incorporated into their landscapes often offer multi-purpose functions. Bamboo is a perfect example. As it happens, Barnhart is something of an expert on bamboo, having headed a study on the plant when employed with New

Alchemy. Several strains of bamboo flourish quite nicely in New England. The 25-foot high, patch of these graceful shoots shielding the designers' Falmouth residence from site of their neighbors, is proof enough. "Bamboo is very multi-purpose," says Barnhart. "It's good for erosion control; the new shoots are edible; it makes good building material for fences and garden poles; birds love it — no

Aesthetics play a major role in all landscape architecture. Barnhart and Maingay learned the science of plants at New Alchemy, but their design skills are intuitive. The process begins with a review of the landowner's personal needs. Then, taking into consideration the physical limitations of each site, they concentrate on designing what needs to be done in order to transform any given site into an ecologically sound, aesthetically pleasing environment for the owner. The master plan can be implemented in whole or in stages.

"We design entire landscapes for our client, selecting plants that are good for the wildlife and, often, food for people," says Barnhart, who emphasizes the ornamental qualities of many common, edible plants. "We'll restructure the land, add levels and walls, create physical spaces," he says. "We always include a rock pool," adds Maingay. But the two emphasize that adding a small pool isn't as straightforward as digging a hole and lining it with plastic. There's an art and a science to creating an aquatic environment. Attention to the actual construction is important to assure proper drainage and sustenance not only for the plants, but also for the wildlife the water will attract. "The right combination of plants will keep the water clean," says Barnhart adding that if proper proportions are maintained between plants and water, landowners can introduce fish without having the need to feed fish daily. Frogs, birds and insects will find their own way to the waterhole, and within a short time a bustling wildlife habitat will emerge.

As part of their design philosophy, they try to keep all existing materials on site. Excess dirt is reshaped; boulders utilized. Mimicking natural habitat, they usually incorporate a log on the edge of their ponds. "A lot happens on the natural edges of a pond," says Barnhart. "We create formal edges where people can stand, and natural edges where animals can wander to drink."

The message is simple — with care and consideration it is possible to create environmentally sound, beautiful environments to use and enjoy. ▲

AUCTIONS

On The Block

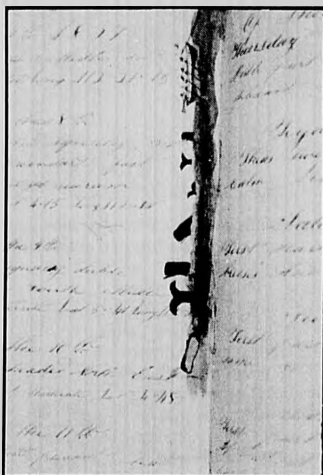

By Faye Andrashko
Summer's rich pickin's on the auction calendar will more than fill your free time. Auction vets can tell you, it's a fun and interesting way to wile away a few hours. Plus — it's always an education.

NEW FACES

Word comes of a new auction alliance between Nelson Lewis and Tom Coughlin of Kingston. Four estates auctions are planned, one per season, with Betty Ann Balboni as auctioneer. Auctions will be held at Coughlin & Coughlin, Purveyors, 42 High Street in Kingston. According to Lewis, the first auction (June 25) features a portrait of William Pitt the Younger (1759-1806), found under the eaves of one of the oldest estates in Plymouth. Somehow the painting was overlooked when other contents of the house were sold 40 years ago! With the artist unknown at this time, the painting is estimated at $5000 to $10,000. Good luck on the new venture!

Willis Henry, July (date to be set): Americana. Whaling log depicts watercolor sketches of whales as well as poems and songs.

SPECIAL EVENTS

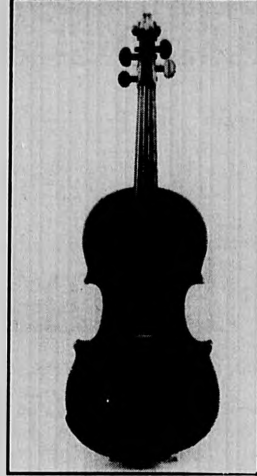

Experts will tell you what you have and what it's worth at Appraisal Day, July 10 at Skinner, Boston. Skinner experts will appraise up to three items per person, and the service is complimentary. If the items can't be easily transported, photos may be substituted. Other houses offer similar services. It's a good opportunity to learn about your pieces and to "rotate stock" — make way for new — if you feel like it.

LOOKING BACK/AHEAD

Carson Orellana of the Nantucket Bay Auction is quite happy, thank you, with the results of his premiere auction held Memorial Day weekend, and how summer is shaping up. "I love the double angle of this business — the interesting items that come in for sale, and the even more fascinating stories people have to tell about them," he says. Auctions are scheduled for every other Sunday through the summer. Orellana is particularly enthusiastic about a special sale building for August which features items linked directly to the island of Nantucket, including a deed for land from the early 1700s, and goods made by island women from "Petticoat Row."

Skinner's May 23 auction of Fine Musical Instruments at the new Boston gallery was "a resounding success, breaking two records," according to Cindy

Tashjian at Bolton. The sale presented a broad selection of fine and, in some cases, rare instruments, drawing a large international crowd from Japan, Germany, England and France. Violins made a fine showing and were the record setters. One offering, Lot 90, a modern Italian Hannibal

Skinner, Boston. Selling price of $46,200 broke auction records for the Italian maker, Hannibal Fagnola at Skinner's Fine Musical Instruments sale May 23.

Fagnola violin exceeded all previous auction prices for the maker's work, ringing up a $46,200 tab, well over its $25,000/$35,000 estimate.

The Bolton Americana auction of June 5 featured many fine lots including over 70 Shaker pieces, all faring well. Lot 146, a mid-19th century cherry table with one drawer and accompanied by a picture of Eldress Emma B. King, whose initials are chalked in on the drawer bottom, brought $7700, against its presale estimate of $3000/$5000.

How's This For Yankee Ingenuity?

One of the maxims of retail is that display cases and shelving should be as mundane as possible so as not to overshadow the merchandise.

Don't try to sell that to Jon Vaughan who thinks the real challenge is to display merchandise as interestingly as possible. At Yankee Ingenuity, the downtown Chatham shop he owns with his wife, Lynne Vaughan, it's sometimes difficult to distinguish the displaying from the displayed.

Vaughan has taken a number of antiques and found objects, restored and converted them into various media for displaying the shop's goods. In one corner is a five-foot galvanized steel air scoop once used by some unnamed World War II-era Liberty Ship to vent its engine room. Purchased from a New Bedford nautical supply dealer, it was stripped of what Vaughan insists "must have been 35 coats of paint. It was so thick I had to chip it off with a hammer." After refinishing the exterior, he created shelf edges using a modeling gauge and had glass shelves made to fit the curve of the scoop. A plexiglass sheet covers the oval scoop and an antique picture lamp provides illumination.

Other display cases also utilize antique picture lamps, two of which illuminate a stage-like display area within a huge, solid mahogany studio camera, circa 1900. Vaughan bought the camera for about $200 at Brimfield, complete with solid brass fittings and (mostly) intact heavy oil cloth bellows. A separate display box was made to fit inside the camera: it slides in place just as a glass plate would. Customers peer into the camera and see a carefully arranged scene of glass dancing figures.

Other antiques-turned-showcases include portable wooden confessionals, said to be Canadian, which have been fitted with shelves (where the arm rests would have been) and nestled comfortably in the front window of the shop. There is a small utility sled with glass shelves placed between the runners, and several sections of a ship's Jacob's ladder fastened to boot hooks for stability. Turn-of-the-century bronze glove-steamers protrude from the wall-like robot hands, holding up a sheet of glass on which sits a fancy jewelry box. A colorful Victorian aquarium contains several pieces of art glass.

"When I bought half of these things I had no idea what I'd use them for," Vaughan says. "Most of them sat in my workshop for maybe five years before I came up with an idea." Customers seem to like the way things are displayed and often ask questions.

"The biggest problem," notes Vaughan, "is that everybody wants to buy them." - Tim Wood

PERSPECTIVES

On Quilting

Socially, aesthetically, politically, emotionally, artistically, philosophically...quilting, say those who quilt, thoroughly satisfies the soul. It is a means of communication, a spiritual and psychological bonding between makers; it is a means of story telling; a chronicling of histories; a series of tales of human love and sadness, triumphs and sorrows. It is an art.

A-PLUS invites five accomplished contemporary quilters from our region to speak of their individual approaches to their work.

"Purple Hearts, Broken hearts," Sandra T. Donabed; 84" X 84"

SANDRA T. DONABED Wellesley Hills

"I worked on 'Purple Hearts, Broken Hearts' as I watched the Gulf War unfold on television. I really thought I was making a quilt for my bed as a respite from my more intricate and involved art pieces. As I watched the war and worried about my teenage son, I couldn't help but relive the days of Viet Nam. I lost my brother to that war and I think I now can better understand the pain my parents went through. I would see boys in uniform run across my screen and it was like it was yesterday.

When I got the basic squares sewn together, I started appliqueing hearts within each one — the first being one for my brother with a purple heart and a silver star. I also thought of Mrs. Sullivan who lost five sons when their ship went down in WWII, so I gave her a square with five gold stars. Several of the other squares are also dedicated to war casualties who have touched my life, and the remainder are for other people I have lost or have touched me with their courage and strength of character during adversity. I ended up with a highly personal statement of tragedy and loss, but if one doesn't know the stories, I think the quilt is really quite interesting graphically. I sleep under it every night and it gives me great comfort.

Most of my work is more humorous, even that with a message of some sort. Basically I use my quilts as a kind of autobiographical journal. (Someone once asked me why I do this and I told them it's because no one can read my handwriting!)

I have found that the solitary life a quilter faces is very good for introspection. I have saved thousands on therapy because I am forced to think out and work on and review a situation over and over until it can be fit into a quilt. I am influenced by daily events, newspaper articles (usually about some aberration or another!), trips and events, my family and house; sometimes just a neat piece of fabric triggers a whole quilt. I frankly don't know how I would live a life without this creative outlet."

LUCRETIA ROMEY East Orleans

"Quilts have traditionally been associated with the bed. American women pioneers sewed quilts as comforters for conception, birth and death. The making of these quilts became celebrations of friendship.

I make quilts using thread and fabric the way a painter might use paint and paper. I value the reference of the sewn cloth as a covering for the body, but these quilts hang on the wall. They are landscapes, figure studies or abstract assemblages of line and color. Strips of cloth or cut shapes are hand sewn to batting and cotton backing to create these images. Hand quilting forms a tracery of "drawing" on the quilt surface.

The quilt medium offers the artist unlimited possibilities to explore texture and pattern as well as a great richness of color. I work in a small studio overlooking Mill Pond in East Orleans. The ebb and flow of the tide and the changing colors of sea and sky inspire me. The raucous antics of the gulls are my constant companions."

JUDY BECKER Newton

"My work is about simple things: events in my life, places I travel. The Moorish tracery of the Alhambra, my daughter's glassblowing, the colors of Fra Angelico's frescoes, the tree out my window have all influenced recent quilts.

I like fabric for its color, pattern and feel. I love fabric for its connection with anonymous women of the past, who produced wonderful works with needle and thread."

ANTIQUES

Simply stated, a quilt is a fabric sandwich consisting of three separate layers (the top, the filling and the lining) that have been sewn together.

The Great American Coverup

Q U I L T I N G

By Brian Cullity

Flowers and snakes and flags and villages — the iconography found on our ancestors' quilts ranged from the conventional to the bizarre.

Talented women using cloth as palettes and needles and thread for brushes created some of the most dazzling, personal and creative works of art to be found in the 18th and 19th centuries. Many of the most inspired, expressive, and often puzzling designs are to be found on that body of work made by the quilting technique called applique work.

Simply stated, a quilt is a fabric sandwich consisting of three separate layers (the top, the filling and the lining) that have been sewn together. The type of quilt is determined by the nature of the top layer. The three general categories of quilt types are the one-piece, the pieced and the applique. One-piece quilts are considered to be the earliest type made in America and were ornamented by sewing decorative patterns onto the surface with a running stitch. The technique of piecing quilts was accomplished by joining small shapes of cut fabric together with a seam to form a larger sheet.

Applique work, the third type of quilt making, is the subject of this article. To applique means "to put on or layer on," and is from the French word "appliquer." The process involves cutting out a pattern from a piece of fabric and sewing it onto a larger fabric ground.

Applique work is especially adaptive to narrative or pictorial design as anything which can be drawn can also be rendered in fabric by this process. Patterns were often drawn on paper and then traced to the fabric prior to cutting. Examples, cut from an early Barnstable Patriot newspaper are in the collection of the Nye Family of America.

Historically, references to quilts in America are seldom seen prior to the second quarter of the 18th century. The earliest probates from the Cape region typically list generic terms for the bed and its accouterments. The 1678 inventory of the Reverend Thomas Walley of Barnstable lists "a feather bed, 2 bolsters, 2 blankets and a coverlid." Another chamber included much the same but also had a bed "rugg." Later, by the mid-18th century, we start to see quilts specifically inventoried. In 1750, the estate of John Howes of Yarmouth included a "black check coverlid, a blew coverlid and a red quilt" in addition to "one old quilt" in the rear chamber.

Specific types of quilts are seldom mentioned and we are forced to speculate on the techniques used to make the "bed quilt" valued at one pound, fourteen shillings in the 1750 estate of Reverend Tupper of Sandwich. It is tempting to assume that the quilt in question was an elaborate appliqued example given the relatively high valuation placed upon it.

Quilts are basic utilitarian objects designed to keep people warm. It is the addition of the decorative features and the skill with which they were wrought that adds to the aesthetic and monetary value of these textiles. The women who created these masterpieces of art had to excel in design, imagination, color use and have excellent spatial awareness. Creativity, however, was not the sole criteria for creating a textile tour de force. The very best appliqued quilts are successful because the technical proficiency of the maker was combined with superlative decorative designs.

The earliest appliqued quilts often utilized imported block-printed chintz for the designs. Delicate trees, flowers and animals were cut from the expensive fabric and were appliqued to the white cotton or linen quilt top in a decorative or imaginative fashion. This allowed the maker to stretch a small amount of material to cover a whole quilt. This technique evolved in time to encompass all manner of pictorial and geometric patterns created out of various scraps of cloth. The most commonly seen designs incorporated botanical motifs in wreaths or repeating blocks of symmetrically placed elements. Oak leaves, roses, artichokes, pineapples, laurel leaves and tulips are found in an endless array of colorful patterns. A varia-numerous birds lying among the fruit laden branches while the whole is surrounded by a wreath of vines and grapes.

A veritable cascade of color and form flow from the quilt pictured in Figure 2. Most of the squares depict scenes from and after the Civil War while others show people involved in a variety of daily tasks. It is a powerful statement in fabric and a testimony to the deeply held feelings of the talented woman who created this moving work of folk art.

The applique technique was most suitable for personalizing quilts. Family record quilts, album quilts and wedding quilts are but a few of the approaches used by women to perpetuate the memories of friends, hardships and love with their nimble and talented fingers. An extraordinary example of this is seen in the color illustration. The 35 appliqued squares contain floral devices, a family, a swan, a heart in hand and a white pig. It is signed and dated by the maker, Sarah Ann

Wilson, 1854, but little else is known of its history. Although the significance of the various squares has disappeared with time, it remains an exceptional example of one woman's individuality and creativity.

One cannot help but wonder at the deeply held love and devotion these women had for their families and admire the skill and endurance that was necessary to make these stunning creations. This task is all the more unbelievable in light of the difficulties and hardships women endured throughout this period of American history. These trails of thread continue to weave their colorful, emotional and enduring story to all who care to

The Market

Prices for quilts vary considerably depending on quality, color, condition, topic and age, among other things. The Civil War narrative quilt in Figure 2 brought $264,000 at auction in 1991. However, you do not have to be wealthy to enjoy collecting these works of art. Very fine applique quilts can be had for a few hundred dollars while even exceptional examples are occasionally found priced in the low thousands. It is best to remember, however, that quilts require careful handling, are susceptible to light, insects and oils from hands. They can also be difficult to display given their large size and delicate fabric.

take the time to look and appreciate. The gifted seamstress of the 18th and 19th century was the creative and talented equivalent of any male artist of the period and in many instances left works which are far more intimate than any seen on canvas. ▲

ADVANCE NOTICE

Advance Notice: Part II Observations, Trends and Forecasts In Interior Design and Furnishings

By Lisa A. Goodwin

Highpoint is, after all, the design event of the year. And so, I continue my ramblings from the last issue of A-PLUS.

The "in" designer event at the spring market, was the sold out luncheon to hear Raymond Waites, the creative director of Gear, speak on "Designing for the Neo-Millennium." Raymond has designed "The New American Look" (I loved it) that its many licensees debuted this spring. During his informative and highly entertaining talk on design directions for the 90s, Raymond gave us an important new definition of "contemporary." Showing a slide of Webster's dictionary definition of the word: "belonging to the same period of time," "of about the same age," "current," "of a time," he reinforced his premise that contemporary is "not steel and chrome and not rectangles! Contemporary is looking at history and re-interpreting it" for how we live today.

LODGE LOOK...

With an increasing number of stories to pick from, The Lodge Style will continue to be important for the 90s — Cowboys (found on everything), Indians, rope and buffalo motifs make up the "Wild West" theme. Vendors have even raided second hand stores from Texas to California to offer the Real McCoy in used Western saddles, lassos, boots, chaps and hats. One has to wonder if there is anything left for real cowboys to wear?

Key fabrics shown to capture the look are denim, buffalo checks, whip stitching and weathered leather.

Those of you movie goers who saw "A River Runs Through It" will understand the newest Lodge trend — "Field and Stream." Most important motifs shown to illustrate this expression include fisherman in action poses, fish, fishing lures and tackle boxes, hunting scenes, moose, bears, canoes and paddles. This look is great fun, very affordable, and a few choice pieces can go a long way in reviving that dull family room.

THE ENCHANTED COTTAGE...

This is still a major trend and will continue to be strong for years to come — botanical and fruit motifs, painted finishes, natural woods. The adjectives here are homespun, nostalgic, Victorian and garden. Layered floral fabrics, ticking stripes, folklore scenes, crewel and patchwork were seen, with toile and other one-color prints the important fabrics to watch. And gingham checks and plaids are hot hot hot!

Fabulous garden statuary, urns and benches to be used indoors as well as out, were available everywhere — and in very affordable price points. Hint—look for pieces with antiqued and weathered finishes. I found a fabulous California artist making whimsical furniture using picket fence motifs. LOCAL DESIGNERS...

Masco Companies featured showroom settings designed by the winners of traditional home magazines 1993 design awards. Gary Mcbournie from Sherborn designed a boys room for Lexington Furniture. An English Country sitting room was designed for Lineage by Watertown's Elizabeth Speert. Congrats to both!

THE FINISHING STORY

Lots of different materials from log pole to marble were available for selection. By far the stars of the show were anything wrought iron or metal and faux and hand painted finishes. Today's iron is very different from what comes to mind for most people. Look for scrolled curves, graceful lines and distressed colored finishes (anything but traditional matte black).

Handpainted pieces can also be found in all stores, from whimsical novelty pieces to more sophisticated European influenced designs. Mass market appeal means you can easily find these new finishes in all price points. Faux artistry has grown to meet this demand. Locally you can find someone to turn your old furniture or yard sale finds into something new and exciting.

The current twist to furniture is combining different materials and finishes together on one piece — like metal and wood. The greatest examples I found were by Ralph Lauren and Lane, who both had wood base tables with woven cane patterns inlaid into the top. Manufacturers feel confident that the personal style we learned in the pages of 80s decorating magazines, has prepared us for this mix of elements in one object.

With what I observed at market, consumers will have a wonderful harvest. Finding everything you need for how you personally live in your homes, today and advancing into the decade, will be right at your fingertips.

Salvage Shops Say Soho

By Lisa A. Goodwin

Forget economics. It's nostalgia for the past that affects architectural salvage. Forget fashion. Forget political symbolism. It's creativity and passion that shape the business of creative interior design. Architectural components are viewed, more and more frequently, with the eye of the artist. In fact, some of the newest salvage businesses exude the ambiance of a Soho Art Gallery rather than old-fashioned junk yard.

David Greenwood owns The Salvage Shop, Old Bostonian in Dorchester. He says that "customers come here to use their imagination." An Eastlake mantle might transform into a headboard, or a pair of corbel brackets salvaged from the exterior of an old building could end up supporting a glass top hall table. One of his clients even paneled a ceiling from select sections of old doors.

Greenwood sells a lot of old mantles, especially around the holidays, many to people who do not even have fireplaces. "People buy them for the aesthetics," he explains. "They are homey and add warmth to a room. You can buy a nice antique mantle stripped and ready to go starting at $600. Less if you want to refinish it yourself."

Stained glass windows are also popular according to Greenwood.

"Hanging them on hooks over existing windows presents the same look as building them in, and," he adds, "they're great for people who rent, but want the romance of an architectural antique."

Antique plumbing fixtures are also a salvage specialty. "Only a few people really have an eye for this," says Francis Fahey, owner of A-1 Antique Plumbing Supplies in Somerville. "Vitreous pedestal lavatories from the 20s and 30s and claw footed tubs, especially the large six-foot size that will hold two people," are the most common things, he says. "Old plumbing fixtures are more durable and elegant," he adds, and people buy them because it "brings them back in time, back to their childhood and memories of Grandma's house."

In searching for antique plumbing fixtures, "condition is important," he warns, "Make sure there are no cracks or breaks that will leak water. Spider lines or crazing are OK. It happens to porcelain over time and adds character." Fahey does not recommend repainting pieces. "New repainted finishes don't last, and when you put a new finish on an old bath tub, for instance, it just doesn't look right—it's supposed to look old!"

Jim Herbert's Wholesale Antiques, is also located in Somerville. His inventory includes a unique selection of architectural effects. "When you are dealing with antiques no two pieces are the same. We will do modification and restoration to make them fit into your plans. Perhaps someone says, 'These columns are great, but I need them darker or shorter.' We do it, says Herbert.

Herbert has a wide European and Japanese clientele. "They like American stuff because it is exotic to items found are unsalvageable." Raymer admits that "although most people are happy with quality reproductions, there is a certain segment of the population who wants unique decorative old pieces. He sells to a lot of interior designers and architects, and has noticed that many people who once remodeled their old homes with modern fixtures and materials are now trying to re-restore them with original period appointments. "We sell mantles, of course, plumbing fixtures, antique lighting and iron as long as it's not ordinary looking," adds Raymer. Re-adapting objects for new uses is very popular according to Raymer.

Judy Collins owner of Peach Tree Designs in Yarmouth Port and Mashpee Commons agrees. Among other things, Collins redesigns architectural windows into mirrors, placing the unique objects within eclectic settings for her clients.

Salvage hunting is an adventure into the past. You might discover an old barber pole, red and white striped beneath its shrouding of dust that could make a whimsical coat rack in a child's room; you might solve the seating problem in your kitchen by creating a banquet table from a pair of heavily carved Gothic Revival church pews. Even a 50s juke box could be the perfect addition to your family room.

If you bring along your imagination, you might even find a way of building the past into your life today or into your dreams for tomorrow. ▲

Designer Judy Collins salvaged an architecturally interesting window frame and restored it to tip top condition. She then converted it to a mirror and gave it a position of prominence in this room designed for a recent local showhouse.

On Quilting

RHODA R. COHEN Weston

"After a childhood spent in nearly every other pastime except art, I had a chance encounter with easel painting and, more importantly, with a sympathetic teacher who seems to have pointed the way. Years of painting, drawing, sculpting and sewing followed, accompanied by continuous study of art history.

Then another chance meeting with a gifted teacher of both quilting and seeing, and life took another turn. It soon became clear there is an important distinction between the shared experience of quilters and that of painters — there seems to be a wonderful interdependence acknowledged freely among the former. Was there ever a time when the latter shared their best stuff as broadly? Probably not.

Sharing seems to be in the very nature of the quilt medium. As bits and pieces are being exchanged, small corners of experience, attitudes about life and even deep secrets are clinging to the fabric — a singularly intimate form of social interchange for sure.

Over time, my absorption in the consideration of quilt-making has come to dominate; it pervades everything. It has a way of forcing me to think hard about what I like, what I need. It is as if a violation would occur should elements of insincerity show in the work. But playing little jokes on myself is always part of it, too."

FRANCES ABELL BRAND West Dennis

"Designing and constructing quilts satisfies both my sewing and artistic bent. Also, it gives me great satisfaction to create something of beauty to pass on. If you put a quilt together with good fabrics and workmanship it can last well over 100 years and become an heirloom. Every quilt which I make is a heritage to be passed on to members of my family and to friends.

I believe quilts are meant to be used. My children and grandchildren have grown up with my quilts. I like to think that they were kept warm by all the loving stitches.

I especially like to take traditional quilting designs and combine them with something of my own creation. My favorite part of making a quilt is the hand quilting which I feel is my therapy. It soothes and relaxes me.

Before I started to quilt, I spent many years taking classes and studying various painting techniques which required the use of design and color. All of this has helped me in the quilting process which, in turn, has brought back my childhood love of sewing. I have been inspired and influenced in improving my skills by several quilting teachers in the area who have encouraged me to enter my quilts for judging in contests and shows. I feel competition is important because it gives your work substance. It is stimulating and makes you grow and improve.

I love to look at and examine antique quilts. They create warmth and a sense of comfort. I appreciate the artistry, creativity and workmanship demonstrated by the early quiltmakers. They created beautiful quilts by doing much with little. Through my own quilting and reading about quilts and their makers, I feel I have established a bond with these women."

Sweet Sweet Music

Guide to Symphony Concerts on Cape

Almost nothing soothes the soul as sweetly as music floating on the summer breeze. Open air concerts reign from "Pops in the Park" in Orleans and "Mashpee Night at the Pops" (both featuring the Cape Cod Symphony Orchestra) to Boston Pops' annual 4th of July Concert on the Charles River Esplanade and Hyannis's own "Pops by the Sea" featuring the very same Boston Pops. It's the sense of community, the sense of sharing. It's the cultural experience, the social experience, the camaraderie. Here's a sneak peek. Plan early. Tickets for these popular evenings sell quickly.

"Night at the Pops Mashpee"

Saturday: July 31, 7 pm

Mashpee Commons transforms into a magical kingdom of sorts when Cape Cod Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of maestro Royston Nash, strikes its first note at Mashpee Night at the Pops. Reserved seating is awarded to special ticket holders along with some additional privileges.

There's something special about the Mashpee concert. Maybe it's the "urban" setting of the Mashpee Commons shopping community, the lawn chairs on the brick walkways, blankets on the sidewalk. Maybe it's the jumble of activities — the shopping, the picnicking, the visiting, the listening, the wanderings. Somehow, it all comes together for one beautiful evening. This concert ends with a spectacular fireworks display around 9 pm. Individual seating tickets are $30 each. For additional ticket information, call (508) 477-3887.

"Pops by the Sea," Hyannis

Sunday: August 8, 5 - 7 pm

By far one of the most popular cultural events of the summer season, "Pops by the Sea" has mushroomed into an extravaganza to benefit the arts on Cape Cod. Sponsored by the Arts Foundation of Cape Cod with Bank of Boston as principal underwriter, and presenting the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra with Harry Ellis Dickson conducting, the eighth annual open-air gala attracts an ever increasingly large number of music lovers. Each concert features an honored guest conductor. Last year Beverly Sills conducted with aplomb. Past guest conductors have included Mike Wallace (1991); Walter Cronkite (1990); Art Buchwald (1989). And 1993 features none other than Julia Child, as honorary chairperson and guest conductor.

Pops by the Sea takes place on the Hyannis Green. Reserved seating at tables for eight entitle ticket holders to wander within the bounds of the roped off band shell area. Hundreds of general admission seats offer equally wonderful access to the sights and sounds of the beautiful music.

Typical of many a good idea, Pops by the Sea continually evolves. The annual "Mocktail" gala, held the evening before the concert is rapidly becoming one of the mid-Cape's most talked about social event. For detailed ticket information, call (508) 790-ARTS.

Pops in the Park, Orleans

Saturday: August 28; 8 pm

Pops By The Sea's Honorary Chairperson and Guest Conductor, Julia Child

Chamber of Commerce. Held at Eldredge Park in Orleans, this evening under the stars features the Cape Cod Symphony Orchestra, Royston Nash conducting. The park opens at 5:30 pm. Bring blankets or chairs, picnics, friends and neighbors. General admission is $10. Benefactors, sponsors, and patrons will enjoy reserved seating at tables for eight and, depending on ticket purchased, enjoy VIP "Mocktail" party, VIP parking, hors d'oeuvres, program ads and additional complimentary general admission tickets. Proceeds benefit a scholarship fund, sponsored by the Chamber, awarded to one Nauset Region senior each year. For ticket information and sales, call (508) 240-2627 or (800) 453-3431.

OUT AND ABOUT

Invitation to "Fire" In Needham

The Potters Shop in Needham offers more than pots to the public, though this fine gallery displays a selection of work. Connected to The Potters School, the shop also encourages commissions, inviting collectors to stretch their imaginations and work with any one of a number of potters to create personally meaningful objects.

But to potters in the region, The Potters Shop offers firing facilities (electric high fire and raku). The options are several, from dropping off work for firing by Potters Shop potters or loading, firing and unloading the kiln personally. Here, potters also will find materials and supplies — chemicals, raw materials to mix personal glazes, clays (two or three stoneware bodies, raku and two porcelain bodies), tools — and books. According to master potter Steven Brannman, the book list numbers close to 400 titles. There's a mail order catalog and most are available for purchase in the gallery.

In addition to founding The Potters Shop, Brannman is on the Board of Trustees of the Studio Potter organization and the Advisory Board to Studio Potter Network, two of the more prestigious and influential groups in the field of pottery.

Prints Tell the Tale In Boston

Presented as the third annual "Summer Sampler of Fine Prints," Fusco & Four offers a collection of early 20th century fine art prints through August. The overview takes in all techniques — lithograph, aquatint, drypoint, etching, wood engraving, woodcut, linocut and silkscreen. The theme this season is "American," and several regional printmakers of note are featured. Rockwell Kent (1882-1971) is one illustrator who would be of some interest to collectors of regional work, especially Cape Cod collectors, given the interest in this artist's awesome ceiling mural at Cape Cinema in Dennis.

"Tucked In" In North Truro

It's debatable whether or not any gift shop anywhere has the space, never mind the inventory, to display so many bed-size quilts at one time — try 100 or more! The rambling rooms in this North Truro establishment are not particularly large, with the exception of the upstairs loft. But displays are attractive and accessible. Quilts are Amish — 1990s style. You'll find some traditional colors and patterns, but you'll also find contemporary fabrics and designs. Besides the sheer astonishment of having so many quilts so absolutely accessible, visitors will find consistently superb workmanship. Talk about environmentally sensitive! What a perfect way to keep that thermostat down next winter.

Quilts, Quilts and — more quilts. The camera captures a tiny portion of vast displays in Truro's The Whitman House.

Best Kept Secret In Hanover

It's tiny. And it's tucked away in Merchant's Row on Washington Street. On the second level. But it's jam packed with work by more than 100 American artists and craftspeople. Pottery and porcelains, stained glass, ship models, blown glass paperweights, wrought iron lamps and chandeliers, wood, jewelry, paintings, prints, hand-painted children's clothing...Have we made our point? The secret's out. Enjoy.
